Governor Requests Disaster Designation For 27 Counties

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

DOVER (York Co.)— John Shearer, Jr., is a husky-built farmer, used to wrangling bags of seed grain and maneuvering large equipment.

Thursday he knelt in a field of crackling dead weeds and bone-dry soil, cradling in work-worn hands a curled, limp, dying stalk of corn. Kneeling with the York grain producer on the parched land under a broiling morning sun were Governor Robert Casey and Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff.

After examining the sparse stand of wilting corn, Governor Casey announced that he would immediately request from U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan a drought disaster declaration for 27 Pennsylvania counties. A federal disaster declaration would make drought-stricken farmers in those counties, and 25 bordering ones, eligible for federal emergency disaster assistance.

"From the Maryland border to the northern tier, we are seeing tremendous crop losses from the extremely high temperatures, which hit earlier than usual, and from the lack of rainfall.

"Based on the data Secretary Wolff has been helping us gather and this examination, we will ask for a formal disaster declaration. The production losses to date are already estimated at $195 million," the Governor said. "York County is especially hard hit, as is Cumberland County.

"A drought has a depressing effect on the whole economy," said Casey, noting the related loss of jobs, lower income for rural business and increased food prices.

Chester Holstein Raffle Calf Going To Brethren Relief Sale

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.)—The winning ticket in the raffle for a registered calf at the Chester County Holstein Field Day was drawn for Cliff Gibble, Select Sires representative. Since Cliff doesn't have a place for the calf, he announced he was going to donate the calf to the Brethren Church relief sale to be held on September 27.

The calf, a Black Star out of a Melvin daughter was purchased at the Harold Bare sale. Harold deducted half the bid price for the county association. A total of 750 tickets were sold at $1 each, and more could have been sold if they had been printed.

"Needless to say, the raffle was a big success and we will want to try it again," said Ken Umble, field day chairman.

Maryland Dairy Princesses Prepare For Competition

EVA MARTIN
Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, Md. — Maryland has six regional dairy princesses competing for the state title this year. They met recently for a seminar on the beautiful campus of Hood College in Frederick.

The campus setting was a great place to become better acquainted and discuss many pertinent subjects for their role if chosen Maryland Dairy Princess. Dairy food preparation, skit presentations, public speaking and grooming were some of the subjects presented at the seminar.

Tonya Jean Broadwater

Tonya is a resident of Accident, Md. and represents Allegheny-Garrett. She is the 17-year-old daughter of Gary and Virginia Broadwater.

Tonya graduated from Northern Garrett High and plans to attend college pursuing a nursing career.

For the past two years, she has enjoyed being involved in SHOP which is Students Helping Other People. She is also treasurer of the VJCA Club and Craft Club. Her family owns 135 head of Holsteins.

Dawn Margaret Downey

Dawn's parents are Frank and Carolyn Downey. They live on a 300 head Holstein/Jersey dairy farm near Downsville, Md.

Dawn is 15 and attends Williamsport High School. After graduation, she plans to attend college and major in elementary education.

This past summer she was chosen to attend the 1991 National 4-H Conference. She has been a state public speaking champion.

Rogers-Allen Order Approved In New York State

BATAVIA, NY — Efforts by the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA) to obtain higher milk prices for farmers have paid off with the approval of New York's Rogers-Allen order last week.

Based upon New York's actions, surrounding states have raised prices, too, in efforts to keep dairy farmers from bankruptcy during this period of severely depressed milk prices.

"This is a historic decision for dairy farmers," Executive Director Carmen L. Ross said of the vote that approved the Rogers-Allen order. "Farmers have made their voices heard in establishing a price for their milk. Establishment of this order proves that if dairy farmers work together through an organization like RCMA, they can accomplish their goals."

It is the first time the Rogers-Allen Act, passed in the late 1930s, has been used to establish statewide minimum milk prices.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, July 17, 1991

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices continued to trend higher in the Northeast and Midwest, unchanged elsewhere. The market tone was steady to firm. Demand continued moderate to very good, mostly fairly good. Supplies were short to adequate with the large sizes in closest balance. Additional offerings were light, and usually sold rapidly when offered. Breakers provided a mixed demand for shell eggs, and some plants limited shell egg receipts to previous commitments only while others aggressively sought breaking stocks. Live hen markets were also mixed from steady in the Midwest and Northeast to often fully steady in the Southeast and South Central areas.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS. FEDERAL-STATE: Trucklot buying interest was mixed and selective. Boneless skinless breasts were in closer balance but still at least adequate. Whole breasts remained in close supply; however, buyer interest was less aggressive and spot supplies were available. Leg quarters were in heavy supply. Other leg items were generally adequate. Wings were tightening and prices were trending higher.

Atlanta, Ga.
Wednesday, July 17, 1991

Trading on light type fowl continues to be at negative values as availability easily satisfies processing requirements. Offerings of heavy hens have slowed and buyers are bidding at higher levels for next week's slaughter needs. Market tone generally steady on lights and fully steady to firm on heavies.

OPINION

Hey, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles

Dear Dudes,

Can we talk?

We've been friends for a long time, right? Back in '88, before you Green Teens made it into Saturday prime time, I was there for you. I tuned you in at 6 a.m. while my younger son drank his second bottle of the day. For a long time, you were my only original contribution to adult conversation: "You wouldn't believe this cartoon show that's on before dawn."

I know all your names, your colors, your weapons. I know which one of you is the oldest, tallest, heaviest. I know your friends and your enemies. I know about Dimension X. I know what makes you say "Cowabunga." My sons own turtle toys and turtle towels, turtle sheets and turtle sleep sacks. I've bought your cookies, your cereal and your Crunchabunga pizza snacks.

I even bought your pudding-filled turtle pies — once. I couldn't get enthusiastic about something with green frosting marketed as "fresh from the sewer to you."

It's your latest commercial venture that I want to talk to you about. It's your new children's book, "ABC's for a Better Planet." I ordered it when the Scholastic Book order form came home in my older son's weekly school folder. I have to ask: Did you guys even read this stuff before you put your name on it?

I know you're environmentally conscious. I've seen you on TV, Michaelangelo, recycling aluminum cans to get money for chocolate artichoke anchovy pizza. And you, Leonardo, you put on a sweater rather than turn up the heat. But I have to take exception to this book.

Donatello, you're the scientist of the group. You've got a college degree, earned by correspondence from Sopho U. I. expect some objectivity, at least, from you. But take a look at your book, at "M is for Meat." It's your picture on that page. It says some growth hormones injected in meat animals cause cancer. But it doesn't say how infinitesimal the risk is. It says a lot of the world's cereal crop is fed to cattle, when it could be used to feed starving people instead. But there's no mention about how grazing animals turn forages people can't eat into meat that they can.

Or how about "P is for pesticides?" The book says some pesticides are still in food when it gets to the supermarket. Again, no mention of how infinitesimal that risk is. The book says, eat less meat and get your folks to buy organically raised beef cattle and organically grown produce.

There's some good stuff in your book — "Ask lots of Questions," "Volunteer to help clean up" the environment (Could you add, "and also your room"?), don't eat fast food too often (Sad news, Raphael, dude) — but mostly it's over-simplified and because of this, alarmist. Most respected scientists would say, for example, that the jury's still out on the greenhouse effect. But not your book.

I'm not convinced this book is really for children. Kids who are learning their ABCs are not ready to read or comprehend words you use, like chlorofluorocarbons or polychlorinated biphenyls. I think the audience is us — adults who read to children who are just figuring out the alphabet.

I like what I read to be objective — or at least factual. And I expect the same in children's books. But I'm going to take some advice from this book — I'm going to recycle it - now.

Next time, do what Master Splinter's always telling you: think first, then act.

End of lecture. See you Saturday morning.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz

To Test Feed

Every farmer mixing or making his own feed should have a regular feed testing program.

The recent dry weather makes it more important to be testing feed ingredients. Weight per bushel, nitrate levels, energy, protein content, and mineral levels are a few of the feed quality factors affected by weather.

In addition, crops grown under stress could have higher mycotoxin levels. Because of the dry weather, many farmers will be purchasing feed. Make sure you have quality specifications defined and you spot check to make sure the feed meets your quality standards.

Some items to consider are minimum protein, foreign matter, mycotoxins, TDN, and moisture. There is a great deal of variability within every type of feed. To obtain the best performance, test your feed ingredients. Then formulate your rations from actual values instead of book values.

To Have Your Water Tested

Farms have their own private water supply that is not subject to routine water testing. Thus, it is very important that private water supplies be tested at least once a year.

To protect your family and livestock, your water should be tested for bacteria, nitrates, sulfates, dissolved solids, and pH. These tests address the most common and serious health concerns, and indicate contamination from sewage or manure.

There are many private labs that test water. Contact the lab nearest you to obtain test kits and instructions for collecting the sample.

Knowing the status of your water quality and taking corrective measures when necessary will help you prevent serious health problems for your family and livestock.

If you have any questions on water testing, interpreting water test results, and treating water quality problems, Penn State has developed several agricultural engineering fact sheets on these subjects. These fact sheets are available at your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

To Learn About Pesticides

I am amazed at how many people, including farmers, do not understand what is a pesticide.

Many times I see the the phase herbicides and pesticides being used together. When I question people about this, they say herbicides or weed killers are not pesticides.

The truth is that any chemical or other agent used to kill or control pests is a pesticide. "Pesticide" is the general term that includes all classes of chemicals designed to kill or control pests. Herbicides, insecticides, rodenticides, and nematicide are examples of pesticides designed to kill or control specific pests.

Herbicides control weeds, insecticides kill insects, rodenticides kill rodents, and nematicides eliminate nematodes.

We all need and use pesticides to control pests. These pesticides protect public health, increase crop and livestock production, and improve our quality of life. A lot of research and testing goes into a pesticide before it is released for use to the general public.

It is very important to read and follow the label directions before using any pesticide. By reading and following label directions, we are making sure the pest is controlled while not causing harm to beneficial plants and animals, the environment, and humans.

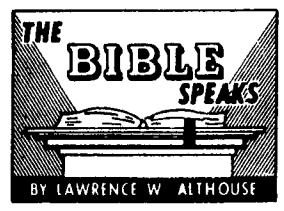
(Turn to Page A11)



Background Scripture:
Nehemiah 5.
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 15:1-11.

No doubt about it: it is far better for us to love God than to fear him. As a parent I learned a long time ago that when my children obeyed me out of love, it was more satisfying than when they obeyed out of fear.

At the same time, I realize that fearing God is better than neither fearing nor loving him. In my own life I recall there were times when I refrained from certain behaviors because I feared my parents' reaction. I wish I had behaved that way out of mature love instead of immature fear, but I'm glad that there was something to keep me from making harmful mistakes. I confess that even today there are times when my fear motivates me instead of love — like on the highway when I want to exceed the speed limit.

My point in all this is that old argument that "you can't legislate morality." Actually, that's not true: we can and we need to. It would be wonderful if we could all be motivated by our sense of righteousness — and it is certainly much better when we are — but until the human race has reached perfection or at least its God-given human potential; that is not likely.

LEGISLATING MORALITY

I will also agree that legislation alone is not the answer. It may persuade people to be just or honest in their actions, even though they don't want to be. Eventually, we need to try to change their attitudes as well as their actions. In other words, legislation is the beginning of morality, and the end. It attempts to force compliance with moral standards, but we also need to work to inspire a desire to do what the law requires.

If I go out this afternoon and buy a used car, I would hope that the dealer would want to be honest and not deceive me about the condition of the car. I would much prefer to deal with someone who would not want to cheat me. At the same time I am glad that there are laws in this state that compel him to be reasonably honest.

STRANGERS AND BRETHREN

I find it interesting that, having met the fearful threat of danger from outside the Jerusalem community, Nehemiah next turns to an equally threatening situation within the community. It is even more significant because, while we might suspect that outsiders might not always treat us honestly, we like to think that those within our own group will. That is why the people were so vigorous in their complaints to Nehemiah. Their families were starving, their creditors were foreclosing on their mortgages, and they were losing what little they had, not to the hostile Samaritans, but to their own Jewish brethren.

Nehemiah was shocked and spoke bluntly about this evil situation. But, more important and quite contrary to our inclinations, he didn't just talk about it, he did something!

Nehemiah didn't wait for either love or maturity to prod the consciences of the exploiters. He didn't mind appealing to fear: "Ought you not to walk in the fear of our God...?" Even after they agreed to cease their exploitation and make restitution, he threatens: "So may God shake out every man from his house and from his labor who does not perform this promise" (5:13).

I personally prefer love and maturity, but there are times when fear is where we have to begin before we can work up to love.

FARMING BACKGROUND: Grew up on dairy farm and was a dairy herd manager for 3 years
BANKING BACKGROUND: 5 years with Farm Credit

Your Farm Credit Banker. Nobody Knows The Field Better.

Sure, you'll find Farm Credit bankers all buttoned up, ready to talk short- or long-term loans, mortgages and sophisticated lines of credit.

But underneath the shirt and tie, you'll find the one thing the other banks don't offer: A fellow farmer.

Most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms and got their college degrees from ag schools. Nearly all of them grew up with 4-H and the Future Farmers of America.

And, if that's not enough, every single one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

That means when you talk to a Farm Credit loan officer about any kind of ag loan, you won't have to waste your time translating to someone who's book smart but farm foolish.

What's more, because Farm Credit loan officers understand farming as well as they understand finances, they're not only smarter, they're faster. After all, they have the same loan closing authority as many local bank presidents.

So when you need competitive rates or creative options, see your local Farm Credit banker. Because nobody knows the field better.

Nobody knows the field better.

Jacques Scoreboard

Chief alfalfa

In 1988-89 Minnesota trials, Chief had the highest resistance rating against Phytophora and Bacterial wilt plus good scores on Anthracnose, Verticillium and Fusarium resistance. Big yields of top quality forage make this one an all-star.

Multi-plier alfalfa

Multifoliate with high yield potential and unmatched disease resistance ratings. In University of Wisconsin disease tests, Multi-plier scored 24 of a possible 25 points. Top quality forage, too.

Maryland Princesses

Other 4-H projects involve showing her jerseys, dairy steers and suffolk sheep.

She will be representing Washington County in the contest.

Donna Johnson

Donna graduated from Damascus High School and plans to attend Montgomery Community College majoring in Elementary Art Education. She enjoys her job as a sales person at the Sporting Tee in Gaithersburg.

She is the 19-year-old daughter of Barbara Johnson from Damascus. Donna owns six head of Holsteins. She was a member of the Maryland State Dairy Bowl Team of Louisville in 1988, member of the Maryland State Judging Team at Louisville in 1989 and a Maryland Junior Holstein Association Member. She was a first place individual and first place reasons winner in the 1990 Maryland State Dairy Judging Contest.

In 1990, the Montgomery County Public Schools gave Donna an award for outstanding service, commitment, and contribution as a student leader.

Gretchen Klein

Gretchen is the 17-year-old daughter of Thomas and Nancy Klein and will be representing Baltimore-Harford.

She graduated from Carroll Christian School and plans to attend York College majoring in communications.

Her school activities include cheerleading, volleyball manager, treasurer of her class and homecoming court. She serves on the Baltimore County Extension Advisory council and has worked at the Maryland State Fair. She enjoys her 4-H dairy foods project.

Jenell Renee Rinehart

Representing Carroll County is Jenell, 18-year-old daughter of John and Sharon Rinehart.

She is a 1991 graduate of Francis Scott Key and plans to attend the University of Maryland School of Agriculture with a major course of study in genetics-dairy science.

After school and on weekends, she helps with farm chores on their holstein dairy farm located near Taneytown, Md. Her other activities include entertaining at civic and dairy banquets, nursing homes and at school with cow puppets she has made.

She is Maryland State Farm Queen and a member of the 1990 winning 4-H Dairy Judging Team. She was secretary of her FFA Chapter and received the Chapter Farmer Award and Leadership Award.

Crystal Annie Smith

Crystal is the 18-year-old daughter of O. Clayton and Shirley Smith of Jefferson. She will be representing Frederick County.

A graduate of Brunswick High School, she plans to attend Frederick Community College and major in dairy science. Her farm chores include milking, raising calves, keeping all the DHI records and registering all calves. She also enjoys taking care of their show animals.

Crystal has played varsity basketball, soccer, softball and tennis and was a member of the Science and Math clubs. She was named a 1991 Star Chapter Farmer, and was a member of the dairy judging team, placing 6th overall.

She is presently the Guernsey Queen for Frederick County.

Survey Shows Farmers Like Newspaper Bedding

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "I just wish I'd started sooner. The cows are cleaner and it's cheap!"

This comment, added to the bottom of a recent survey by Lancaster County Extension Service of users of newspaper bedding, sums up the attitude of most dairymen with the experience using recycled newspapers as bedding.

Other voluntary quotes included:

"...our experience with paper bedding has been very positive with few, if any problems."

"...the best bedding I used in cowstable."

"...there is less odor than when using straw."

And, quite simply:

"Paper is excellent bedding."

With an overwhelming 84% of those responding to the survey indicating that it absorbed moisture well, and comparable percentages reporting cleaner animals and more comfortable stallbeds, it is apparent that effectiveness of the product is not an issue.

When asked about labor requirements, a mere 20% agreed that it is "too time-consuming to handle." Of the remaining 80%, 29% disagree strongly with that statement and the balance (51%) did not feel that this was a major factor. The results would strongly indicate that in most management systems, additional time and/or labor are no different than with more traditional forms of bedding.

When questioned about supply, storage and handling methods, fully two-thirds were getting all or most of their paper for free as whole papers in small bags, either delivered to the farm or picked up at the public drop. Nearly all of these then used a bedding chopper for on-farm processing. Roughly one-third preferred the convenience of buying chopped or shredded bales from a dealer or at auction.

In neither case was availability or consistency of supply cited as a problem. Further, as more municipalities institute recycling programs, there should be more product available. The key will be to effectively match suppliers with potential users. (Please note the

Senate Amends, Approves Egg Refrigeration Law

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Mandatory refrigeration of eggs in Pennsylvania could go into effect as soon as September, according to state legislative officials.

On Thursday, the Senate passed an ammended version of an egg refrigeration law proposal that had already been approved by the House of Representatives.

Steve Cole, executive director of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, said he didn't expect to see any difficulty with having the House concur with the changes made in the Senate.

The proposal was sponsored by Rep. Jesse Stairs in April and it establishes standards of refrigeration for shell eggs which are sold or distributed commercially.

The legislation would require poultry owners who sell shell eggs to refrigerate those eggs at 55 degrees Fahrenheit within 24 hours of laying.

Once the eggs have been washed and packed for distribution, the eggs would then be refrigerated to an internal temperature of no more than 45 degrees until consumed or prepared for consumption. It would apply to food handlers, groceries and restaurants.

The legislation resulted from a number of salmonella food poisoning incidents in which Pennsylvania eggs were involved.

It has not been established how the eggs or egg-containing foods became contaminated with salmonella.

Therefore, Rep. Stairs and other sponsors urged for the passage of the proposed law in order to protect the Pennsylvania egg industry from undue accusations and damages resulting from the loss of sales from possible future poisonings.

The version of House Bill 175 was amended twice in the Senate — once by Sen. Edward Madigan while in the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, and again Thursday by Sen. Noah Wenger.

Madigan's changes to the proposal expanded the criteria for exemptions to the proposal, mostly to not unduly impinge on small producer-retailers.

As it now stands, those who are exempted from the proposed law would be those who:

- Maintain a flock of no more than 3,200 laying hens at all times during the previous 12-month period.
- Sell or market the eggs predominatly within a 100-mile radius of the egg production facility.
- Sell or market the eggs within five days of laying and stores the eggs at no more than 60 degrees.

Small egg processors who are exempt from the more stringent refrigeration rules must print clearly and conspicuously on each container the date of lay of the eggs.

The enforcement of the law is to be jointly performed by the state departments of agriculture and environmental resources.

Wengers amendments included reducing the amount of the civil penalty which either department could levy against a violator from $10,000 down to $5,000.

He also changed the proposal in that it would not take effect immediately upon being signed into law, but would have a 30-day waiting period before becoming enforcable.

According to Steve Crawford, executive director of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, "I see no problem with the Senate amendments."

Having passed the Senate, the amended bill has been sent back to the House where it must receive approval before being sent to the governor for signature.

In addition to the rules already mentioned, H.B. 175:

- Would require that all egg containers be marked with the words "keep refrigerated," and a printed code which would allow an egg processor to indicate the date the eggs were processed, and the flock of origin.
- Would require processors to maintain records of the flock of origin and the date of lay for each egg container for six months, and to make such records available to the Agriculture Department or Department of Environmental Resources (DER) immediately upon request.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Canton area resident, Diane McIlwain, has been named by PA DHIA as the Region Manager for Northeastern Pennsylvania. Diane has been a DHIA supervisor in Tioga County, PA for eleven years, and in addition has also been working for PA DHIA as a Senior Supervisor for nearly two years. In her new role as Region Manager, Diane is responsible for all aspects of the DHIA program in an eighteen county region and insures that PA DHIA policies are followed in all field service functions.

Region three, as it is known, has approximately 67,000 cows enrolled in DHIA and employs 53 supervisors. This represents approximately 20% of the 345,000 cows from 6100 herds across the state. The field staff is responsible for collecting raw data from the members farms on a monthly basis, which in turn is translated into management reports.

Diane and her husband, Bill, a DHIA supervisor have three children; Teresa, Trisha, and Jordy. The whole family is involved in 4-H leadership activities and the Tioga County Junior Holstein Club. Diane's parents, Charles and Doris Porter, are no strangers in Holstein circles, having won numerous awards both in and out of the show ring.

PA DHIA invites the dairy industry to join us in welcoming Diane McIlwain to her new role and wishing her success.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

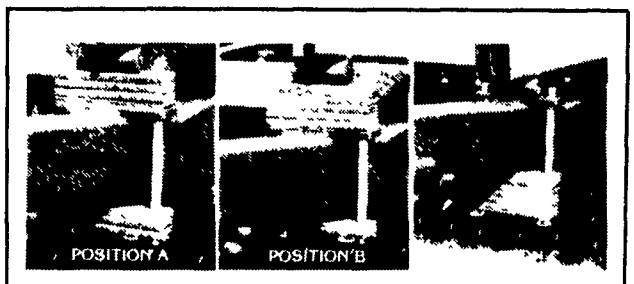
X-Fold Pulverizers 19'-46' Lengths

The pulverizer has been a basic tool for nearly 100 years and Brillion has been building them since 1895. Look at these features:

• Automatic Transport Lock • Telescoping Drawbar (XL & XXL only) • Hitch Adjustment • Cost Efficient-Energy Savings • Floating Wings • Narrow Transport Width •



Another outstanding feature of BRILLION'S X-Fold Pulverizers is the Hitch Adjustment. The pulverizer drawbar can pivot vertically in field position. Three thicknesses of shims are provided on the braces on each side of the drawbar (1/8", 1/4" & 1/2"). These shims are used to limit soil pushing in front of the rollers.

Lancaster County 4-H Holds Dairy Show

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The number of entries at the Lancaster County 4-H Dairy Show, held Wednesday at Solanco Fairgrounds in Quarryville, showed a continuing level of interest among youth to participate in the 4-H program.

According to county dairy agent, Glenn Shirk, the participation was, "about the same as last year, with a slight increase if anything."

Also like last year, the temperature was in the mid-90s.

But new this year was a division of classes in the 4-H showmanship competitions.

Shirk said that the expanding of the classes was in response to new rules and a desire to provide an opportunity for local youth to become eligible for other competition: Participation in the age-divided, three-class competition is now a requirement in order to participate in district 4-H level competition.

In the Jersey breed, an intermediate calf, Milknhoney ET Goldfinch, owned by Kimberly Hough, of Peachbottom, was named grand champion. A senior calf was declared reserve grand champion — no name listed, it was bred and owned by Karen Shaub, of Quarryville.

In the Ayrshire breed, animals entered by Heather Becker, of Narvon, took all top placings, except for reserve junior grand champion. The grand champion was GR Narvon Valley's Champ Garland. The reserve champion was Becker's GR Johnny's Gwen.

In the showmanship contest, in the 8- to 10-year-old division, Zachary Meck was first, Sarah Bard, and Nathan Kreider third.

In the 11- to 13-year-old division, Melissa Enck was first, Sarah Kennel second, and Elizabeth Smith third.

Among the 14- to 18-year-olds, Matt Welk was first, Matt Kolb was second and Heather Becker was third.

Judges for the colored breed show was Harvey Stoltzfus, while John Hubschmidt, of New Jersey, was the judge for the colored breeds. Judging for showmanship was Joyce Crothers and Glenn Stoltzfus.

sidebar article.)

On-farm management practices indicate that paper, either as the sole bedding or an extender for other forms, is adaptable to many different management systems. Nearly one-half used paper as the only bedding in the tie- or free-stalls and found this to be satisfactory. The remainder of those using it in stalls and nearly all using it in pens or boxstalls mixed it with other bedding at approximately a 50/50 ratio. Interestingly, several reported successfully using whole papers, mixed with straw or fodder in pens.

Reported disadvantages or "dislikes" were surveyed, with only blowing around the barn receiving significant "votes". Other possible negatives, such as excessive packing, plugging of grates or gravity systems, dust, or chemical and fire hazard were of concern to some,

Information Offered

The Agricultural Services division of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry has announced a new service, designed to watch sources of recycled newspapers with potential farm users. Working with the Cooperative Extension Service and the Lancaster Co. Solid Waste Management Authority, initial plans are to act as a simple clearinghouse or "watchup" service between individuals or groups seeking an outlet for paper and farmers in need of a supply. As the list develops it is hoped to sort the names by locality and possibly coordinate secheduled dropoff/pickup points.

Farmers currently using paper for bedding give it extremely high marks for effectiveness, convenience, and cost. There is need of a supply of simply interested in knowing more about this management practice may call Jay Howes at 397-3531 or Glenn Shirk at 394-6851 or return the form below.

Note: It should be emphasized that your name will not be released to any supplier without your express permission. If you decide to take recycled newspapers, you may set the terms of how, when and where you will accept it. Complete and mail to:

SPEAKERS

Dr. Daniel Skow, D.V.M.
Dr. Daniel Skow, D.V.M., a veterinarian who is the head of Show Enterprises from Fairmount, Minn. He worked with the late Carey Reams in all phases of Non-Toxic Biological farming. He is a well informed Soil and Plant Consultant. he is Co-author of the new book MAINLINE FARMING FOR CENTURY 21 Dr. Dan Skow, D.V.M., Charles Walters Jr.

Arden Anderson, B.S.PhD
Arden B. Anderson grew up on a dairy farm in Michigan. He holds a B.S. degree in Agriculture from the University of Arizona, and a Ph.D. in biophysics from Clayton University, St. Louis, Missouri. He is a former vocational agricultural instructor. He has worked and studied personally with Dr. Carey Reams, Dr. Dan Skow and Dr. Philip Callahan. He is the author of THE ANATOMY OF LIFE AND ENERGIES IN AGRICULTURE.

This year Field Day will be held at the Spring Wood Farm, owned and operated by the Roman Stoltzfoos family, located near Gap, PA. From the famous Gap town clock, turn off Route 41 onto Route 741. Cross the Railroad Bridge and turn left on to Mine Road. Go approximately 200 yards and turn left onto Gap Road. the farm is approximately 2 miles farther on your left.

Both days, Monday and Tuesday, will begin at 10:00 am with lectured field tours around the farm's test plot areas. The lectures for these tours will be conducted by Dr. Dan Skow and Arden Anderson.

A chicken Bar-B-Que dinner will be served each day at 12:00 Noon to ticket holders. Tickets are on sale until July 20th and must be bought in advance. Call 717-354-2579 for tickets. This will ensure that there will be enough chicken for ticket holders. The cost per person is $10.00. A two-day ticket may be purchased for $16.00. The same person must use the two-day ticket each day. The two-day ticket ensures a chicken dinner both days.

On Monday at 1:30 PM, Mr. Anderson will be the main speaker for the afternoon. A light snack stand will be available after the speaker. The stand will have snacks and drinks all individually priced.

Monday evening will begin at 7:00 PM and will feature Dr. Dan Skow as the main speaker. He will speak until approximately 9:00 PM.

Tuesday, July 23rd will begin with the field trip followed by the noon chicken Bar-B-Que.

At 1:30 PM, Dr. Dan Skow will be the featured speaker. A light snack will be available following the lecture.

The evening program will begin at 7:00 PM and will feature Arden Anderson as the speaker. A question and Answer session will follow Mr. Anderson. Both Dr. Skow and Mr. Anderson will be available to answer your questions.

We also have Dr. Joel Wallach, BS. DVM. ND. with us for our two Field Days. As a Veterinarian and Physician, Dr. Wallach learned to work close to nature with animals and also learned much about their nutritional deficiencies. After learning that nutrition prevented diseases in animals, he decided to apply his knowledge to human beings and earned his Naturopathic Physician from the National College, Portland, Oregon.

Today, Dr. Wallach is President of Eagle International and travels all over the country giving product lectures and health seminars. Dr. Wallach is best known for his work in trace minerals and castrophic diseases.

Dr. Joel Wallach will have a stand at our Field Days and will be available for questions and nutritional information. Please feel free to stop by.

SPECIAL NOTICE:

July 20, 1991 at 1:30 PM, Dr. Joel Wallach will be at the Harvest Drive Restaurant, south of Rt. 340, west of Intercourse, PA. lecturing on Nutritional information and product knowledge. Please plan to attend. There is no admission fee.

Rogers-Allen Order Approved

"We thank all of the farmers who returned their ballots and voted in favor of the order. It was very important that farmers exercise their right to vote," Ross said.

Two-thirds of the eligible dairy farmers in New York had to approve the Rogers-Allen order, which was announced by the Commissioner of Agriculture on June 26. The order was approved by 6,377 or 68.5 percent of the 9,304 eligible farmers. Any ballot not returned counted as a no vote.

The Rogers-Allen process began in February, when RCMA filed a petition with the Commissioner of Agriculture. In the petition, RCMA asked the commissioner to establish minimum milk prices to help the state's financially struggling dairy farmers.

RCMA then developed the strategy and arranged for testimony to support its position. Testimony was presented during a 12-day hearing in Albany in April.

In May, the commissioner issued an interim order that incorporated several of the points in RCMA's petition. His final decision, based upon the hearing testimony, set the Class I minimum price at $14.50, the price requested by RCMA, for 12 months beginning August 1.

Neighboring states are continuing to follow New York's lead by setting similar prices. Farmers throughout New England are now covered by state-run programs that improve their prices. Prices are based upon New York's price. In New Jersey and Pennsylvania, pricing programs benefit farmers who ship to Class I handlers within their states.

"RCMA's role was critical in accomplishing this boost in milk prices for the Northeast's dairy farmers," Ross said. Under Rogers-Allen, a cooperative representing 35 percent of the state's dairy farmers must file the petition. RCMA, with membership of more than 90 percent of the farmers, is the only dairy organization in the state that meets this criteria.

Through its extensive membership, RCMA was able to build a case that led to the commissioner's favorable decision for dairy farmers.

At its meeting on July 12 in Albany, the RCMA Board of Directors approved a petition to amend the Rogers-Allen order to include what are known as "compensatory payments." These would require handlers who bring in Class I milk from out of state to make a payment to equal the state-set price.

RCMA will present the petition to the Department of Agriculture and Markets on July 19. Under new timelines set by the New York Legislature in May, the commissioner has five days to act on our request. This would allow compensatory payments to be implemented on an interim basis by August 1, the start of the Rogers-Allen order.

There is some concern, however, because Farmland Dairies has challenged the compensatory payment provisions in the commissioner's interim order, which is in effect for June and July. In the event RCMA's proposal faces a similar legal challenge, it should not tie up payments to farmers under the Rogers-Allen order.

This was RCMA's strategy from the beginning: keep the original order as simple as possible so farmers can start collecting payments under this order as soon as possible. Then we would offer amendments for specific issues to improve the order.

RCMA is also proposing an amendment to include all New York producers under the Rogers-Allen order. Currently, producers who ship their milk out of state, such as to Federal Order 1, are not covered under the order. RCMA thinks all New York producers should benefit from the order, so is proposing an amendment to include everyone.

"These events of recent months prove that farmers working together through RCMA can accomplish a great deal," Ross said. "We can't rest on our laurels, but must continue in our efforts to increase our membership and be prepared to address issues of dairy farmer concern."

PFA Says Keystone Dairymen Could Lose $1.05 Premium

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Upon review of the U.S. House Agriculture subcommittee proposal for the Milk Inventory Management Act of 1991, the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) has found several provisions which are very harmful to Pennsylvania dairymen and is calling for their elimination.

"The question that has to be asked is whether the people who are loudly supporting this bill and pushing for quick passage have really read it and understand its impact on Pennsylvania dairymen," said PFA President Keith Eckel. "This bill would take away Pennsylvania dairymen's current $1.05 over-order premium.

"It is troubling to see professed agricultural leaders from Pennsylvania who would cavalierly throw away our ability to maintain the strength of our dairy industry by supporting such a flawed piece of quick-fix national legislation."

In a letter to Pennsylvania's Congressional delegation prior to the scheduled July 11 markup of the dairy legislation by the full House Agriculture Committee, PFA drew attention to two provisions particularly harmful to Pennsylvania producers.

"First, we oppose language that would outlaw premium pricing by states, such as Pennsylvania's $1.05 premium," Eckel said, "PFA believes that each state has the right to enhance pricing when it deems it important. Pennsylvania has a history of basing milk prices on local market conditions and has provided premiums to dairy farmers in crisis situations caused by natural disaster and other unforeseen circumstances."

Over-order pricing, authorized by the PA Milk Marketing Board from September, 1988 through June, 1992 in response to adverse weather and production cost increases, is providing Pennsylvania dairymen with more than $200 million in additional income which would not have been allowed under the proposed dairy legislation.

"Second," Eckel continued, "we oppose mandatory supply control and if enacted we do not believe that certain regions of the U.S. should be exempted from production restrictions such as those proposed in the subcommittee's two-tier program. To exclude one section of the country is unfair to Pennsylvania dairy farmers who will be forced to bear a disproportionate burden of balancing the milk supply with demand.

The field day was held Tuesday at the Timberview Farm of Ben and Erma Kauffman located off Route 41. The Kauffmans have a new computerized feeding systyem in their tie-stall barn that provided a point of discussion for the 180 attendees at the event. In his welcome to the group, Ben gave a lot of credit to his wife and their married daughter Jeanette Brooks for the improvement of their herd over the years. The Kauffmans have been farming for 41 years. In addition, he likened the new feeding equipment to a hired man that didn't eat or receive social security.

"He (the feeding equipment) doesn't go to church," Ben said tongue in cheek. "But neither have I heard him swear. I have concluded he must be on the right track (the feeding equipment is manuvered around the barn on an overhead track)."

Donald Seipt, immediate past president of the National Holstein Association, was the official judge and speaker. Seipt reported that word from Steve Kerr, the newly appointed national executive secretary, is that many dairymen will be disappointed when the new proposals for the rewrite of the dairy section of the farm bill are presented in the final stages to go through Congress. Kerr is in Washington to help put together an acceptable farm package as part of his last work with the Northeast Council of Farm Cooperatives before he assumes his new Holstein position.

Seipt reported four things that look like they will pass: an increase of $1 to $1.50 in the support price that is now $10.10. An increase in the legal requirements for fluid milk in solids-not-fat. A continuation of the export enhancement program for dairy products. And an enhancement program for dairy heifers.

"Other than this, there will not be much change," Seipt said. "The administration, USDA and congress have been adamently opposed to two-tier pricing or for any other form that has the appearance of supply management. They translate anything that looks like supply management as a threat to the consumer's pocketbook. That's hard to understand when you know that the farm price for milk has made the most drastic drop in the shortest period of time since 1929. And yet, the price to the consumer has dropped only slightly.

"It is my belief that dairy farmers are being manipulated, by USDA, Congress, supermarkets and the National Cheese Exchange," Seipt said. "It's not a happy thought, but if you watch the appearance of things in the last six weeks, you cannot come to any other conclusion.

"USDA caculated the cost of producing milk at more than $12.00 on the national average and that's less than the price received by dairy farmers," Seipt said. "Yet they are willing to say that we don't need help. It's hard for me as a dairyman to understand that."

Other persons on the program included, Walter Worster, extension dairy agent; Becky Blank, Chester County Dairy Princess; Clarence Stauffer, national Holstein fieldman and Tom Wiker, Pennsylvania Holstein Assn. intern.

The top placings in the morning judging contest were, Men, 1, Galen Martin; 2, Dale Hostetter; 3, Dale Peifer. Youth, Kendra Yost; 2, James Smoker and tied for 3, Jadon Smoker, Brandon Umble, Erica DiMarzio and J. J. Turpin. Women, Susie Weaver; 2, Jane Pepple; tied for 3, Dona Blank and Bev Blank.

AFT Praises Ag Land Protection Legislation

TAYLOR'S BRIDGE, Del.—The American Farmland Trust (AFT) praised the passage of legislation designed to protect valuable agricultural lands, which was signed by Governor Michael N. Castle recently.

The Delaware Agricultural Lands Preservation Foundation was set up to encourage the establishment of agricultural districts for the selection and review of farms that would qualify for purchase of development rights. The new law will qualify the state for federal assistance to protect farmland.

American Farmland Trust President Ralph Grossi, who attended the ceremony to commemorate the passage of House Bill 200, called it "historic." He noted that the legislation will allow Delaware to receive financial assistance under the federal Farms for the Future Act, in the form of low-interest loan guarantees for farmland protection.

"Delaware farmers -- particularly young farmers -- will be thankful for the program as land prices rise," Grossi said. "The Delaware legislature and Governor Castle have taken action that is historic and far reaching for farmland protection in Delaware. If fully utilized, the Farms for the Future Act could provide Delaware with millions of dollars to ease the financial burden of transferring farmland from one generation to the next."

Authorized by Congress in the 1990 Farm Bill, the Farms for the Future Act provides federal financial assistance to state farmland protection programs. As much as $10 million in low-interest loan guarantees are to be provided annually to qualifying state programs to match funds that states are devoting to farmland protection.

"If states like Delaware provide sufficient matching funds to receive the maximum benefits under the federal act, as much as $50 million could be available to them in low-interest loans in the next five years," said Robert Wagner, AFT's northeastern office director who advised Delaware officials as they developed legislation to establish the foundation.

Under the terms of the federal program, two dollars of federally guaranteed loan funds would be made available for every one dollar of state, local or private funds.

"The Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation gives Delaware another important tool to protect its natural resources," Wagner said. "The program is a voluntary way for landowners to protect their farms without losing equity.

And because it qualifies the state for the Farms for the Future Act, Delaware now has extra help in reversing the trend of farmland decline."

Weed Tour Shows Drought Conditions Affect Herbicide Performance

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Persistently dry weather affects not only crop growth, but pesticide performance.

That's the message 100 farmers, consultants, seed and pesticide sales representatives, and extension agents took home with them on Monday at the 1991 Weed and Insect Control Field Day at the Penn State Southeastern Field Research Laboratory.

The lack of rain significantly affected the performance and outcome of herbicides used on corn, soybeans, tobacco, and other crops.

The research at the test site showed the results of many studies of preplant, preemergence, and postemergence applications of herbicides, in addition to pesticide control interactions on several crops. But the lack of rain confused the results of many tests.

Very dry

"As you can tell," said John Yocum, superintendent of the laboratory, addressing the group, "this area has been very dry. We had a little over an inch of rain this past weekend. It had an effect on the weeds and the weed control."

Rainfall amounts were down more than one and a half inches for May and more than three inches for June. According to data from the field lab, more than six inches of rain is needed soon in order to avoid a devastating drought. Only 1.1 inches fell at the station over the last weekend.

"This year . . . reminds me a lot of 1988 in Illinois," said Bill Curran, Penn State weed specialist, who spoke at the field day. "I thought when I left the Midwest and came East, I'd leave all that trouble behind. But unfortunately, here again, the drought seems to be following me."

Curran spoke about weed control in soybeans and corn. The soybean plots examined conventional tillage using an array of different preemergence and postemergence herbicides, and a variety of sulfonylurea-tolerant soybean. In addition, a no-till trial examined various preemergence and postemergence herbicide applications.

About 100 farmers, consultants, chemical and seed salesmen, and county agents toured the Southeastern Field Research Laboratory in Landisville on Monday. Note the disparity in corn height caused by the drought conditions, which greatly affected the performance of the herbicides. Photo by Andy Andrews.

Worst weeds

The soybeans in the conventional tillage plots were planted on May 17. The first significant rainfall, about ½ inch, came 10 days later, according to Curran. But the ground was very dry before that. As a result, said Curran, one of the worst weeds to appear was the grass, primarily foxtail. The postemegence pesticides did not work well, except after significant rainfall. Late untreated flushes of weeds, however, appeared and were hard to control.

Farmers who planted soybeans earlier did better on emergence because of the wet weather, but those who planted later "are not in good shape," Curran said.

This spring, the laboratory planted soybeans into a small-grain cover crop, using rye, wheat, and barley. The beans were no-tilled into the ground — but because of the lack of moisture, the emergence was dismal.

"We are hoping to see how cover crops, particularly the small-grain covers, suppress weed emergence," Curran said. "Because of the dry weather, we had very few weeds come up in this field. But this field tends to be very light in weed numbers anyway."

Not what turned out

In an ideal year, the cover should be able to suppress weed emergence and serve as good erosion control. "So we're hoping to capture some that benefit and also grow a decent soybean stand," said Curran. "Unfortunately, though, this year it's not what turned out.

"You don't see a whole lot of promise as you look across this particular study," he said. "Nothing worked exceptionally well."

Because of the dry conditions, many of the annual weeds they were looking for did not turn up. So the results of tests may have to wait perhaps next year if conditions are favorable.

Two different corn studies — a preplant incorporated (PPI) corn study and a preemergence study — tried to examine the effects of weed control. But, once again, herbicides require moisture to perform, and many of the fields were severely drought stressed.

Rain insufficient

On the preplant trials, the corn was planted on May 3 with a herbicide. Some rain fell — about four-tenths of an inch about five days later and another four-tenths a few days after that. But the rain was insufficient for the herbicides to perform as planned.

"The bottom line in the pretreatments . . . was that they didn't work very well," said Curran. Control, at best, was 75 percent for foxtail and nearly the same for lambsquarters, the two major weed infestations in the area.

"What really was apparent in the preemergence and preplant

National Holstein Elects Officers

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Delegates at the 106th annual meeting of the Holstein Association voted by acclamation for President Carl Butler, Pine Plains, N.Y., Vice President John Selz, Humbird, Wis., and for directors Horace A. Backus, Mexico, N.Y., James N. "Bud" Leckie, White Pine, Tenn., James W. Patterson, Greenville, Ohio, and Keith Stump, Loyal, Wis.

All except for Stump have served on the Board: Butler as vice president; Selz as a two-term director and Backus, Leckie and Patterson as first term directors. Stump becomes a first term national director.

New President Carl Butler has been acting Executive Secretary since January 1 filling a vacancy until a new Chief Executive Officer comes to the job.

Stephen R. Kerr was recently named CEO and will report August 1. A 40-year member of the association, Carl Butler has completed eight years as a national director and two years as vice president of the Holstein Association.

Stephen R. Kerr

Butler's career as a dairyman began in 1960 when, following graduation from University of Connecticut, he began farming in partnership with his late father C. Edwin. A conversion to registered Holsteins came soon after and both Carl and wife Diane have been workers at the local and state level as Holstein club officers.

Butler and wife Diane have recently dispersed their Prospect Hill Farm herd.

Carl was a director of the New York Holstein Association before election to the national association board. In 1985, Butler was appointed to the National Dairy Board and served as chairman, Nutrition, Research and Education Committee. Carl was vice chairman in 1989.

Vice President John Selz and wife Marianne are co-owners of Joliam Holsteins with brother William Selz. The couple returned to the farm in 1959 when John completed a chemical engineering degree and spent two years with Dupont Chemical Company.

Registered Holsteins have been on the farm since 1921 with about 300 plus registered animals on the 634 acre Wisconsin spread at present.

First time National Director Keith Stump purchased his Holstein farm from his father-in-law in 1964. The 90-head dairy is operated by his son and daughter-in-law.

Stump has been a cattle auctioneer since 1969. He is active in Holstein club and show committees and has judged at district and regional shows in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa. He and his wife Dawn were selected Clark County (Wis.) outstanding dairymen in 1989.

LVNB Hosts Annual Hog Roast

About 340 people attend the annual family-style Lebanon Valley National Bank Hog Roast which is held to show customer appreciation, so that the agriculture community can meet with the agriculture lending group of Lebanon Valley and to maintain good fellowship. Albert B. Murry, bank president and CEO, told farmers he understood about the bad conditions and that the bank was behind them. He also said that if they had any problems, to let the bank know — that the bank's position is that, as everyones knows, there are rainy days and sunny days in farming . . . and this year there haven't been enough rainy ones. In the photo at top is Bob Donaldson, assistant vice president of ag lending, serving roast pork sandwiches. On the photo at left, Mike Firestine, vice president blows up a balloon for a young lady.

YOU NEED LIQUID FISH
WE NEED SPELTZ

FISH is really doing good for foliar feeding in drought when the soil is too dry for use of soil fertility. Then liquid fish and liquid calcium feeds thru the leaf pores as they open up in the evening to take in the dew. Only about $5 per acre. Repeat business is good already this season, and old customers.

SPELTZ is a bulky fall planted grain, an excellent and superior feed for all kinds of livestock and humans Yields about 80 to 150 bu. per acre. We have a huge order for both U S.A. and overseas at 10¢ per lb. We have the seed.

Plan to grow toxic free white soybeans next year for $12 per bu The market is growing fast for making soy food and milk Use our toxic pulling fertilizer this fall.

We hope to see you at the 4th annual Rural Environmental Field Days on July 22 and 23, near Gap, Lancaster County See the adevertisement on page A-19. Visit our table.

PCC Holds Leaders Conference

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — In the interest of developing leaders familiar with cooperative enterprises, the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives (PCC) sponsored its 18th annual Young Cooperative Leaders Conference July 8-10 at the Days Inn Penn State. The PCC Young Cooperative Leaders Program is a statewide leadership development program whereby participants learn how cooperatives operated and how participants can influence the success of cooperatives.

The conference also provides an opportunity for farmer cooperative members to meet others from around PA with similar backgrounds, interests and concerns.

At the recognition luncheon, Hal F. Doran received an appreciation gift for his 47 years of service in working with cooperatives. Doran has held the position of Director of the Cooperative Business Education and Research Program at Penn State.

Hal Doran is credited with implementing the Young Cooperative Leaders Program, the PCC for Youth held in Shippensburg (formerly PAFC), Ag Horizons, a new program for Vo-Ag teachers, and other educational programs for Extension agents and Ag teachers.

"Most people know that behind any organization there has to be good leadership and good people... All the leader couples that have served with us know the type of leadership this particular person has always given to this organization. Hal is held in very high esteem by those working in the field," commented Fred Dillner of the Young Cooperative Leaders Planning Committee.

Each year at the YCL Conference, one couple or individual is selected from each of the four regions to serve on the following year's planning committee.

Participants from this year's conference selected to return as Region leaders are: John & Edith Carpenter of Linden, PA (Northern Region), Bradley & Susan Beidel of Newburg, PA (Southeast Region), C. Allen & Holly Ishler of Spring Mills, PA (Southcentral Region), and Mark & Marie Canon of West Middlesex, PA (Western Region).

Walter & Lisa Royek of Corry, PA were selected as Chaircouple and will represent the PCC at the National Institute on Cooperative Education.

Carl Buckhout, former Executive Director of the PCC, gave her farewell thoughts and spoke with confidence of the new Executive Director, Crystal M. Smithmyer.

Walter and Lisa Royek are named to represent the Pa Council of Cooperatives at the National Institute on Cooperative Education.

Eastern Lancaster County School District's teaching staff won the Outstanding Agricultural Education Program. The teachers included Bob Lauffer (Outstanding member), Phil Ogline, MeeCee Baker (Outstanding Young Member), Cliff Day, and Don Robinson.

Diversified Marketing Association sponsored the 25 Year Service Award. Dave Schuh presented watches to Scott Gold, Lewis Rembach, and James Kurr.

Special recognition went to retiring Don Mincemoyer and to Dr. Samuel Curtis for his 36 years of Distinguished Service.

The PVATA held elections for president and president-elect the following day at the Nittany Lion Inn. Robert Lauffer of Eastern Lancaster County School District will serve as President for 1991-92. President elect will be Sam Wagner of West Perry for 1992-1993.

Receiving a 25-year service award is Scott Gold, left, from Dave Schuh, of Diversified Marketing Association. Awards recipients not shown are Lewis Rembach and James Kurr.

The PVATA agri-science teacher awards are presented to Don McNutt, of Conrad Weiser High School and to Paul Heasley, of Danville.

paring the drought of '91 to that of 1966, when similar high temperatures and lack of rain wrought widespread crop failures and water shortages. Also on hand for the disaster declaration were Rep. John Broujos (Dist. 199), Senator Michael Bortner (Dist. 28), and local government and agriculture-agency officials.

Questioned by Dover Township supervisor Bill Kimmel on government assistance in the event of water shortages, Casey noted that help could be made available in water shortage emergencies through the National Guard. The Governor acknowledged that levels of wells and the water tables in the disaster-declaration area are at their lowest in some 20 years.

The Governor paid the visit to Shearer's acreage just north of the Conewago Creek at the urging of Rep. John Broujos, who had been contacted by Dover area farmers Lorne and Ailean Detter. While most areas of York County have been affected by the drought, areas north and west of York City are among the hardest hit.

Assistance most likely to be available to the 52 affected counties is in the form of low-cost emergency assistance loans through the Farmers Home Administration. Crops hardest hit, according to the Governor, are corn, alfalfa, oats and soybeans.

With TV cameras grinding and a host of reporters scribbling, Shearer told the Governor he would like to see low-interest loans made available to drought-stricken farmers, with a payback spread over several years. He'd also like to see banking institutions consider setting aside or extending principle payments for a period of time.

While past disaster relief has been aimed primarily at livestock producers, officials hope to effect rulings changes which would address the losses suffered by grain growers like Shearer and several dozen others on hand for the Governor's visit. Most are looking at severely impaired yields of every crop they've planted -- and in hundreds of acres, no yield at all.

"All of them are in bad shape," says John Shearer of the some 2,000 acres of corn he planted. "Some never even came up. A lot of the soybeans started to sprout, then laid in the ground and just molded. The peas were a complete loss."

Shearer crops several hundred acres of green peas on contract to the Hanover Division of Tri-Co Foods. Sam Evans, who manages Tri-Co's farms, notes that York County peas were as hard hit as any the firm crops. Yields were about 600 pounds per acre, not even covering the cost of the seed, while field farther south average 1,700 pounds per acre.

"Snap beans in northern Maryland are about average. Out of the 300 acres we planned to plant in York County, we were able to get about 75 in the ground at a time when there was a little moisture to sprout the seed. Now we're out of moisture and not planting any," Evans said.

Field corn results are equally poor, he adds, with only a fourth of the company's 500 acres looking "decent," and soybeans "very disappointing," with perhaps a 60 percent stand.

Potatoes, a major York County crop, also took a pounding this year, according to grower John "Jack" Thompson, Sr., of Shrewsbury. Extreme heat and dryness are the bane of potatoes, which fare well only with adequate amounts of water and cooler temperatures.

Thompson's 280 acres cost $1,300 per acre to plant. He's looking at a maximum return on them of $400 per acre.

"They're on the small side, with only two per stalk," said Thompson. "We could irrigate only about 20 acres of the total crop. In addition, a recent hailstorm badly chopped the growing tops of other potato acreage in Thompson's southern York County fields, as well as shredding numerous acres of corn.

"Barley was fair, wheat was about a 40 to 50 bushel yield, and the soybeans at best are about a 70-percent stand," Thompson relates of the other crops farmed by he and his family. "We went through this in 1988, and back in 1966 and this is about as bad as it was in 1966."

No-tillage, the planting technique promoted in recent years to help out soil erosion losses, is not earning any converts this season in York County.

"The best fields are those that were plowed," affirms grain grower Don Sunday of York, whose 75 acres of no-till corn are growing poorly -- if at all.

"The more you did, the better off you are this year," adds his father, Charles, who conventionally planted his 400 acres. "I planted two acres of no-till in grass, it got about 3 inches high and died. What was plowed and had manuire on is five to six feet tall."

Les Barney, Dover, has some 250 acres of soybeans that didn't come up at all, about half his acreage.

"What came up is terribly small, three to eight inches high. It was planted the third and fourth week of May and had very little rain at all on it," he says.

Corn, costing about $220 per acre to plant for his 300 acres, is not much better. Concurring with the Sundays' observations, Barney agrees that conventionally tilled crops are performing better in the drought.

Dairyman Earl Furhman of Hanover needs alfalfa for his 130-head family herd, but "it's hardly worth going after," he says of the drought-stunted hay. A .4-inch rainfall that dampened his crops a week ago was the first moisture in five weeks, with only a light shower or two before that back in early May.

"Our corn looks sick. What was planted about May 20 is 12-14 inches high. Earlier corn is taller and tasseling, but looks like it was scalded," says the Hanover dairy farmer. "We didn't even plant the 50 acres of soybeans we planned on, just left that ground lay open."

Governor Robert Casey and Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff got a hands-on look at the stunted and dying corn crop on the acreage planted by John Shearer Jr., left. Officials examined the northern York County field near the Conewago Creek just prior to announcing a request for a disaster declaration for 27 Pennsylvania counties.

Furhman did plan on putting in "milage," a new forage crop just being tried in the country. Milage is a blend of milo, or grain sorghum, and a forage soybean, reported to be higher in protein than alternate forage crops like sudan grass. But, with no moisture in the ground, he is reluctant to sink more seed into unyielding dry earth.

Doug Gabel, Farmers Home Administration director for York County, relates that a 1991 drought disaster declaration will be at least the sixth since 1980. Drought declarations were made in 1980, 1983, 1986, 1987 and 1988. At least one hail disaster declaration was made in the mid-80's as well.

"The 1986 one actually started in January, due to low moisture levels over the winter. In 1988, extreme heat and dryness started in April, somewhat like this year," said Gabel after checking past records.

Regulations are already on the books, according to Gabel, for low-interest loans, at four and one-half percent, of up to 80 percent of a producer's calculated drought losses, to a maximum of $500,000. Previously, losses had to collectively total at least 30 percent of all combined crops, for a producer to qualify for disaster loans. Recent regulations changes will instead allow producers to study," he said, "(was that) the lower the water soluability, the poorer the weed control."

And even though some of the corn was sidedressed with nitrogen, because of the lack of rainfall, corn was short, in some spots tassling at four feet or less.

Lack of rain

"It's a lack-of-rainfall study, and you'll see a big difference — the take-home message here is the PPI versus the pre(emegence). You'll see what incorporating will do for a herbicide under a dry year," said Curran.

The weed specialist said there are some herbicide varieties that will be released soon by various manufacturers that require little moisture. Those attending the field day observed that weed control with the new herbicides was short of adequate.

Also, tour members visited the Ken Zurin dairy farm in Salunga to examine a one-acre shattercane weed study in corn and a study to look at the effects of insecticide/herbicide interaction.

According to Zurin, the shattercane problem burst out in his field when a custom operator drew shattercane into a combine and scattered the seeds all over an adjacent field, in which he now grows alfalfa.

"I was sick enough with all the rest of my corn not getting any rain," said Zurin, who manages about 750 acres on the farm. Zurin used a popular brand of herbicide formulated for the shattercane problem, and "it killed it. First it didn't do anything. After I sprayed it, it didn't look like anything happened. But it wasn't growing anymore. Next thing you know, it started turning white and started wilting. I was shook."

but in all cases less than 20% of the users.

So, if we have a product that, according to experienced users, is very effective in a variety of management systems, is in good supply, and has no major drawbacks, the question has to be asked, "Why aren't more dairymen using it?"

So, what about cost? Those buying pre-chopped or shredded product reported an average of $45/ton. Those receiving free papers obviously have a cost to chop or shred which has been estimated at $45-50/ton. When compared to straw, however, only 2/3 as much paper is needed, so paper equivalent to a ton of straw at $75 would cost only about $33-35. On a cost-per-cow-per-year basis, this works out to about $36 less than using straw.

No, cost is not (or should not) be a reason not to use paper. Therefore, it can only be concluded that habit or personal preference is the major reason for lack of wider adoption of recycled newspaper as bedding. However, in time of drastically reduced milk prices, it would seem that a readily available, very effective product that can save dairymen as much as $36 per cow per year is worth consideration. Perhaps now is the time each dairyman should take another look at this alternative. More information is available from Glen Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Service (394-6851), or Jay Howes, Manager of Agricultural Services, The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry (397-3531). Also, steps are being taken to create a list of those who need paper and potential sources.

Theft Watch

(A column for farmers and agribusiness to report missing and found machinery, tools and livestock. Call the news department at (717) 394-3047 with these reports.)

• A weed eater was taken from a small building along the driveway at 5403 Old Philadelphia Pike in Salisbury Twp, Lancaster County, between July 4 and July 6. A number of identification numbers are on the equipment. A service number from the dealer is 2711. The model number is FS66AVE and the serial number is 14889461. Anyone with information should call Hershey Kurtz at (717) 768-8372.

• Earlier this month a total of $3,600 value in products was taken from Leinbach Farm Supply at Shippensburg. The theft included six chain saws (Stihl), and four trimmers. An air conditioner was pushed out of the wall and entry was made through the hole. The Carlisle/ Cumberland State Police have been notified. Anyone who knows about these missing items should call John Leinbach at (717) 532-5511.

• A number of items were taken from the back of a truck at Gap Auction last week: socket wrench set, spotlight, nylon bag, large blue first aid kit with blood pressure cuff, stethoscope, surgical kit and numerous other medical items. Donald Aikens is an ambulance volunteer and went to help someone when he discovered the loss. Anyone who knows anything about these items should call (215) 594-4196 day or (609) 358-7200 evening.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

What favorite national activity combines physical exercise, fresh air, sweat, saving money, and good nutrition?

Why gardening, of course. Gardening is reportedly the most popular hobby in this country.

Why gardening, of course. Gardening is reportedly the most popular hobby in this country.

And this is the time of year that the exercise and sweat start to pay us backyard gardening diehards dividends in tasty, healthful eating.

Nice thing about gardening is that it can be done on any scale - from a high-rise condo balcony boasting one tomato plant to a half-acre planted in everything from asparagus to zucchini.

Another plus - in a world of rush-rush, hurry-hurry, go-here, go-there, gotta-meet-a-deadline - is that gardening can't be jump started into instant response. A garden takes at least a little planning and a healthy dose of patience along with the planting.

Along the way, in the process from seed to serving, gardens bring you to your knees.

And being on your knees, a rather humbling position, slows a body down long enough to notice and to appreciate tiny details - miniscule natural touches of beauty and wonderment that would probably otherwise pass unnoticed.

On my knees, in the sunshine on a recent warm afternoon, picking green beans, I looked with slowed-down awareness at the bean blossoms. Typical legume-type blooms, they resemble teeny sweet peas.

An earlier-bearing variety of two planted in the bean row opens flowers of the faintest, most delicate shade of lavendar. Plants of a second variety cover themselves with blossoms of purest white. Both lavendar and white blooms fade and fall off to leave behind fragile, infant string beans, a half-inch long and little more than thread-thick.

The rate at which these "newborns" grow and mature is simply phenomenal. In just a few days, they stretch to picking size, fattening into crisp, green flesh packed with vitamins, minerals and great taste.

What can our wealth of hurry-up technology do in comparison to that sort of everyday miracle?

Creeping into the bean row are forward scouts claiming new turf for the cantaloupe colony. As the vines inch ahead, brilliant yellow petals unfurl farther back along the stalks. Honey bees stay busy poking into those flowers in search of pollen, fertilizing the female blossoms in process. A reminder that we lovers of juicy, sweet melons (and other fresh produce) owe a debt of gratitude to the honey bee.

Two rows over from the beans, the zinnias have opened their first flowers. Their earthy colors are vibrant and deep - bright reds, sunshiney yellows, brilliant oranges, hot pinks.

A few of the more mature zinnia blooms have quarter-inch, velvety-yellow reproductive parts developing around the centers, looking for all the world like diminutive, golden starfishes.

Parsley sends out leaves of lacey, delicate, deep green, shaped much like serrated-edged clover. Rich in vitaminc C, parsley is an extremely healthy herb, too often wasted when just plunked down on a plate as a garnish. When the kids were younger, they would eat parsley by the handfuls - until they discovered that the black-green-yellow striped caterpillar stage of the Monarch butterfly adores parsley, too.

Sometimes it really pays to look closely at things - especially if there's only part of a caterpillar left on something you just took a bite out of.

And the long-awaited first gladiolius has unfurled its petals, in shades that command an on-the-knees examination. From a cream-colored throat, the petals fan out in pure white. But the outer edge of each single petal looks as though it had been dipped in fushia pink paint, which then streaked into the white, giving the appearance of a pink ruffle around the whole bloom. Lovely!

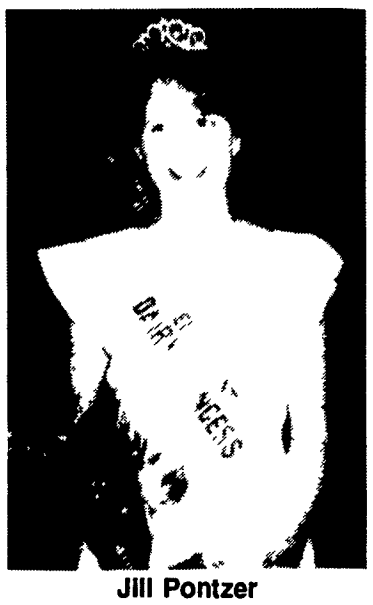
Recently I read the gardens require TLC... Time, Luck, and Courage. Plus a sturdy pair of knees.

Elk County Chooses Dairy Princess

KERSEY (Elk Co.) — A banquet was held at the St. Mary's Country Club on Sunday, June 30, to honor the new Elk County Dairy Princess, Jill Pontzer. Jill is the daughter of Esther and Pierre Pontzer of Greens Road in Kersey. The Pontzers' operate a dairy farm where they milk 60 holstein cows.

When not helping on the farm, Jill is very active in the 4-H Saddle Club, as well as being involved with dairy promotion committee activities. She will be a senior at St. Mary's Area High School this Fall.

Lisa Swanson, outgoing Elk County Dairy Princess, spoke briefly after the luncheon, thanking the committee for their support this past year. She was given a gold rose pendant as a token of appreciation for her hard work on behalf of dairy promotion. She then presented Jill with a crown, banner and bouquet of flowers as the new dairy princess. Ms. Pontzer was also awarded a $200 savings bond, dairy promotion night shirt and luggage.



Jill Pontzer

Anyone wishing to have the dairy princess speak for school, service club or other groups can make arrangements by calling 885-8364. The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion program is involved in promoting good health through good nutrition.

Siblings Face Critical Illnesses That Halt Farm Work

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET — Bill Marteeny, the fifth generation owner of Marteeny Farm, whose 235 century acres are among the rural scenery first seen by travelers heading west out of town on Route 31, says his family is living in limbo right now.

His male heir, son Mark, 28, for physical reasons, is not able to continue dairy operations on Marteeny Farm. Mark has Ankylosing Spondylitis, a form of arthritis.

Bill, and wife, Connie have another child, Karen, 22, who was recently diagnosed as having leukemia. Her only hope, they say, is to have a bone marrow transplant. The two diseases were diagnosed in the spring and summer of 1990. The siblings had worked on the farm. It provided Mark's livelihood.

Mark has taken a position in the lending department of a local bank. Still, because he is needed, he rises very early to help with the milking before showering and donning his business attire for the day ahead. In the evening, he returns to help with milking.

Although he is on a daily regimen of medication that controls the potentially disabling effects of the arthritis, Mark said the he can't continue the grueling schedule indefinitely. There is another hired man on the farm and neighbors often volunteer their services.

Mark and Tracy Marteeny

Meanwhile, the search continues for a compatible bone marrow donor for Karen. Her parents say that she shouldn't enter the barn. There is the risk of her being bumped or cut. Besides, she tires easily.

So the family, while trying to live normally while facing an uncertain future, waits expectantly for the all-important telephone call announcing that a compatible bone marrow donor has been found.

It's a high stress situation. Several prospective donors have made it to the final test for compatibility, then failed to match. "Finding a bone marrow donor," says Bill, "is almost like trying to match fingerprints." He says, "If Karen gets a donor she will be 99 percent cured."

Through the National Bone Marrow Program the search is throughout the United States, Canada, England and France, to find a donor for Karen.

The family's troubles began in October 1989, when Mark, returning from a dairy show in Wisconsin, arrived home. He had a stiff back and a swollen toe. After undergoing subsequent examinations by several physicians and taking prescribed medications for an undiagnosed illness, Mark was referred to Pittsburgh specialists who were able to diagnose the rare form of arthritis.

Meanwhile, Karen was a college junior working on getting her degree in Home Economics Education from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania. A bothersome stiff knee took her to a local physician where an ordered blood test revealed a greatly elevated white cell count. He suggested another blood test be done by her family physicial. The leukemia was confirmed, and Karen was taken to Allegheny General Hospital in Pittsburgh and admitted for treatment and further tests.

Mark's wife, Tracy, the family minister, and the family met with doctors. They learned that Karen's only hope to lick the disease was to have a bone marrow transplant.

A leukemia victin might live five years, they learned. Because she does not know when she contracted the insidious disease, Karen bravely confesses that she doesn't know where her timing falls in the five-year span of hope.

"We were shocked," says Connie. "We shed a lot of tears. This was the first serious illness in our family. It's always going to happen to somebody else, never to you."

"When it hits home," says Bill, "You pay attention."

Connie said, "Talking about it helped." She is a registered nurse employed at the Somerset State Hospital. Information about bone marrow transplants wasn't familiar to her, or to any of the family, but Connie started reading medical books she had at home.

All the family members underwent the initial blood tests to become Karen's donor. Friends and strangers volunteered, but none have been found as acceptable prospects.

The leukemia is now in remission. Capsule dosages of potential chemotherapy fight it down. The amounts are adjusted according to the findings of her weekly blood tests.

Now working in the delicatessen of a nearby supermarket, Karen says she earned her degree on time last April by beating the odds and completing her senior year of college. She also did the required stint of student teaching. For this achievement, Karen is proud.

Meanwhile, Bill said that he is exploring other options while waiting for the right herdsman to appear. "You can make your living other ways," he says. "You don't have to milk cows." He is trying to accept the unpopular idea that, if necessary, the dairy business could be sold. He hopes the farm will remain in Marteeny posterity. Since the days when the earth received the toil and sweat of the first Marteeny owner, it has had cattle on it. But a man does what he has to do, Marteeny said.

Fortunately, the Marteeny family is rich in sense of humor. It helps them balance an uneven loan in the effort to hold firmly to the belief that, given time, the problems will somehow be resolved.

The family reminisces merrily about Karen's past sheep-raising episodes on a dairy farm, which often had ridiculous results for the whole family. They tell about the common Marteeny affliction of absent-mindedness most often evident when one forgets a necessity at the grocery store and immediately returns just for that item.

Connie grins, "We'd have to plan better if we lived further away."

Although diagnosed with leukemia, Karen Marteeny continues to smile as she relaxes with the family dog, Brandy.

Daughter-in-law Tracy recounted several postponements of her wedding to Mark because of Karen's situation. The last time she had gone to change the date on the wedding announcements, the gentleman suggested she might perfer "fill-in-the-blank" announcements. The couple was married last December.

A bone marrow transplant will be expensive. The Marteenys were told in Pittsburgh, "Start having fundraisers."

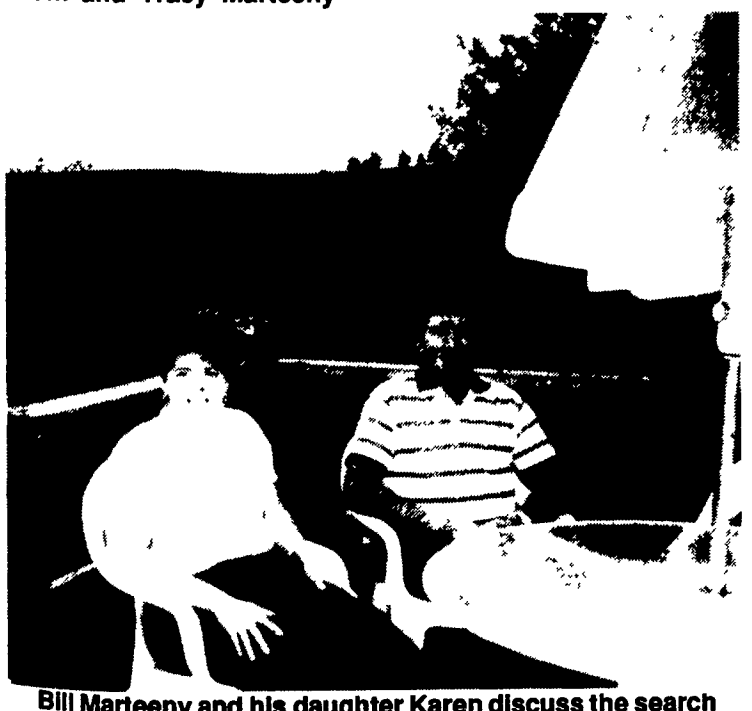
When Karen gets her donor, she will face hospital isolation for 120 days. Her donor will be an overnight patient.

For donor information, interested persons may call the National Bone Marrow Program office at 1-800-654-1247.

Bill says he is despeartely seeking a quality herdsman to take Mark's place. A qualified female applicant would also suit.

"It takes one person to be in charge," says Bill, "and another to help with the routine work." He says the kind of person he desires for the job, needs to understand nutrition balance and possess breeding expertise. Bill says he will offer incentives for good job performance with the 85-head of Holstein milking cows.

"I can't replace Mark," says Bill, realistically. "You can't get from somebody else what you get from your own son." According to Bill and Connie, after Mark's 1984 graduation from Ohio State University with a degree in Dairy Management, he had successfully increased the registered herd by 20 percent. It went from 60 to 80 percent.



Bill Marteeny and his daughter Karen discuss the search for a compatible bone marrow transplant doner.

Homestead Notes

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My garden takes a lot of my time but I do enjoy working in it. There is always something new to see as I walk from one end to the other with my hoe destroying the weeds.

We've finally had a few small showers and that caused the weeds to grow rapidly. For weeks it was so powder-dry that nothing grew. Now the watermelon and cantaloupes are almost ready to be picked. The purple pod beans are producing very well this year. Folks are always surprised to learn that they will turn green when they're cooked.

A relative gave me some celeriac plants this year and I'm anxious to see how we'll like the celery-flavored roots. My row of peanuts looks fine but the soybeans simply would not sprout and so I have only six plants.

This is the year for our apricot tree to outdo itself. Every ten years or so it seems to bear more fruit than I can use. Several containers were taken to my Amish neighbors. The tree is 40-feet tall and we could not put a ladder where they grew — at the tips of the branches. So, I canned a lot of dropped apricots.

Blueberries and raspberries needed to be picked every few days too. These were frozen for breakfasts next winter. When our daughter came home for a day's visit she baked blueberry muffins for us.

My husband spends his days with the workmen at our new log house. Everyday there is something interesting happening as a procession of electricians, plumbers, and dry wall installers work there. He enjoys working with the masons who are building a large fireplace in our family room. It is such a big project to build a house.

SELECT THE RIGHT POTS AND PANS FOR YOUR RANGE

Pots and pans are pots and pans. Any one will do; after all, they are all pretty much the same. Or are they?

The fact is not all pots and pans are created equal. Besides coming in a wide variety of shapes, sizes and materials, not all pots and pans are suitable for every type of cooktop. Some work better on electric coil elements, for example, while others are designed for glass cooktops or work better with solid element cooktops; some cookware works especially well with gas burners.

For any cooktop, pots and pans require some basic characteristics. Look for: medium to heavy-weight pans with straight sides, tight-fitting lids and heat- resistant handles; pans that will not tip when full or empty; pan materials that heat evenly; and pans with flat, smooth bottoms.

Flat bottoms are a very important attribute because they work best on all cooktops. Electric coil elements and gas bumers are somewhat forgiving of pans that are not perfectly flat. Still, it is best to use flat-bottomed pans regardless of that type of cooktop you have.

To check for flatness, place a ruler across the bottom of the pan. For use with solid elements or glasstops, the pan should be perfectly flat, with no space between the ruler edge and the bottom of the pan. A slight space between the ruler and the pan is acceptable for use on electric coil elements or gas bumers. However, if the space is more than 1/4" do not use it on any type of electric cooktop.

There are certain types of pots and pans that should not be used on any electric cooktop. These include: woks; tea pots with rimmed bottoms; pans that are too large or too small for the surface unit; canners with ridged bottoms and pans that are warped or have obviously rounded (concave or convex) bottoms. Any of these utensil designs cause overheating that can damage any electric cooktop.

The material used in manufacturing pots and pans can also affect cooking results. Glass, ceramic, cast iron and stainless steel without aluminum or copper core all tend to heat slowly and cook unevenly.

In contrast, medium to heavy-weight aluminum or stainless steel with aluminum clad bottom or inner core copper bottom heats evenly and provides good results with coil elements, solid elements, glass tops and gas surface units.

If you are a home canner, you need to know that successful home canning starts with the right cookware and the proper use of that cookware on electric cooktops.

The large diameter of many water-bath and pressure canners, combined with the heavy weight of filled jars and hours of using high heat settings needed for canning, can damage a cooktop and shorten the life of standard electric heating elements. To protect your electric cooktop use the following recommendations.

Use only flat-bottomed canners. Ridged bottoms make poor contact with the surface unit and can cause standard elements to severely overheat (note: heavy duty coil elements can be purchased as a service part).

Use a canner that fits the surface unit, with little overhang. Oversized canners can trap heat and that can damage your cooktop.

Never place a canner on two surface units at the same time.

Alternate surface units, and allow elements to cool between batches.

At the start, fill the canner with hot tap water and bring to the boiling point. Keep the control at the lowest setting needed to maintain boiling.

Keep your reflector bowls clean for best heat reflections.

Can small batches to keep the weight of the canner to one that is easy to handle — by you and the surface unit.

Keep canning sessions to a reasonable time. Canning for eight hours in a row is hard on the cook and the cooktop.

Never can on glasstop surface units. They are not designed for canning and may be damaged in the process. For cooktops with electric coil elements, solid elements and gas surface units select the correct canner to fit the unit.

Consumer Demand For Pork Increases

DES MOINES, IOWA — One of the big stories at the World Pork Expo may well be the outstanding return pork producers are continuing to get from their checkoff investment.

Glenn Grimes, agricultural economist at the University of Missouri (and a consultant to the National Pork Producers Council) reports that consumer demand for pork was up again in the first four months of this year by an estimated 2-3 percent.

That continues a trend that coincides closely with the start-up of the pork industry's legislative checkoff in 1986 and the beginning of the highly successful Pork-The Other White Meat® promotion in 1987.

Last year, according to Grimes' calculations, consumer demand for pork (for all of 1990) increased 3-5 percent. The year brought a gross income increase to pork producers of $1.9 billion, based on checkoff receipts.

Grimes says that it is reasonable to conclude that checkoff funded programs contributed to at least half of the consumer demand increase in 1990, or $361 million. Approximately $22.5 million of checkoff funds generated last year were spent on promotion and consumer information programs aimed directly at increasing consumer demand.

That means pork producers received a 16 to 1 return on their checkoff investment in 1990 on consumer demand-oriented programs, and the first four months of this year indicates that consumer pork demand is continuing its upward trend.

Hey! Folks

If your cows are slipping and falling, it ain't my fault because I have a machine called a Scabbler that will fix that concrete so your cows won't keep slipping all the time.

We've got service all around this section of the country, and I have a fellow just jumping to do your job mighty fast.

And that ain't all, our prices are right reasonable, and if you're a tightwad we'll let you do the job yourself if you've got over 500 square feet. It can save you right smart a money.

So call me on my nickel at 800-692-0123. If I'm not by the phone, some real live person will take your number, and I'll try to get back to you real soon. Usually somebody is awake in this outfit, so you just call any time day or night. But, please mind the Lord, and don't call on Sunday.

Just one more thing. We fellows make our living doing this kind of work, and we've got children to feed and bills. That's our side of it, but you've got such things too. A lot of people tell us that this Scabbling saves a whole lot more than it costs. So go ahead and do it. It'll put shoes on everybody's feet.

Be looking to hear from you folks right soon.

Lean Beef Spurs Research

CHICAGO, IL — McDonald's McLean Deluxe sandwich has captured the imagination of a meat industry that's rapidly changing to meet consumer demand for lower fat products. But McDonald's new sandwich may be the tip of the iceberg when it comes to lower-fat meat products, based on reports given at a Processed Meats session of the Reciprocal Meat Conference in Manhattan, Kan., June 9 to 12.

If that's the case, then it's a very big iceberg. Dale Huffman, Ph.D., professor of meat science at Auburn University, said 44 percent of all beef consumed in the U.S. is eaten as ground beef — and McDonald's is one of the country's largest users of the product. U.S. consumption of ground beef amounts to approximately seven billion pounds annually.

It was at Auburn University laboratories that current formulations for low-fat ground beef were established. Checkoff-funded studies had been conducted on low-fat ground beef at Auburn and other university and private laboratories for several years.

The objective of the research was to produce a lower-fat product that had the eating characteristics of ground beef containing 20 percent fat — the amount of fat found to be optimal by taste panels.

Huffman said, "The problem is the availability of lean product to meet consumer needs. "We've created the demand, now we must come up with the product."

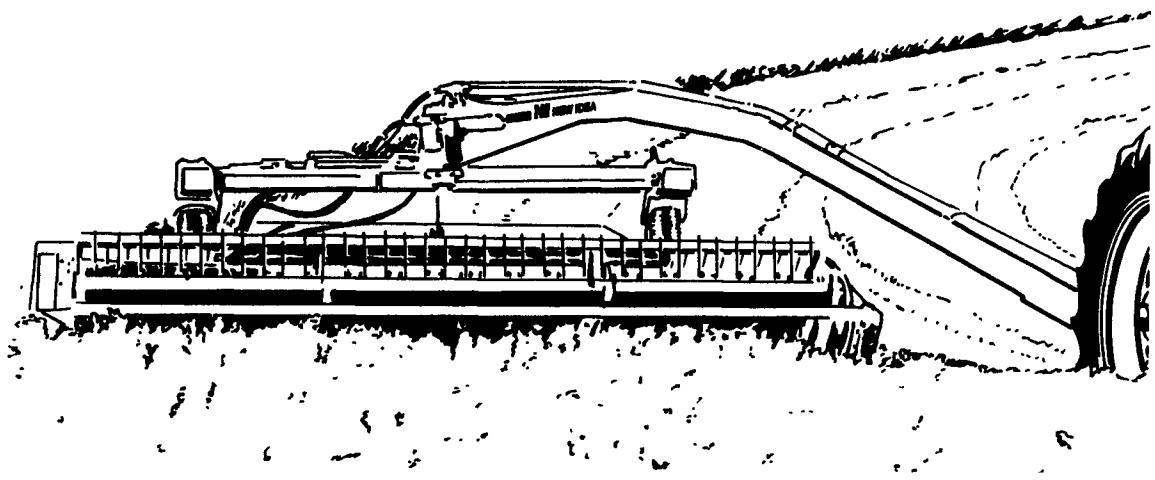
New Technologies

New technologies are becoming important in fat reduction in processed meats. Andrew D. Clarke, Ph.D., assistant professor of food science and nutrition and the University of Missouri, said supercitical fluid extraction can be a technique that could work in modifying meat composition.

Super critical fluid extraction using carbon dioxide, currently used in products like coffee to extract caffeine, provides advantages such as rapid mass transfer, moderate temperature operating conditions, negligible residual solvent and energy efficiency for processors. It can also be used as a preprocessing stage. Dry meat processing is an area that supercritical fluid extraction could be most successful, removing about 72 percent of the fat from a system at about 50°C.

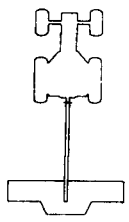
On the other hand, the process involves an additional piece of equipment that can be costly to processors.

Remove Plugs Safely



Plug removal system works without leaving your tractor seat.

- Power out plug removal hydraulically lifts header and separates rolls forcing plug through. You stay safely in the tractor seat.
- Full-width conditioning rolls crimp stems uniformly, yet firmly, while gently handling nutrient-rich leaves. Tension adjusts easily.



Hydrostatically position mower conditioner left or right for faster turns

- Overshot auger gently moves crop to the conditioning rolls reducing leaf loss and damage.
- Overhead frame and three-point suspension system provide both lateral and vertical float so ends float independently.
- Time-proven sickle-type cutterbar cuts clean swaths with no strips.
- Select full 12' or 14' cutting width.

Covered Dish Specials

This is the season for picnics, get-togethers and socials. If you need a covered dish to share at these events, check out these recipes submitted by our readers.

HEARTY HEALTHY CHICKEN SALAD

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cooked, skinned, boned and cut into chunks
1 cup small macaroni, cooked
3 tomatoes, cubed
1 cup sliced celery
½ cup chopped sweet red pepper
3 tablespoons chopped spring onion greens
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon oregano
1 cup chicken broth
1 clove garlic, split
¼ cup wine vinegar

In large bowl, mix together chicken (while still warm), macaroni, tomatoes, celery, red pepper, and onion greens. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and oregano. In small saucepan, place chicken broth and garlic; bring to a boil over high temperature and boil for 10 minutes or until broth is reduced to ½ cup. Add wine vinegar and pour over salad, mixing well. Chill until cold. Serves 6.

EASY CHICKEN POT PIE

½ cup instant mashed potatoes
⅔ cup hot water
⅓ cup shortening
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
Milk, as necessary

Mix potatoes and water in medium bowl. Let stand until water is absorbed. Mix in shortening, flour, baking powder, and salt. Stir in milk as necessary to form a dough that may be patted to fit over the filling.

Pie Filling:
2 cups cut-up cooked chicken
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup sour cream
1 10¾ can cream of chicken soup
1 10-ounce package frozen green peas

Combine ingredients in baking dish, 8-inch square or similar size. Pat dough into shape to fit over top. Bake pie at 375 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

Michele Mohler

EGGPLANT AND ZITI PARMESAN

1¼ pounds eggplant, peeled and cut into ¼ -inch slices
8 ounces ziti
1 tablespoon oil
1 large clove garlic, crushed
1⅓ cups ricotta or low-fat cottage cheese
1 cup grated parmesan, divided
¼ cup fresh parsely or 1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
½ teaspon dried basil
½ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon hot red pepper flakes
2 cups tomato sauce
Salt and pepper

Sprinkle eggplant with salt. Place in colander and let drain for 30 minutes. Rinse, pat dry.

Cook ziti according to package directions. Drain and rinse. Combine oil and garlic and smear it on the eggplant slices. Sprinkle with pepper.

Broil eggplant slices, turning them once, for a total of 5 minutes.

In a large bowl, combine ricotta cheese, all but 2 tablespoons of Parmesan, parsley, basil, oregano, and pepper flakes. Toss cheese mixture with ziti.

On the bottom of a 2½ -quart to 3-quart casserole, spread a thin layer of tomato sauce, add half the ziti mixture, then half the eggplant slices, then half the remaining tomato sauce. Repeat ziti, eggplant, and sauce layers. Top with remaining 2 tablespoons parmesan.

Cover and bake in preheated 400 degree oven for 30 minutes. Remove; cover and bake for another 15 minutes or until the top is lightly browned.

HAMBURGER CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef, browned
½ pound ground sausage, browned
1 package bread cubes
4 or 5 medium potatoes, cubed
2 small eggs
½ cup milk
1 small onion, chopped
2 stems celery, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Brown meats. Mix together all ingredients and put in baking dish and cover with a can of cream of mushroom soup.

BAKED THREE BEAN CASSEROLE

1 16-ounce can pork and beans
1 16-ounce can kidney beans, drained
1 16-ounce can butter beans, drained
1 16-ounce can tomatoes, cut up, including juice
½ pound bacon, sliced
½ cup onions, diced
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons dark brown sugar or molasses
1 tablespoon prepared mustard

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Cut bacon into ¾ - to 1-inch pieces, fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from drippings onto paper towel to absorb excess fat.

Remove all but 2 tablespoons bacon drippings from frying pan. Add onions and saute until translucent. Add tomatoes, vinegar, sugar, and mustard. Simmer for 3 minutes.

Stir in pork and beans, kidney beans, and butter beans with crisp bacon pieces.

Transfer to 3-quart casserole dish and bake for 1 hour. Turn off oven and let the dish stand in the oven for 30 minutes.

Variation: Instead of bacon, brown ½ pound lean ground beef and proceed by adding onions to the ground beef.

Plum season is here. Blanche Mellott of Mercersburg writes that she used to operate an orchard that had a lot of plum trees.

"In those days, plums did not sell too well until an older lady told me how to preserve plums. I made a dish of plums and served it the next day to customers. After that plums sold like hot cakes," she writes.

It's simple and not hard to can plums. Blanche wants to share the recipe for those who would like to take advantage of the plentiful supply of plums during this season.

BLUE PRUNE PLUMS

Half fill a large kettle with water. Bring to a boil and add a pinch of baking soda. Drop plums in the water. When the plums are cooked, they will float to the top. Use a slotted spoon to remove plums from water to place in a canning jar. Pour up sugar to 2 cups water) over the plums. Process in boiling water bath for 25 minutes.

ANSWER — Mrs. Harvey Martin from Denver wanted to know where she can buy sugar beet seeds. Thanks to H. Bates, Honesdale, for sending two addresses where the seeds may be purchased: Henry Fields, Seed and Nursery Co., 415 N. Burnett, Shenaneloak, Iowa 51602 or Gurneys Seeds & Nursery Co., Yankton, S. Dakota 57079.

ANSWER — Betty Lawrence of Honesdale wanted a apple butter pie recipe. Thanks to Connie Weaner of Gettysburg who sent a recipe from her mother who is 75 that she had learned to make from her mother. Although she took some of these and some of this, Betty was able to figure out the measurements. She said, "Grandma used to make this as a thin tart using left over pie dough."

Grandma Boyd's Apple Butter Pie

3 cups apple butter
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup water

Mix together ingredients and pour into 9-inch pie shell. Crisscross strips of pie dough for top. Sprinkle finished pie with cinnamon sugar. Bake 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

ANSWER — Mrs. Calhoun of Glen Rock asked for the amount of baking powder needed to make the Brickerville House Chocolate Cake. Here is the complete recipe.

Brickerville House Chocolate Cake

2 cups sugar
3 large eggs
1¼ cups oil
4 teaspoons vanilla
1⅓ cups boiling water
1 cup unsweetened cocoa
1⅓ teaspoons baking soda
1⅓ teaspoons baking powder
⅔ teaspoon salt
3⅓ cups flour
Peanut butter frosting

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 2 9-inch layer pans. Beat sugar and eggs until creamy. Blend in oil and vanilla. Beat 2 minutes.

Combine boiling water and cocoa. Add to egg mixture. Blend thoroughly. Stir in baking soda, baking powder, and salt. Add flour and beat until blended and smooth. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes to cool. Place on racks.

Peanut Butter Frosting:

1 pound sifted confectioners sugar
½ cup creamy peanut butter
¼ to ⅓ cup milk

Combine ingredients and beat until smooth. Frost cake when cooled.

ANSWER — Hazee Few of Keymar, Md., would like to know how to make homemade root beer that takes yeast. Thanks to Julia Brubaker, Carlisle, for sending a recipe that she says is easy to make and delicious, and to Barbara Peachey of McAlisterville, for sending a recipe.

Quick Root Beer

2 cups granulated sugar
1 scant teaspoon yeast
5 teaspoons root beer extract
Water

Dissolve the sugar in hot water. Pour into a gallon jug. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Put root beer extract in jug. Nearly fill jug with lukewarm water and add yeast. Set in sun for 3 hours. Bring inside a warm place. Put in refrigerator overnight. Ready to drink the next morning.

Quick Root Beer

1 gallon warm water
2 cups sugar
4 teaspoons root beer extract
1 teaspoon dry yeast
Few grains salt

Mix together all ingredients. Pour in jars and screw caps on, not too tight, or the jars may burst from the yeast pressure. Let set at room temperature for 4 to 6 hours. Screw caps on tight and refrigerate until ready to serve the next day. Will become stronger with age.

ANSWER — Mrs. David Fisher of Lewistown requested recipes for sugar beets. Thanks to a reader who sent several recipes.

Baked Pudding

¾ pound mashed, cooked beets
¾ pound self-raising flour
2 ounces cooking oil

Mix the flour and fat; add a pinch of salt, stir in the mashed beets. Make into a stiff dough with milk or water. Bake. The addition of dried fruit improves this.

Chocolate Spread

1 pound mashed, cooked beet
2 ounces cocoa powder
½ ounces margarine

Heat ingredients in pan over boiling water while stirring for 20 minutes. Add one or two saccharine tablets if liked. Use as a spread on bread.

MOTHER'S BEST PEACH PIE

1 unbaked pie crust

Filling:

4 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 cup sugar (divided ¾ cup and ¼ cup)
2 tablespoons flour
1 egg
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sour cream

Slice peaches into a bowl. Sprinkle with ¼ cup sugar and let set.

Combine ¾ cup sugar, flour, egg, salt, and vanilla. Fold in sour cream. Stir into peaches. Pour into crust. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes then turn oven to 350 degrees for 20 minutes. After baking time is finished, sprinkle crumb topping over pie.

Topping:

⅓ cup sugar
⅓ cup flour
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine ingredients until crumbly. Sprinkle on top of pie and bake an additional 10 minutes at 400 degrees.

I am a new subscriber and just love Lancaster Farming.

I live in Bucks County and work as an environmental planner for the Bucks County Conservation District.

I live on an old farm and raise chickens and cats. My true love is gardening and I raise small amounts of many different vegetables and herbs, not to mention lots of flowers.

I recently received the Farm Women's Cookbook compiled by Naomi Bupp and just love it. I plan to order more as gifts. It really is a great collection.

IMPOSSIBLE CHEESEBURGER PIE

1 pound ground beef
1 to 1½ cups chopped onion
1½ cups milk
3 eggs
¾ cup Bisquick
½ teapoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tomatoes, sliced
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease pie plate. Brown beef and onion, drain. Spread in plate. Beat milk, eggs, baking mix, salt and pepper for 15 seconds in blender or 1 minute with hand beater. Pour into plate. Bake 25 minutes. Top with tomatoes and cheese. Bake until knife inserted in center comes out clean, 5 to 8 minutes more. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Marie Geisinger wants a recipe for crock jam. Here are two for the crock pot from Vivian H. Plasterer of Newburg.

Peach or Apricot Butter

4 1 lb. 14 oz. cans peaches or apricots, drained
3 to 4 cups sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground cloves

Drain fruit and remove pits; puree fruit in blender. Pour into crock pot. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and cook on high 6 to 8 hours. Remove cover during last half of cooking. Stir occasionally.

Variation: Fresh peach or apricot butter: Wash, peel, pit, and cook fruit until soft. Add sugar when cooked (using ½ to ¾ cup to each cup of fruit). Add spices and cook as directed.

Old-Fashioned Apple Butter

12 to 14 apples (preferably Jonathan or Winesap)
2 cups apple juice
Cinnamon
Allspice
Cloves
½ cup sauterne, optional
Sugar

Wash, core, and quarter apples (do not peel). Combine apples and apple juice in lightly oiled crock pot. Cover and cook on low 10 to 18 hours (for high setting 2 to 4 hours).

When fruit is tender, put through a food mill to remove peel. Measure and return to crock pot. For each pint of fruit, add 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon allspice, and ½ teaspoon cloves; stir well. Cover and cook on high for 6 to 8 hours, stirring about every 2 hours. Remove cover after 3 hours to allow fruit and juice to cook down. Add sauterne for the last hour of cooking. Spoon into hot sterilized jars and process in boiling water bath.

Skin Cancer Is Undeclared Epidemic

University Park (Centre Co.) — According to Dr. J. Graham Smith, Jr. of the American Academy of Dermatology, "skin cancer is an undeclared epidemic."

Since many agricultural workers are exposed to potentially damaging sun rays, protection of exposed skin surfaces may be necessary.

Another dermatologist from Illinois recently talked about the epidemic. Dr. George Engel noted that malignant melanoma, the most deadly form of skin cancer, has increased a staggering 93% in one decade! Since this type ot cancer is just one of three types, early detection, diagnosis and professional treatment are critical.

One reason for these increased levels of skin cancer has been the destruction of part of the protective atmosphere surrounding our earth. The ozone layer has been eroded by man-made chemicals, limiting it's ability to absorb harmful ultraviolet rays.

Even with the disease incidence increasing, most skin cancer is preventable. At-risk persons such as those with fair skin, blond or red hair, blue or green eyes and numerous moles or freckles, should wear protective clothing and effective sun screens. Perspiring will reduce the effectiveness of sun screens so reapply them as needed. Consult with your doctor if you notice abnormal growth or skin discoloration.

ANSWER — Rhonda A. Scanlon of Cherry Hill, N.J., requested a recipe for apple cider donuts. Thanks to Betty Light of Lebanon for sending a recipe that she received from Musselman's Apples.

Spicy Apple Juice Doughnuts

3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
2 eggs
¼ cup butter, softened
½ cup sugar
¾ cup apple juice
Granulated or powdered sugar

Stir together flour, baking powder, cinnamon, salt, and nutmeg. Beat together eggs, butter, and sugar.

Stir in flour mixture alternately with the apple juice, beating until blended after each addition.

Cover and chill dough for two hours. Roll chilled dough 3/8-inch thick on well floured board. Cut with floured doughnut cutter. Deep fry at 375 degrees until golden brown on both sides. Drain. While warm, shake in plastic bag containing sugar.

ANSWER — Betty Hearne of Townsend, Del., would like to know how to make spearmint tea from fresh or dried spearmint plants. Thanks to Ruth Stoltzfus of Narvon for sending a recipe.

Spearmint Tea

4 cups fresh tea leaves and tender tips (no stems or blossoms). Place in Pyrex or ceramic containers. Bring 4 quarts water to a boil and pour several quarts over tea leaves. Cover container and steep for 15 minutes. Add 3¾ to 4 cups sugar to remaining hot water to dissolve the sugar. Strain tea leaf water and add sugar mixture.

To serve when cool: Use 1 part tea-sugar mixture with 3 parts water. Store in glass, ceramic or plastic containers. May be frozen and diluted when thawed.

Montgomery 4-H Fair

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Do you enjoy crafts, sewing, cooking, growing or canning your own foods? Residents of Montgomery County are invited to show off their skills by participating in the open class divisions of the Montgomery County 4-H Fair, August 15-17 at the Montgomery County 4-H Center in Creamery. Judging is done on a Danish system, so each entry receives a ribbon. Not only is showing fun, it is educational too. Judges comment on the job you have done and offer suggestions for improvement. The Fair will have Open Classes in clothing and textiles, quilting, crafts, foods and nutrition, home-grown vegetables and canned foods. New this year is the heaviest tomato contest.

A small entry fee will be charged and a cash prize goes to the heaviest tomato. Entries will be received on Wednesday, August 14, from 2 to 4 p.m. and in the evening, from 7 to 9 p.m., at the 4-H Center. The Fair exhibits are open for public viewing beginning Thursday evening at 5:00 p.m.

For more information, call Nancy Stevens, County Extension Director, at (215) 489-4315, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Kid's Korner

4-H'ers Create Puppets To Make Sick Kids Smile

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Kids from Southeast Regional 4-H are making other kids smile. Lots of kids who don't have much to smile about.

The 4-H kids created 56 hand bear puppets for kids who are seriously ill with chronic or terminal sicknesses.

The puppets were donated to Camelot for Children, Inc. Camelot is a house located in Allenstown that provides a daytime gathering place where seriously ill children and their families may meet others who have similar illnesses.

The home is filled with music, toys, books, games, and friends to help make the children laugh.

Often these children spend lots of time in hospitals. When they aren't in hospitals, they are often lonely. Their families often feel scared about the adjustments the illnesses cause. So Camelot is a place for the whole family. The children have lots of toys and friends with which to play. The parents can discuss their problems and concerns with other parents who have sick children.

Four-H'ers who attended the Southeast Regional 4-H Fashion Revue at the Moravian College on July 8 created the puppets. The kids were from Berks, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, and Schuylkill Counties.

To begin, the participants were given a basic pattern and fuzzy fabric. After they cut out and sewed the puppets, the participants gave their puppet personality by dressing it. Some made bib overalls, skirts, or scarves for their puppets. The 4-H'ers hope the bear puppets will make the sick kids smile.

The 4-H'ers and other concerned people help make Camelot possible by donating toys, time, and money to operate the home. If you would like information or arrange a visit to Camelot, call (215) 791-5683

Valerie Hacker of Fleetwood thinks it's neat to make puppets. She and other 4-H'ers made the puppets during the Southeast Regional 4-H Fashion Revue.

Brenda MacPhail of Delaware County makes a scarf for a puppet.

HERE'S TO 4-H TOMORROW'S LEADERS!

Julie Lictenwalner of Schnecksville makes a puppet from fuzzy material.

Rachel Heilman, Orefield; Jody Hewitt, Spring City; and other 4-H'ers make puppets for Camelot for Children, a place for seriously ill children.

Preparations for the Poultry Queen Pageant are being made by Alternate Poultry Queen Bev Ginder, contestants Diane Musser and Marlene Enck, and Lancaster County Poultry Queen Deb Wolgemuth.

Poultry Contestants Prepare For Pageant

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) —It isn't too early to start thinking about the Lancaster County Poultry Queen Pageant.

Scheduled for August 2 at 6:15 p.m. at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, the pageant is an annual event. This year, the winner also will serve as the Pennsylvania Poultry Queen.

To prepare for the gala competition, current Lancaster Poultry Queen Debra Wolgemuth held a informal get-acquainted night at her home on July 12 for the contestants who are preparing their skit presentations.

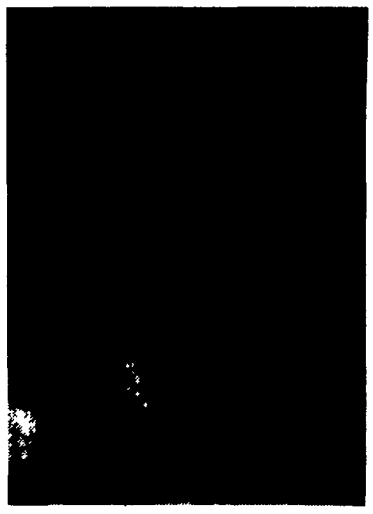
Contest elibility requires participants to be from a poultry farm or affiliated to work related to the poultry industry. She must have finished her junior year of high school and have a sincere interest in promoting the industry at parades, banquets, and school promotions.

Pageant competition includes a skit presentation lauding the nutritional value of poultry and eggs and answering an impromtu question.

The queen will receive a $500 scholarship or $300 in cash plus numerous prizes and a $150 wardrobe fund. The alternate queen will receive a $300 scholarship or $150 in cash. All contestants receive a watch from Koser Jewelers, Mount Joy.

Tickets for the pageant ar $12. Order tickets from Guy Martin at (717) 392-1978 or from Tom Pantano at (717) 687-7670.

The five contestants preparing for the pageant include the following:



Michelle High

Marlene Enck

Diane Musser

Jennifer Moyer

Lori Marie Mitchell

Michelle Lee High, a 1991 Manheim Central graduate, plans to enter Reading Hospital School of Radiology in the fall. She lives with her parents Donald and Barbara High at 3460 Echo Valley Rd., Manheim. She has a brother, Michael, and a sister Denese. Her father is employed by Pennfield Feeds.

Michelle enjoys singing, frisbee, and soccer, and has participated in choir and yearbook activities during high school.

Diane Louise Musser is a 1991 graduate of Elizabethtown Area High School. She plans to major in art education at Kutztown University. Her hobbies include field hockey, track, 4-H clubs in sheep, beef, pig, and judging, drawing and painting.

In high school, Diane was active in band, chorus, field hockey, track, ODE to youth club, pep club, and Future Business Leaders of America.

She helps her parents Harold and Judy Musser with their 240,000 broiler operation in Elizabethtown. She has two brothers, Greg and Doug, and a sister Tricia.

Marlene Renee Enck has her sights set on teaching math or disabled children. As a Solanco High School senior, she plans to attend Mansfield College after graduation.

The 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Enck of 573 Camargo Rd, Quarryville, helps with 60,000 layers on her grandparents' (Mr. and Mrs. Robert Groff) farm. Marlene also helps milk 80 cows at the farm.

Cheerleading, track, silk squad, honor society, band, 4-H sewing and cooking, and serving as vice president of a 4-H club, occupies much of Marlene's time. In addition she has been on workcamps to Kentucky and Puerto Rico with her church youth group.

When she isn't busy, she likes to jump on her trampoline and walk through the woods with her dogs, Mollie and Josey.

Southeast Fashion Revue: Bear To Be Different

BETHLEHEM (Lehigh Co.) — "Bear to be Different," was the theme of the Southeast Regional 4-H Fashion Revue. And that is what 80 participants did as they modeled their original fashions in competition held at Moravian College on July 8.

The annual event includes top winners from nine counties: Berks, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, and Schuylkill.

The eight participants chosen as Senior Gold Winners will compete on the state level at Penn State on July 29 to 31. These winners include Lisa Geschwindt, Deanna Barthlow, Laura Dassler, Kristen Schickling, Stephanie Heimer, Myranda Caputo, Jennifer Johnston, and Laura Leiby.

Senior Honors Group, alternates for the Gold group, for the Southeast Regional 4-H Fashion Revue include Melanie Heiter, Lenhartsville, Stephanie Wojszwillo, Reading; Kristen Zimmerman, Chester County; and Nonee Wagner, Schnecksville.

The four alternates chosen are Melanie Heiter, Stephanie Wojszwillo, Kristen Zimmerman, and Nonee Wagner.

In the junior division, the following were named winners: Oralyn Folk, Bernville; Jody Hewitt, Spring City; Leah Algrer, Honey Brook; and Janine Zaleski, Pen Argyl.

Judges for the event were Phoebe Bitler, Eileen Garges, Marie Groth, Virginia Flynn, Beth Teaford, and Susan Miller.

Top Seamtresses Represent Capitol Region

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.)— An ever-changing kaleidoscope of colors brightened the stage at the annual 4-H Capital region fashion revue, held July 11 at St. Matthew Church in York.

Modeling fashions from formal gowns to casual shorts, 4-H sewing participants from seven counties paraded a colorful and stylish array of garments before an appreciative audience of parents and guests.

Highlight of the fashion revue was the naming of nine senior and five junior gold winners and a duplicate number of alternate winners. The nine senior fashion revue winners selected will represent the Capital region at state 4-H fashion revue on July 30 at Penn State University.

Senior gold winners are Beth Shuman, Sonia Smith and Jacki Sterner, representing Adams County; Laura Sheaffer, Suzanne Miller, and Cara Regitz, Lancaster County; Angela Whitcraft and Kim Frantz, York County; and Lee Brandt, Lebanon County.

Junior gold winners are Kristin Johnston and Kelly Rockafellow, Adams County; Terri Seibert and Charity Irvine, Lancaster County; and Terri Seibert, Lebanon County.

Selected as senior alternates are Jessica Dayhoff, Adams County; Jesse Romberger, Dauphin County; Marlene Enck, Lancaster County; Jamie Irwin and Joyce Watson, Lebanon County; and York Countians Randi Peck, Jessica Price, Carrie Davies and Vanessa Debnam.

Lancaster County's gold junior winner Charity Irvine created for her fashion revue project a blue and white cord jumper with dropped waistline and gathered skirt. She complemented the garment with a white T-shirt and shoes and red, white and blue necklace. Charity is a seventh grader at Ephrata Junior High School.

Kristen Johnston, Gettysburg, chose rose floral chintz for her party dress featuring neckline scallops and front button closure. Special details included princess seams and bodice lining of batiste. Kristin is fifth-year member of Adams County's Barlow-Mt. Joy 4-H club.

Sheila Miller of Lancaster County modeled her V-waisted dress with gathered skirt, accented with contrasting scarf, sleeve bands and bottom. She is an eighth-grade student at Manheim Central.

The 17-year-old daughter of Edward and Barbara Mitchell is a senior at Warwick High School where she plays Powder Puff Football. She plans to attend Northampton College and become a dental hygenist.

She enjoys reading, listening to music, shopping, talking on the phone, and helping with handicapped children.

Lori has a brother named Joseph. The Mitchells reside at 408 Pierson Road, Lititz.

Jennifer Suzann Moyer lives with her parents, Grace and J. Roger Moyer Jr. and a sister, Elizabeth, at 33 Lititz Run Road, Lititz. The family has two computerized chicken houses with 174,000 layers.

At Warwick High School, Jennifer is a full-time athletic trainer, chairperson of homecoming, former chairperson of promotion, student government member, and class treasurer in ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades. She is on staff for Leadership Developmental Camp, president of Red Cross Youth Council, and Youth Representative for the Lancaster County Red Cross.

In her sparetime, Jennifer likes to listen to music, shop, get a suntan, read, exercise, and talk on the phone.

As a senior, she is making plans to major in sports medicine at college.

South Mountain 4-H

The South Mountain 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on Monday, June 24 at 7 p.m. at the Fontana Community Building.

Sue Getz gave a demonstration on sewing. She told the group what they need to have before they start to sew.

The Lebanon Fair is July 27 through August 2. Members were reminded that their projects must be at the fairgrounds on July 26 or 27 at times given.

On July 27 the club will wrap potatoes for the fair and will have a swim party afterward. The club will also be selling ham and chicken barbeque tickets at $5.50 each for the fair. The club will also be working in the foodstand on July 30 and August 2 at the fair.

Franklin Co. 4-H Shepherds

The Franklin County 4-H Shepherds held their June meeting on June 25.

At the meeting, a farm tour of each 4-H'ers sheep and their pens was held. Members visited seven different sites.

While touring, each 4-H'er was required to judge their fellow 4-H'ers project. Judging was based on seven different categories, including condition and cleanliness of pen, condition of animals, adequate and balanced ration, knowledge of ration, clean water available, and quality of housing.

Members also prepared for the next meeting by receiving fecalizers and learning how to collect a fecal sample.

GEHL

Pack It In!

Pack more hay into each bale with Gehl variable chamber round balers.

- Total Density Control (TDC®) - Lets you custom-build bales according to changing crop and moisture conditions for maximum nutrient value.
- Two models - Makes bales 3 feet, 9 inches wide and up to 5 feet in diameter, or 5 feet wide and up to 6 feet in diameter.
- Quick-wrap option - Speeds your baling operation and helps preserve hay quality.
- Constant velocity driveline - For smooth operation.
- Electric dual twine wrap - With manual or auto control.
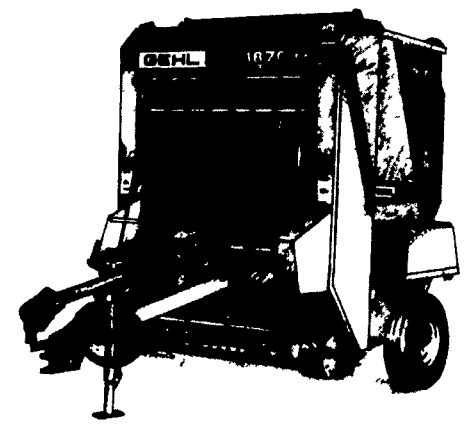
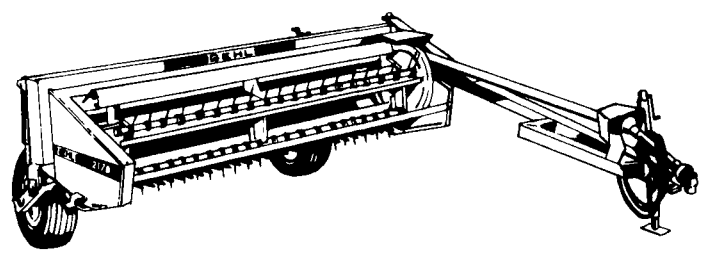
- Low horsepower requirement - Lets you bale with a tractor as small as 40 horsepower





Thoroughly Conditioned

The Gehl 2140/2170 mower conditioners will thoroughly condition your hay. These pull-type mower conditioners are built for fast cutting, fast drying and worry-free performance. The wide, intermeshing rubber rolls with intermittent ribs give you 35% more working edges than continuous-ribbed rolls, for more thorough conditioning. That means shorter drying time with less leaf damage. See your Gehl dealer today on how the 2140, with a 7 ft. cutting width, and the 2170 with a 9 ft. 3 in. cutting width, will fit into your haymaking operation.

Gehl Mix-All®: the "can do" machine!

On-farm feedmaking has never been better. Or more worry-free. In fact, Gehl Mix-All® portable grinder-mixers are truly "can do" machines. Because they fit into any feedmaking operation; uniformly grind and mix ingredients for a higher quality feed; and save work and time with efficient hydraulics. Choice of 100 or 135 bu. capacity models.

Come in today and see what a Mix-All® "can do" for you!

232 ACRE FARM!

AUCTION

REAL ESTATE

MRS. MARTHA M. BENDER, WIDOW OF THE LATE WILLIAM K. BENDER OFFERS THIS TREMENDOUS FARM AT PUBLIC AUCTION.

SAT., AUGUST 3, 1991

- 11:00 A.M.

ON THE PREMISES AT R.D.#1, AIRVILLE, CHANCEFORD TOWNSHIP, YORK COUNTY, PA.

DIRECTIONS: From Lancaster County use Rt. 372 & Norman Wood Bridge to Rt. 74 in York County. North 5 mi. to Runkle's Getty Sta. Left on Workinger Rd. 1 mi. to our directional sign. Right onto Ted Wallace Rd. and go 1/2 mi. to farm on right. From upstate & Maryland use I-83 to York Exit #6. Rt. 74 S. 13 mi. to Runkle's Getty Sta. and use above directions to farm.

LAND: 232 acre m/l farm in a high state of cultivation. Consisting of approx. 185 acres of tillable land. Approx. 25 acres woodland. The balance is pasture, land around the buildings and a pond of approx. one-half acre. The woodland contains mature timber suitable for immediate harvesting.

SOIL TYPE: The soils of the farm are Elioak Silt Loam, fertile and very productive.

IMPROVEMENTS: A large 12-room frame dwelling. First floor has kitchen with fireplace and woodburning stove, living room, dining room and half bath. Sescond floor has 4 bedrooms and bath. Front and rear sets of stairs connect first and second floors. The third floor has three rooms. Large basement. Drinking water is from a never-failing spring. This home could accommodate two families. 48x80 ft. bank barn w/20x80 ft. addition. A 32x70 wagonshed/cornbarn. A 26x50 garage/implement shed. A 30x32 ft. garage. A concrete stave silo. And a large hog barn converted to a machinery shed. Plus other buildings.

ZONING: Agricultural.

TAXES: On County Tax Map "EM" Parcel 50. Presently in "Clean and Green" program. School Tax is $2007.21. County and Local Taxes are $534.11 at present.

DEVELOPMENT POTENTIAL: The area is rural, with farms of all sizes, and some development along road frontages. This farm is divided by Legislative Route 66013 "Ted Wallace Road," and has approx. 2000 feet on each side of the road. Also some frontage on Flaharty Road (T645). Chanceford Township Regulations state that a farm of this acreage is permitted 10 building rights. One building right must stay with the farm buildings, leaving the potential for 9 building lots to be subdivided.

TERMS: A down-payment of 10% of the gavel price is required on day of auction. Balance due in-full on or before October 3, 1991 at final settlement. Growing crops are reserved.

INSPECTION: For appointment, Phone (717) 927-6568. Open House on Sunday, July 7, 14 & 21 from 1:00 to 4:00 P.M.

LAND & IMPROVEMENTS OFFERED AS-IS: Showings and Open House dates provided so inspection may be made to the buyer's satisfaction.

COLOR BROCHURE: Phone (717) 382-4379 OR 244-2875.

Among the junior gold winners at Capital Region fashion revue were Kristin Johnston, Gettysburg, left, and Kelly Rockafellow, Adams County.

Adams County's Kelly Rockafellow selected a colorful cotton polyester in bright geranium pattern for her jumpsuit with pleated pants and sleeves. Features on the junior-gold-winning garment included notched collar, princess seams and buttonholes. A seventh-grader, Kelly is a member of the Barlow-Mt. Joy club.

A floral print dress of cotton chintz, accented with lace, was the project choice of Terri Seibert, Lebanon County junior gold winner. Details on Terri's fifth-year sewing project dress included a dropped, gathered waistline, gathered inset sleeves with a cuff and a double row of tucks near the hemline. Terri is a member of the Kelly Helpers 4-H club.

Senior gold winner Lee Brandt of Manheim chose 100-percent wool for his pleated pants with side pockets and matching vest detailed with welt pocket and bak belt. Lee completed his outfit by sewing a cotton-poly long-sleeved shirt with front-buttoned band and shirt-tail hem, and his complementing necktie. A member of Lebanon County's Kelly Helpers club, Lee is an eighth-grader at Palmyra Middle School.

Kim Frantz, Seven Valleys, designed a dropped-waist dress of a soft, floral print. Special features on her project garment included gathered skirt, back V-neckline, tulip sleeves and a contrasting collar. A senior at Dallastown High School, Kim is a 7-year 4-H member of the Glen Rock club in York County.

Lancaster County's Suzanne Miller, Lititz, chose blue and green tropical wool fabrics for her coordinating lined straight skirt and boxy-style jacket. Her creme-colored blouse with softly-gathered, stand-up collar completed the outfit. Suzanne is in the tenth grade at Manheim Central High School and is a member of the Rossville 4-H club.

Forest green corduroy was the fabric of choice for the dress modeled by Cara Regitz, Leola. Her pinwale corduroy design featured long set-in sleeves, lined princess bodice, contrasting lace collar and dropped waist drindl skirt with side-seam pockets. A 4-H knitting club member, Cara accented the outfit with her hand-knit, long-sleeved burgundy sweater. She is a member of Lancaster's Garden Spot 4-H club.

Beth Shuman of McSherrystown designed an ensemble of split skirt and loose-fitting top, with extended, padded shoulders, long sleeves and mock band. The knee-split skirt was detailed with front pleats and side-front pockets. The Adams County 4-H seamstress is a member of the Bonneauville 4-H club.

Laura Sheaffer, Ephrata, chose plaid Merino wool for her unlined jacket, with inverted back pleat. Her coordinating lined loden-green slacks were of a wool-blend fabric. A ninth-grader, Laura is a member of Lancaster County's Garden Spot 4-H club.

Bright, contrasting colors of red, navy and yellow corduroy were Sonja Smith's choice for her oversized pullover jacket and skirt combo. The casual jacket featured a drawstring bottom, fitting loosely over the pleated skirt with fitted waistband and back slit. A matching backpack added a jaunty touch to Sonja's sixth-year sewing project as a member of Adams County's Barlow-Mt. Joy club.

Jacki Sterner, Gettysburg, selected Pendleton wools for her coordinating suit of fully-lined gray jacket and gray, black, cranberry and creme plaid skirt with back closure and kick-pleat. To complete her outfit, Jackie styled a polyester blouse with three diagonal, cross-shoulder tucks and self-covered cuff and back buttons. Jackie is an eleven-year 4-H sewing member of the Shamrock 4-H club in Adams County and a student at Penn State.

Third-year 4-H seamstress Angela Whitcraft, New Freedom, chose a black print for her dropped, scalloped waist dress. With lower calf hem length, the stylish dress featured front bows, back zipper and long sleeves with pleated caps. Angie is a member of the Glen Rock 4-H club in York County.

A total of 75 particpants, 40 juniors and 35 seniors, participated in the fashion revue, according to York County host home economist Joan Lamberson.

There's a new breakthrough seed treatment for small grains.

FUNGICIDE

Powerful, broad-spectrum protection against powdery mildew, rusts and smuts.

No other seed treatment can deliver more protection against major small grain diseases than new BAYTAN 30.

It's EPA cleared for use on wheat, barley, oats and rye, and university test plots over the past few years have proven that, where disease pressure is moderate to heavy, BAYTAN 30 will consistently produce an exceptional return on investment.

Since BAYTAN 30 is systemic, it is absorbed right into the plant's system, effectively controlling or suppressing seedborne and soilborne diseases for several weeks. Researchers from some production areas have reported that BAYTAN 30 will also effectively suppress take-all.

BAYTAN 30 also provides early season protection against the establishment of foliar diseases such as powdery mildew, leaf and stripe rust, and can be used in conjunction with your foliar fungicide program.

This exciting new seed treatment will be available only on seed sold through certified seed conditioners. So, for more information on BAYTAN 30 and the locations of certified seed conditioners near you, please contact the Gustafson office in Dallas, (214) 985-8877.

When you're up against moderate to heavy disease pressure, there isn't a better answer than new BAYTAN 30 Systemic Seed Treatment from Gustafson.

REAL ESTATE

MRS. MARTHA M. BENDER, WIDOW OF THE LATE WILLIAM K. BENDER OFFERS THIS TREMENDOUS FARM AT PUBLIC AUCTION.

SAT., AUGUST 3, 1991

- 11:00 A.M.

ON THE PREMISES AT R.D.#1, AIRVILLE, CHANCEFORD TOWNSHIP, YORK COUNTY, PA.

DIRECTIONS: From Lancaster County use Rt. 372 & Norman Wood Bridge to Rt. 74 in York County. North 5 mi. to Runkle's Getty Sta. Left on Workinger Rd. 1 mi. to our directional sign. Right onto Ted Wallace Rd. and go 1/2 mi. to farm on right. From upstate & Maryland use I-83 to York Exit #6. Rt. 74 S. 13 mi. to Runkle's Getty Sta. and use above directions to farm.

LAND: 232 acre m/l farm in a high state of cultivation. Consisting of approx. 185 acres of tillable land. Approx. 25 acres woodland. The balance is pasture, land around the buildings and a pond of approx. one-half acre. The woodland contains mature timber suitable for immediate harvesting.

SOIL TYPE: The soils of the farm are Elioak Silt Loam, fertile and very productive.

IMPROVEMENTS: A large 12-room frame dwelling. First floor has kitchen with fireplace and woodburning stove, living room, dining room and half bath. Sescond floor has 4 bedrooms and bath. Front and rear sets of stairs connect first and second floors. The third floor has three rooms. Large basement. Drinking water is from a never-failing spring. This home could accommodate two families. 48x80 ft. bank barn w/20x80 ft. addition. A 32x70 wagonshed/cornbarn. A 26x50 garage/implement shed. A 30x32 ft. garage. A concrete stave silo. And a large hog barn converted to a machinery shed. Plus other buildings.

ZONING: Agricultural.

TAXES: On County Tax Map "EM" Parcel 50. Presently in "Clean and Green" program. School Tax is $2007.21. County and Local Taxes are $534.11 at present.

DEVELOPMENT POTENTIAL: The area is rural, with farms of all sizes, and some development along road frontages. This farm is divided by Legislative Route 66013 "Ted Wallace Road," and has approx. 2000 feet on each side of the road. Also some frontage on Flaharty Road (T645). Chanceford Township Regulations state that a farm of this acreage is permitted 10 building rights. One building right must stay with the farm buildings, leaving the potential for 9 building lots to be subdivided.

TERMS: A down-payment of 10% of the gavel price is required on day of auction. Balance due in-full on or before October 3, 1991 at final settlement. Growing crops are reserved.

INSPECTION: For appointment, Phone (717) 927-6568. Open House on Sunday, July 7, 14 & 21 from 1:00 to 4:00 P.M.

LAND & IMPROVEMENTS OFFERED AS-IS: Showings and Open House dates provided so inspection may be made to the buyer's satisfaction.

COLOR BROCHURE: Phone (717) 382-4379 OR 244-2875.

AUCTION WILL BE HELD UNDER TENT-RAIN OR SHINE.

SUMMER'S HEAT — HOW AND WHY HOT WEATHER AFFECTS BIRDS

Andrew G. Yersin
Assistant Professor
Dept. of Poultry Science

Chickens and turkeys must maintain their body temperatures within a certain range, usually 104 to 108 degrees F (40 to 42 degrees C) in order to maintain optimum egg or meat production.

In a particular range of environmental temperatures known as the zone of comfort, body temperature remains constant without a noticeable change in heat production or feed consumption. However, as the environmental temperature increases above this zone, heat stress occurs as birds attempt to remove or dissipate body heat generated by muscular activity and metabolic processes associated with feed consumption.

Understanding heat loss mechanisms of poultry can assist growers and managers in maintaining the zone of comfort for the birds in their operations, help reduce heat stress mortality, and maintain production profits.

Heat generated by the bird must be transported by the circulatory system from the tissues and organs (site of origin), to the body surface where it can be lost to the environment. Obviously, as the environmental temperature increases, this mechanism is more difficult to achieve, yet there are ways to assist the bird.

Heat loss occurs through nonevaporative and evaporative methods. The three routine methods of nonevaporative heat loss include radiation, conduction, and convection.

Radiation is the transfer of heat from the body to environmental objects which have a lower temperature than the bird. Likewise, objects which are warmer than the birds will transport heat to them and increase the degree of heat stress. To prevent radiant heat gain to the bird and allow for heat loss, maintain adequate ceiling insulation and extend it out to the end of the roof's overhang. The higher the R-value, the greater the resistance to heat flow. With little or no insulation, interior roof surfaces can become extremely hot and radiate heat to the birds.

Conduction is the transfer of heat from the bird's body to surfaces in contact with the bird such as nests, litter, and slats. This type of heat loss is extremely poor due to minimal surface contact.

Reuse of litter prevents the bird from scratching down to cooler floor areas because of excess heat storage and ammonia buildup. Not flushing and cleaning of water devices maintains high temperatures in these units. Both can increase the heat stress applied to the birds. Prevention steps should include removal of cake, maintaining litter quality, and routine checking of water temperatures within the house.

Convection is the transfer of heat to cooler air which is surrounding the bird. This type of heat loss increases as air speed across the birds increases. The birds will exhibit spreading of their wings to increase their cooling surface area. Make sure that there are no obstructions for air movement outside the house (weeds, structures, etc.). Make sure that fans, louvers, and fogging systems are clean and in proper working condition.

Don't wait to test your systems during an elevated temperature period.

Evaporative heat loss is the type that requires vaporization of a liquid. This type of loss is associated with panting and hyperventilation. The efficiency of this type of heat loss is dependent on the relative humidity. High humidity decreases evaporative heat loss while low humidity increases heat loss.

A plentiful supply of clean water is essential in preventing dehydration by water loss from the lungs as the birds pant. Remember that the critical point when determining the effectiveness of evaporative cooling is the relative humidity. Although fogging systems increase the humidity, they also reduce the temperature in the house. This enables the bird to utilize radiation, conductive, and convective heat loss more efficiently, although it may only be marginal during severe heat stress. It is extremely important to manage evaporative cooling systems during the late evening and early morning hours when relative humidity increases.

The bird's response to episodes of heat stress will be dependent on feed intake and the respective housing operation. Switching of feeding programs to the cooler periods of the day will reduce heat production (heat of digestion) by the bird during heat stress periods. Routine system checks and attention to the birds is critical during periods of hot weather. Successful operations are dependent on the individuals who manage them.

Big E Enacts 'No Pets' Policy

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — The bustling crowds, melodic carousel sounds, and the parade making its rounds will mean nonstop fun for everyone at this year's Big E here on Sept. 11-22.

This year, so pets don't get lost or hurt in the excited hustle, The Big E is initiating a new "no pets" policy that will require animal lovers to leave their domesticated critters at home.

The "no pets" policy will be strictly enforced, prohibiting fairgoers from bringing any type of pet on the grounds of Eastern States Exposition. With the safety of animals and fairgoers being the primary concern, the aim of The Big E's "no pets" policy is to ensure the most comfortable fair experience possible.

More than one million people are expected to attend this year's Big E, "New England's Great State Fair."

Ag Progress Tours Focus On Environment

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — How does the common marigold produce a "natural" pesticide that protects crops? What steps must farmers take to conserve water and safeguard it from pollution?

Find out the answers to these and other questions on research tours offered at Penn State's Ag Progress Days, held August 13-15 at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center in Rock Springs.

The 30-minute bus tours will highlight ways Penn State researchers are working to ensure the safety of our good and protect the environment.

"Past agricultural research was aimed at improving the quantity of our food supply," said Dr. Robert Todd, assistant dean for research and coordinator of the tours. "Now we focus on improving the quality of our food and on ways we can protect crops and still maintain a safe environment."

At the entomology farm, visitors will learn about biological controls of insect pests that damage crops. They will view the effects of biocontrols and conventional insecticides on cabbage and see a research project that uses integrated pest management to protect crops from harmful insects.

The plant pathology farm features tests of biological controls to protect alfalfa foliage and hay from spoilage. Visitors also will see tests on the use of marigolds as a biological control system for nematodes, a long-term study of disease on ornamental crab apples, a disease control project on soybeans, and a study of corn grown in soil fertilized with used mushroom compost. Two large greenhouses are the site of a study to determine the impact of various stresses on corn plant growth and yield as well as test plots for evergreen, potato and corn diseases.

At the horticulture farm, visitors will learn about trellised fruit management systems that help growers increase the density of their tree fruit planting and allow the fruit to be harvested earlier. Also featured are new vegetable variety trials, test plots for photodegradable mulch, methods to train and prune virus-free raspberry plants, evaluations of new micro-irrigation nozzles to irrigate and protect strawberry plants from frost, and trial plots of speciality and gourmet vegetables.

At the agronomy farm, visitors will see crown vetch used yearround for weed and erosion control, as well as hybrid evaluation trials of corn and soybeans and nitrogen testing on corn.

Research tour busses leave the corn crib behind the red barn at the top of the hill every 20 minutes from 10 am. to 3 p.m. on August 13 and 15. On August 14, the tours will run from 10 am. to 7 p.m. Free tickets are available at the boarding area.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educaional and commercial exhibits, tours, and machinery demonstrations. It is held at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rock Springs, nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45, August 13-15. Hours are 9 am. to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, with extended hours of 9 am. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday. Admission and parking are free.

Tractors Available With High Horsepower

DES MOINES, IA — Massey Ferguson, producer of the western world's best-selling brand of tractors for 28 consecutive years, is introducing two new compact tractors in higher horsepower ranges for the North American market, according to Richard Petree, Massey Ferguson product marketing manger.

The new versatile MF 1140 (30 hp) and MF 1145 (35 hp) compact tractors are designed to handle a wide range of agricultural and light industrial applications. The MF 1140 is available in two and four wheel drive models. The MF 1145 is available only in four-wheel-drive.

"These tractors can handle a lot of chores around the farm and are ideal for the part-time farmer and contractor," said Petree.

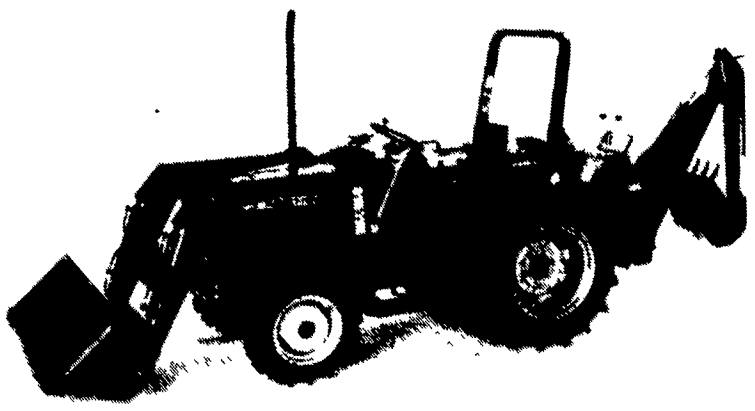
Both tractors feature a unique 16-speed synchro-shuttle transmission with easy single lever shifting between forward and reverse. There are 16 forward and 16 reverse speeds with 3rd and 4th gears synchronized for shifting on-the-go in those gears.

The synchro-shuttle transmission makes front loader applications fast, smooth, and effortless. The operator can load the bucket in forward gear and back and turn in reverse gear in an almost continuous movement without shifting gears. Both tractors have a maximum loader life capacity of 1,050 pounds.

The new MF 1246 quick-attach loader and Mf 1017 backhoe can be used with both tractors. The backhoe utilizes the MF 1246 loader mounts for maximum strength and quick backhoe attachment. A 6.9 GPM hydraulic pump provides enough capacity to operate the loader and backhoe without an extra pump.

Integral power steering with a three-position tilt steering column offers precise control, ease of operation, and optimum operator comfort. A spacious, full flat deck provides a comfortable working environment for the operator.

Other standard features include a large, comfortable high-back seat, electrohydraulic actuated independent PTO, oil bath type multi-disc brake system, and pedal operated differential lock. Ag and turf tires are available to suit customers needs.



New MF 1140 (30hp) and 1145 (35hp) tractors feature 16 speed synchro-shuttle transmission. Loader and backhoe are available for industrial applications.

DEKALB Names Outstanding Ag Student

RED LION (York Co.) — Nichole Willwert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Willwert, was recently named winner of the 1991 Dekalb Agricultural Accomplishment Award.

The award, sponsored nationwide by Dekalb Plant Genetics, is presented to the outstanding senior agriculture student demonstrating superior scholarship, leadership, and supervised agricultural program. Presenting the award was agriculture instructor Guy Naugle.

Nichole attends Red Lion Area High School, where she has been president of the local FFA chapter for the last two years and also served as the county FFA chapter president last year. Nichole has also participated in many local, county, area and state level contests such as horse judging, livestock judging, public speaking, meats judging, salesmanship and interview contests, and project book recordkeeping contests. Her agricultural program consists of beef breeding, beef finishing, and pleasure horse. Following graduation, Nichole plans to attend the York Campus of Penn State University majoring in Animal Science.

Nichole Willwert

As this year's winner, Nichole received a pin and certificate, and her name will be inscribed on a special plaque displayed in the school's agriculture classroom. The Dekalb Award, often considered the highest honor a vo-ag student can receive on the local level, is presented at nearly 3,000 schools annually.

Cooling Panels Made Of Extruded Aluminum

LANSING, MI — AEROCOOL evaporative cooling panels from Aerotech, Inc., now feature an exclusive extruded-aluminum header and footer design which makes them sturdier, easier to service, and easier to install.

The extruded footers and headers are stronger, lighter, and more rigid than previous stamped steel units. And, unlike cooling panels made of stainless steel, they will not corrode. With fewer seams to give bacteria a place to start growing, the units stay cleaner and healthier.

Use of extruded-aluminum allows custom fabrication in any length. Standard "off-the-shelf" modules are also available.

All panels are designed for easy mounting on the outside wall. Building interior space is free for placement of equipment or routing of traffic. Headers and footers use a flange design that allows attachment directly to either wood or metal framing without flashing or extensions.

Routine maintenance is made simple with a face panel that is removed by removing a nylon wing-nut. Complete access is provided to pads, distribution pipe, and collection trough. The pads can be easily lifted out for cleaning.

The extruded-aluminum header employs baffles that surround a PVC distribution pipe. Uniform wetting of the pad, even when water pressure fluctuates, is assured. Plugging and mineral build-up, because of uneven wetting, is avoided.

AEROCOOL evaporators use six-inch thick pads. A special flute design creates a large wetted surface with minimal restriction to airflow. Resistance at 400 hundred feet per minute is about half that created by similar pads only four inches thick.

Aerotech field reps determine cooling requirements on a location-by-location basis and can provide computer designed system plans. When so designed, Aerotech certifies and guarantees the performance of the system.

For more information, contact Aerotech, Inc., 929 Terminal Road, Lansing, MI 48906, (800) 227-AERO.

Farm Credit Re-Elects Lippy, Berryman

BALTIMORE, Md. — T. Edward Lippy of Hampstead, Md. and E. McDonald Berryman of Elberon, Va. were recently re-elected to the board of directors of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore.

Lippy, who is chairman of the board and has served as a bank director since 1988, is a co-owner/operator of Lippy Brothers, Inc., a large family cash grain and vegetable farming operation, producing corn, wheat, soybeans, barley, green beans, and peas. He is also vice chairman of The Farm Credit Council, a director of Central Maryland Farm Credit, ACA and the Farmers and Merchants Bank, and is a member of the Carroll County Farm Bureau. Lippy is active in many other civic and community organizations and is a recipient of the Distinguished Achievement Award in Agriculture presented by the University of Maryland.

A diversified businessman and farmer, Berryman has served on the bank's board since 1986 and is a former board chairman. He is president of Beechland Farms, Inc., a family owned business that includes land development and a farming operation that produces peanuts, corn, wheat, soybeans, timber, and swine. Berryman is also a past president of Farmers United, Inc. and is a member of the Virginia/North Carolina Peanut Growers Association, the Surry Ruritan Club, and other agricultural and community groups.

Both directors were re-elected to three-year terms beginning January 1, 1992 by Baltimore Farm Credit District stockholders. Lippy represents the Baltimore Farm Credit District's Region III which comprises most of Maryland and the DelMarVa peninsula. Berryman represents Region V consisting of the eastern half of Virginia and Puerto Rico.

Hoffman Seeds Conducts Wheat Field Day

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Hoffman Seeds, Inc. recently conducted a wheat field day in Landisville.

The field day gave company sales representatives and dealers an opportunity to see existing Hoffman wheat varieties and experimentals. Competitive product was also seen in side-by-side comparisons.

Seed treatments were also discussed, with particular emphasis on Baytan treated seed versus non-treated seed. Baytan prevents powdery mildew in the fall, which may alleviate the need for further fungicide application in the spring.

Soybean Farmers

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — U.S. soybean farmers welcomed announcement by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) that it has released for publication the marketing order for the newly created Soybean Promotion And Research Checkoff (SPARC). Publication of the marketing order in the "Federal Register" on July 9 brings soybean farmers a step closer to implementing a uniform nationwide soybean checkoff.

"The nationwide checkoff program will provide the resources necessary to reduce production costs and develop new markets so we can be more competitive in the world market," said American Soybean Development Foundation President, Sandy Ludeman of Tracy, Minn. Ludeman, who has served as a liaison between USDA and soybean farmers in the final development of the marketing order, said the announcement clears the way for a September 1 start of the nationwide soybean checkoff.

SPARC Legislation in the 1990 Farm Bill allows checkoff funds to be used for international and domestic market promotion as well as for research to cut production costs and find new uses for soybeans and soybean products. The checkoff rate is + of one percent of net market price (50 cents on $100 of sales).

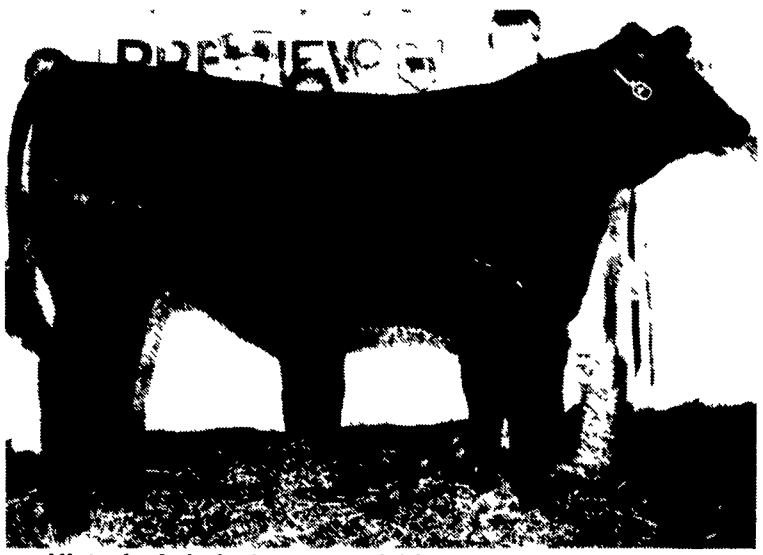
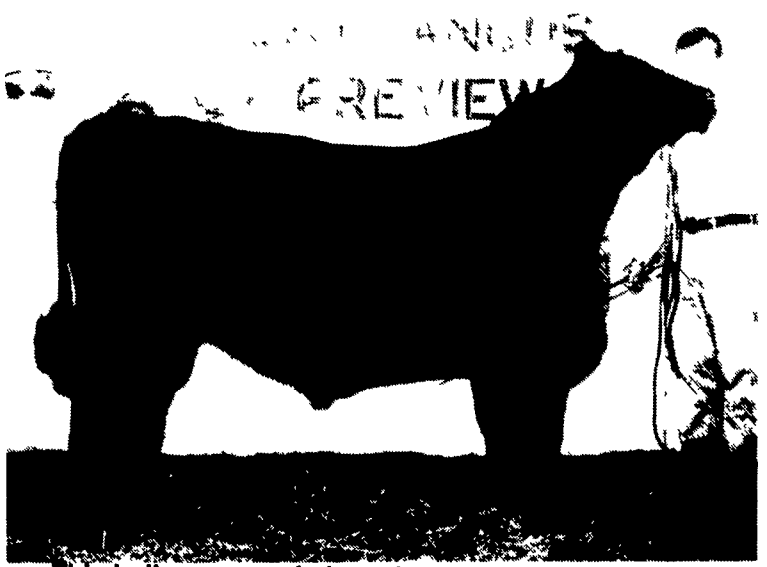
Ohio Youngsters Bring 72 Angus To Preview Show

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Ohio junior Angus exhibitors paraded 72 Angus cattle before judge Greg Krueger, Coatesville, Pennsylvania, to compete for championship honors awarded at the 1991 Ohio Junior Angus Preview Show in Washington Court House.

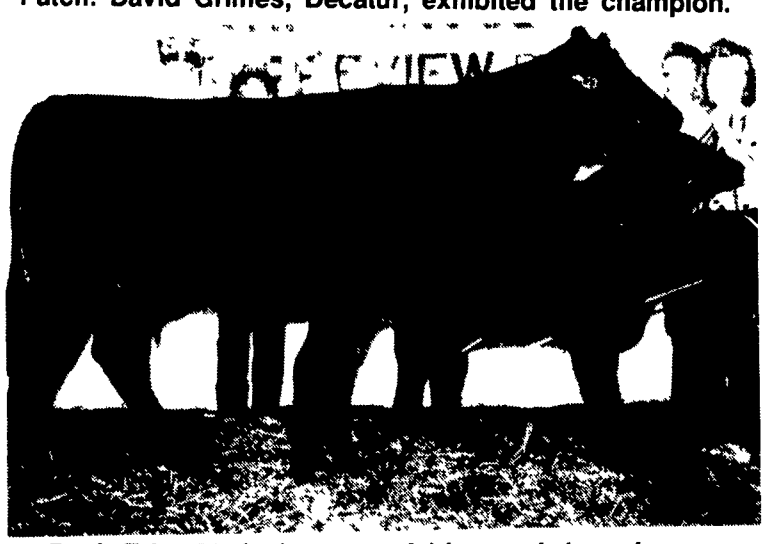
These two Ohio Junior Angus Association members will represent their state in the National Junior Angus Showmanship Contest in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in July. The winners are, from left: Angela Molitor, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Molitor of Fayetteville and Kent Bauman, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bauman, Blue Creek.



Kiata Jack Jr. is the name of this grand champion steer at the 1991 Ohio Junior Angus Preview Show in Washington Court House. Kevin Connolly, Cable, owns the grand winner that is an April 1990 son of Dameron Linedrive.



This bull won grand champion laurels at the 1991 Ohio Junior Angus Preview Show in Washington Court House. He is Maplecrest Hammer, a July 1990 son of Brost Dan Patch. David Grimes, Decatur, exhibited the champion.



Davis Erica 551 is the name of this grand champion cow-calf pair at the 1991 Ohio Junior Angus Preview Show in Washington Court House. Heather Lott, Lancaster, exhibited the champion pair. The cow is a June 1985 daughter of Garney Big Stick. A January 1991 heifer calf is at her side.

Among the 36 entries in the "owned" heifer division, grand champion honors were given to Chad Goodman, Sycamore, for his senior champion female. The heifer was Indian Creek Darcy 974, an October 1989 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie.

The reserve grand champion "owned" female was Turkey Run Scaaras Rose exhibited by Kent Bauman, Blue Creek. The heifer first topped the junior division and is an April 1990 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie.

In bred-and-owned heifer competition, the grand winner was Creek Side Miss Queen owned by Sheri Rentz, Coldwater. First named the junior champion, the heifer is a March 1990 daughter of Hoff Challenger S C 862.

The reserve grand champion bred-and-owned female was the reserve junior champion entry exhibited by Daniel Hutchins, West Mansfield. Millcreek Miss Marvel 40 is the name of the reserve grand winner that is a March 1990 daughter of Manhattan of Indian Creek.

David Grimes, Decatur, exhibited the grand champion bred-and-owned bull. Maplecrest Hammer is the name of the grand winner that is a July 1990 son of Brost Dan Patch.

The reserve grand champion bred-and-owned bull was S G F Star 071 owned by Sandra Flesher, Waterford. The bull is a January 1990 son of S C R Lone Star 411.

Heather Lott, Lancaster, exhibited the grand champion cow-calf pair. Her June 1985 cow was Davis Erica 551, a daughter of Garney Big Stick. At side was a January heifer calf.

The reserve grand champion cow-calf pair was Mis Emella D B, an April 1987 daughter of H A F Sky King 7. A February heifer calf was at her side.

Kevin Connolly, Cable, exhibited both the grand and reserve grand champion Angus steers. His grand winner was Kiata Jack Jr, an April 1990 son of Dameron Linedrive. Reserve grand honors were given to Connolly's other April steer named La Vista Ponderosa sired by Perrino Wally.

In showmanship competition, Chad Goodman was the champion junior showman, and Jamie King, Tiffin, was reserve champion junior showman.

Darek Isaacs, Marysville, won the intermediate showmanship division, and Jenny Butler, Cumberland, was reserve. Angela Molitor, Fayetteville, and Kent Bauman were selected as Ohio's representatives to the National Junior Angus Showmanship Contest in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in July. Alternates were David Grimes, Decatur, and Carla Hines, Newcomerstown.

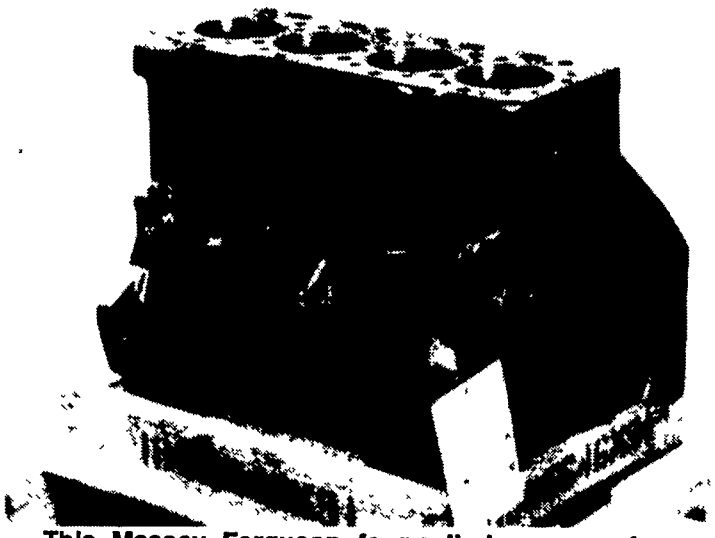
Remanufactured Engines From Massey-Ferguson



This Massey Ferguson four-cylinder remanufactured engine was thoroughly inspected for material integrity, dimensional and visual verification, pressure testing, and particle crackage. Once assembled, the engine was thoroughly tested.

RACINE, Wis. — Massey-Ferguson has introduced a new remanufactured engine line, which will eventually encompass engines, short blocks, and components for the most popular Massey-Ferguson equipment.

The first phase of this new line features remanufactured short block engines for 34 Massey-Ferguson tractors and combines, ranging from the Massey-Ferguson 65 to 3505 Series tractors, as well as the Massey Ferguson 540 to 750 Series combines.

"These remanufactured short blocks are designed to offer a less expensive alternative to a new replacement, while helping to reduce shop and machine down time sometimes associated with an engine overhaul," said Jeff Pink, engine brand manager.

The Massey-Ferguson remanufactured short blocks were unveiled to dealers at Massey-Ferguson's first-ever Parts Trade Fair and Business Conference, recently held in Orlando, Fla.

The engines are remanufactured from top to bottom regardless of the original failure's location.

Components chosen for remanufacturing are completely inspected, cleaned, and disassembled. Each part is inspected and evaluated by technicians for its remanufacturing potential. When the components meet Massey-Ferguson's OEM (original equipment manufacturer) specifications, the engines and components are reassembled. Each complete engine is then dynamometer-tested to ensure it meets or exceeds Massey-Ferguson quality standards and specifications.

All remanufactured short blocks, along with all other Massey-Ferguson remanufactured engine components, come with a six-month warranty. Massey-Ferguson remanufactured engines and components are listed in a new catalog found in the "Parts Reference Book," distributed to all Massey-Ferguson dealers. According to Pink, more remanufactured components are scheduled for release in 1991.

For more information, contact your local Massey-Ferguson dealers, or write Jeff Pink, Massey-Ferguson 2200 DeKoven Avenue, Racine, WI 53403.

Precision Tool Reduces Soil Erosion

RACINE, WI — Farmers now have a choice of Case International implements custom-made for conservation tillage programs. The new 6650 Conser-Till® plow with automatic reset shanks has been added to complement the existing 6500 Conser-Till model.

"The 6650 Conser-Till is a premium, high-clearance, automatic-reset implement," said Joe Neville, product director for Case International tillage equipment. With its spring-cushion shanks, the 6500 remains a precision tool for farmers working to reduce soil erosion.

Dependability and increased performance on the 6650 starts with a 6 x 4-inach welded tubular frame. "There's no need to add weight to this unit. Weight, strength and durability are built-in," Neville said.

Four ranks of hihg-clearance shanks with 32 inches of under frame clearance and 3.5 inch twisted shovels allow the 6650 to handle heavy crop residue. Plow sizes range from 7 to 13 shanks spaced on 15 inch centers.

"The automatic-reset shanks are adjustable up to a 2,200-pound trip load with 12 inches of trip clearance to perform in any field," Neville said. "Unlike spring-cushioned shanks, depth is maintained until the shank strikes an obstacle and trips. The shank then automatically returns to the proper depth."

Optional rear bar shank extensions are available to improve the flow of material in extremely heavy residue. These extensions mount on the rear bar of the machine and reposition the shank rearward nine inches.

Like the 6500, the 6650's disk gang is equipped with Earth Metal® blades for increased performance and longer life. The 20.4-inch-diameter blades are 5 millimeters thick and mounted 7.5 inches apart.

TECHNIQUES FOR MEASURING PASTURE HERBAGE MASS

Warren J. Parker
Steven L. Fales
Lawrence D. Muller
Penn State

One of the first skills a farmer needs to learn when grazing pastures is how to assess the quantity of herbage (grass) available to the herd.

In a drylot situation, the feed can be weighed, a sample taken to determine the dry matter (DM) content of this feed, and the DM offered can be calculated. When grazing is adopted, alternative techniques are required to estimate how much herbage DM is presented to animals.

This information is vital for planning an appropriate ration program for the herd, and for maximising the savings in feed costs that can be obtained by grazing. For grazing management purposes, the total amount of feed available to ground level or herbage mass is usually measured. Alternative techniques for measuring pastures are discussed here.

Eye assessment

This is the least expensive and quickest method of determining herbage mass. A visual assessment of sward height, density, and composition is made by walking through the area concerned and a mental conversion to lb. DM/a is made. Visual assessment is subjective and requires a reasonable knowledge of sward characterisitics.

Extra care needs to be exercised with mixed swards (several pasture species growing together). For example, overestimation of herbage mass is likely to occur when the pasture contains a high proportion of broad leaf plants such as clover. To become proficient at eye assessment, periodic calibration of your visual estimate of herbage mass with those obtained from quadrat cuts is necessary.

Alternatively you can be trained by completing a farm pasture assessment with someone who is experienced with pasture appraisal.

Sward height

Sward height can be determined simply by a measuring rule or by a mechanical metering device. The latter, which use a falling or rising plate/disc to measure the height of the compressed sward from ground level, are less laborious and allow multiple readings to be taken more rapidly than with a ruler.

For herbage mass assessment, 30-50 readings across each paddock are taken to determine the average sward height. Sward height readings are then converted into equivalent lb. DM/acre using an equation that has been developed by taking a series of quadrat cuts of herbage of known sward height. For leafy pastures the relationship is usually linear, and maybe y (lb. DM/acre)=250 + 400x (inches). This calibration equation means that a sward height (x) of 4 inches would have an estimated herbage mass (y) of 1850 lb. DM/acre (1850=250 + (400*4)). The sward height/herbage mass relationship may change with seasons and generally is least reliable when the grasses are in the reproductive stage of growth.

While a farmer could adapt a calibration equation developed for pastures that are similar to his property, it is preferable that an on-farm calibration is developed that reflects the sward characteristics that the measuring meter is to be used on.

The main advantage of sward height compared to herbage mass from a management point of view is that it is a readily made and easily understood measure, and it is also closely associated with grazing behavior, animal intake, and production (both of the pasture and livestock). In most cases, sward height grazing guidelines refer to the average height of the uppermost leaves in an undisturbed canopy and is measured by a sward stick especially made for this purpose or with a simple ruler.

Electronic probes or capacitance meters

Electronic meters have been built for measuring herbage mass. These are more expensive and are more sensitive to physical damage than height meters but usually provide a computer capacity that allows paddock numbers, areas and herbage mass to be stored and simple calculations to be performed.

This information can be downloaded onto a desktop computer for inclusion into a larger database (e.g. to enable a comparison with previous pasture assessments). Normally, 30-50 measurements per paddock are taken by placing the probe in the sward to ground level. At each placement, the capacitance of the sward is read and this measure is converted into a herbage mass value using an internal calibration equation.

In some cases an equation can be selected from the computer memory to match local conditions. However, as for the height meters it is preferable that a series of quadrat cuts and readings be taken at several stages during the year to check that the relationship between probe readings and herbage mass is appropriate. One problem that has been encountered in the Northeast with electronic probes is failure of the electronic systems when temperatures get above the mid-80s. Storing the electronic components in a cooler between readings can reduce this problem.

Pasture quadrat cuts

This is the slowest, most labor intensive and usually most expensive method of determing herbage mass. It cannot be routinely used for herbage assessments where there are more than 3-4 paddocks, but it does provide the standard against which the indirect methods described above are calibrated. An area of pasture inside a rectanglar quadrat (1.5-3.0 ft^2 within a rectangle of steel rod or wood that defines the cutting boundaries) is cut to ground level with a battery driven clipper.

If ground conditions are wet or if there is dust through the herbage the sample should be washed thoroughly to remove any soil contamination. Placing the sample on a fine metal sieve or into a mesh bag before washing, or floating the material in a tank of water are suitable methods for removing soil collected.

The weight of DM harvested from the quadrat is determined by drying the fresh material until all the water is removed. This can be completed over a 24 hour period using an oven set to 180°F. A more rapid (c. 15 minutes) determination of DM content can be made using a microwave oven. The weight of DM harvested from the quadrat is converted to an equivalent per acre value.

The number of quadrat cuts that need to be taken for a pasture is dependent on sward uniformity — more being required where there is a a lot of variation. In most cases, 5-10 per paddock is adequate for grazing management purposes.

If pasture cuts are being taken and a height or electronic meter is also being used, readings by this device should be recorded prior to the cuts being made to generate a calibration equation. In addition, a careful visual assessment of the pasture prior to cutting will help to establish a mental calibration.

Regardless of the technique you decide to use for estimating herbage mass, you should always take into account the amount of green versus dead plant material, the amount of leaf versus stem and seedhead material, and the proportion of clover in the sward when assessments are being made. All of these pasture quality factors affect animal performance, but are not included in the herbage mass measurement which only describes the quantity of herbage present.

In general, if the amount of dead material is high the energy value of the herbage and animal intakes will be lower than for a sward with less dead material. Similarly, intakes and the energy content of this intake will be greater for swards with high leaf to stem ratios, and high legume to grass ratios.

Sounds complicated? Some aspects perhaps are, but farmers

Du Pont Sponsors Tractor Workshop

CONCORD TOWNSHIP, Ohio — Du Pont Agricultural Products will sponsor an antique tractor workshop during Lake Farmpark's Antique Tractor Show on August 3. The restoration workshop will be conducted by five Ohio farmers/tractor enthusiasts featured in Du Pont's Classic Tractor calendars.

The hands-on workshop benefits novices and more experienced tractor enthusiasts and will cover:

- State of the tractor restoration hobby.
- Finding and selecting a tractor for restoration.
- Where to get parts, paint, and decals.
- Information on collector networks.

"Du Pont has a commitment to preserving this very interesting part of our recent American history," said John Harvey, communications program manager at Du Pont. "We think Lake Farmpark is developing a unique educational facility that will inform the nonfarmer about yesterday's farming methods."

"Part of Lake Farmpark's mission is to collect farm machinery that represents important technological milestones and carefully restores them to operational condition. They will be utilized in ongoing demonstrations," said Darwin Kelsey, Lake Farmpark administrator.

The Saturday workshop is part of a weekend-long event dedicated to antique tractors. The event begins Thursday evening with a dinner lecture on antique tractors presented by Patrick Ertel, editor of "Antique Power Magazine."

The Du Pont-sponsored workshop will be held on Saturday from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. in concurrence with the Antique Tractor Show, which includes:

- Tractor displays (including Ohio Classic Tractors).
- Threshing and grinding.
- Stationary and field demonstrations.
- Plowing, mowing, and reaping.
- Pulling contest.
- Toy tractor show.

Admission to Lake Farmpark is $3.50 for adults, $3 for seniors and youth ages 6-18, children 5 and younger are free, and $2.50 for groups of 10 or more. A special 2-day pass is available for $6 for adults and $5 for youth and seniors.

Farmpark is located approximately 25 miles east of Cleveland in Kirtland, Ohio at 8800 Chardon Road. From I-90, take Rt. 306 south to Chardon Road (Rt. 6). Travel east on Chardon Road one mile to Lake Farmpark.

For more information or to register for the Du Pont Classic Farm Tractor Restoration Workshop, contact Todd Stockwell, at (216) 256-2122 or (800) 669-9226.

GRAZING PASTURE MANAGEMENT

seem to be able to learn the techniques for estimating herbage mass surprisingly quickly and within a week or two are highly proficient with the technique that they have selected. You should train yourself to score the herbage mass in each new paddock and then relate this to whether the pasture supply is increasing or decreasing.

We'll discuss some ways to do this quickly in a latter article. Next time (article 4) we will talk about using techniques for measuring the rate of herbage growth.

BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best -
In Coating Film Thickness
To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed)
1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas This is resurfacing!!!
2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain, take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort This film will let excess moisture breathe through it Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years Southern exposures usually wear faster

Dry Weather and Herbicide Performance

Dry weather can affect both soil applied and postemergence herbicide performance.

All soil applied herbicides require rainfall to mobilize them for effective weed control. In general, rainfall should occur within 7 to 10 days after application or weed emergence may commence.

As a general rule of thumb, ½ inch of rain is considered the minimum depending on current soil moisture levels and the herbicide used. The less mobile materials (Prowl, Atrazine, Scepter) and deeper germinating weeds (e.g. yellow nutsedge) will require even more rainfall for effective control.

If the 10-day limit has gone by and weeds are starting to break through, several options exist.

Rotary hoe - This can be used to remove emerging weeds and help "lightly" incorporate the herbicide. The optimum time for hoeing is when the weeds are just emerging through the soil. Corn should be less than 5 inches tall and soybeans should be fully emerged (beyond crook stage). Rotary hoeing is not effective on large seeded weeds or on weeds that have fully emerged.

Postemergence herbicides - Like soil-applied herbicides, postemergence materials do not perform as well under dry conditions because weeds that are stressed are harder to kill. The addition of crop oil or surfactant will help improve herbicide activity with some products, but carefully read the label ensuring the appropriate additive is included.

Grasses have traditionally been most difficult to control postemergence in corn. Bladex of Blades + Atrazine will control small emerged annual grasses unless stress conditions prevail. With the addition of Accent for use in corn, annual foxtalls and fall panicum can be controlled postemergence a little later (2 to 4 inches tall). However, just like other herbicides, stress conditions (e.g. dry weather and heat) will also reduce the effectiveness of Accent.

Cultivation - Row cultivation can also be an effective tool for controlling weeds. Row cultivators should be used while the weeds are small, however, cultivating too early may injure the small developing corn. In addition, cultivating too early in the season may redistribute the soil applied herbicide treatment, potentially exposing areas of untreated soil.

Emergency Weed Control For Corn And Soybeans

Because of the dry weather we have experienced in much of Pennsylvania this season, some soil — applied herbicide applications have performed less than satisfactory. If escaped weeds were only recently discovered and are beyond the growth stage or size for most "conventional" herbicide applications, several emergency postemergence treatments are labelled for corn or soybeans.

Corn. Because the potential for significant crop injury from these herbicides is much greater than for earlier more "timely" treatments, "emergency control" are the key words in using the following treatments in corn. In addition, the need for special application equipment and proper crop and weed growth stages limit the potential success of these treatments.

The following herbicides are post-directed toward the base of corn to minimize crop injury, while covering the weeds as much as possible. Rigid drop nozzles or extended-arm (skid-mount) spray units are generally specified (not flop drops). The suggested rates are based on treated acres, so if banding, adjust the rates appropriately. Smaller weeds are easier to kill, but some suppression may occur for the larger ones as well. Refer to a current herbicide label for additional information and restrictions. Do not spray these herbicides over the top of corn!

DROUGHT WATCH

Soybeans. Emergency weed control in soybeans pertains to those herbicides that have some effectiveness on larger weeds. These herbicides are generally broadcast over the top. "Partial control" are the key words often contained on the herbicide label. Weeds common to Pennsylvania that these treatments most successfully control are presented in the following table.

Herbicide	Rate/A	Weeds	Max. Weed Size (inches)	Days to Harvest	Additive
Basagran[1]	2-3 pt.	Velvetleaf	12	50	COC + UAN
Blazer + Butyrac	1 1/2 - 2 pt. + 2 fl. oz.	Jimsonweed Pigweed C. Ragweed A. Morningglory	12	60	NIS
Pursuit	4 fl. oz.	Pigweed	8	85	COC or NIS
Scepter	2/3 pt.	Pigweed	12	90	COC or NIS
Poast	1 1/2 pt.	Foxtails	16	90	COC or Dash
		Johnsongrass (seeding)
		Barnyardgrass	12
		FAll Panicum
		Crabgrass	8
Option Others[2]	0.8-1.2 pt.	Grasses	?	90	COC

[1] A split application (1.5 + 1.5 pt) 4-7 days apart is preferred.

[2] Other herbicides including Assure and Fusilade will also suppress larger grasses, but no specific recommendation or rate is approved.

In addition to the above treatments, directed applications of Butyrac, linuron (Lorox or Linex), and Gramoxone Extra may be applied for "emergency" weed control in soybeans. These treatments specify specialized application equipment (drop nozzles, etc.) and require precautions similar to the emergency treatments in corn.

Corn Growth And Development In Very Dry Weather

The condition of the corn crop is extremely variable this year. There appear to be pockets scattered about the state that have had timely rainfall and have excellent corn. Other locations have had very little rain since planting and the corn is nearly dead. A lot of corn has been in a holding pattern in the knee high stage for several weeks.

Within most of the drought stressed fields, growth is quite variable. This variability is due to the sensitivity of the plants to other stress factors that worsen the effects of the drought. One of the most common stress factors appears to be soil compaction, particularly in no-till fields.

The impact of the drought on yields will vary dramatically. Some fields are basically a total loss. Textbook values for the effect of drought stress on corn in the vegetative stage would indicate a 2-4 percent yield reduction for every day of stress. Many crops have had two to three weeks of stressful days now. On those, I would estimate a 30-40 percent yield reduction from the normal yield potential. However, try to remain optimistic, since corn is usually very drought tolerant during early season and the corn recovery in 1988 surprised many folks.

Many livestock farmers will likely be facing shortages of forages this winter as a result of this dry weather and the dismal corn crop. Now is the time to be thinking about possible alternatives. Corn that has developed a tassel and is very short will obviously not produce much grain or silage. Corn in the vegetative stages that has leaf burning and brown leaf tips on the upper leaves is also probably not going to recover.

Replanting corn is one alternative. With a normal season and perhaps some subsoil moisture reserves, corn could have considerable potential as a silage crop, even when planted as late as early July. With the situation we have now, the sorghums or sorghum sudangrass would probably be more drought tolerant and lower risk alternatives.

Cropping Ideas Related To Drought

Silage: For those without sufficient grain corn acreage to be shifted to silage, planting supplemental forage crops if and when rain comes is one consideration. Keep inputs as low as possible in this reduced yield potential and higher risk situation.

What are the best options under what conditions? First I would assume previously harvested small grain acreage would be used and that there are no herbicide carryover restrictions. For planting up until about July 15, a long season corn variety usually produces the highest dry matter yield if decent moisture arrives.

From mid-July to early August planting sorghum-sudan hybrids will probably yield best. Also, if dry weather returns, this would be less risky than corn silage. For these two crops, use 40 lbs. N. at planting, sidedress 40 lbs. if prospects for growth are good. Use a "post" weed control approach. After early August, spring oats would probably produce best, possibly 2-3 T/acre. Limit N. to 25-30 lbs./acre.

Emergency Pasture: For those who can set up to pasture, forage brassicas such as rape, turnips, swedes and kale varieties can be seeded in mid to late summer for mid to late fall grazing. Rape and turnips reach their maximum yield in 70-110 days, kale and swedes in 150-180 days. Seed rape or kale at 3.5-4 pounds/acre, swedes and turnips at 1.5-2 pounds/acre. Use 30-40 pounds N. at planting and topdress 30 pounds more if sufficient moisture continues.

"Permanent" pastures: With so little grass growth it is tempting to allow pastures to be overgrazed. But cool season pasture grasses will be more productive later this fall if overgrazing is avoided now. To prepare for fall grazing, assuming some rain will come, there are a few things to do to stockpile pasture to provide fall grazing. Clip old residual growth in early August and apply 30 pounds of N/Acre (non-volatile form). An additional 30 pounds of N. can be applied in late summer if more rain comes, brining total N. to 60 pounds/acre.

Soybeans: Occasionally, people ask about utilizing soybeans for silage. This can be done, but if herbicides were used — be sure to check product label restrictions on using soybeans for "feed or forage". Many commonly used herbicides have these restrictions.

Dairy Cattle Management During Drought

Dairy producers faced with seriously reduced forage and grain supplies should seriously consider culling cattle.

Experiences from the milk diversion program and four to five drought years in the 1960s, show that milk shipped per farm often drops much less than expected when the milking animal numbers are reduced by rigid culling. In some cases, milk shipped actually rose despite fewer animals. Reduced animal stress and improved management made this possible.

Reducing dairy cow numbers by 10-15 percent or more may decrease milk volume by a lesser amount and save considerable amounts of scarce (high-priced?) forage to feed the remaining herd. You should consider culling cows with health or reproductive problems and those producing in the bottom 15-20 percent of the herd — especially if drought continues.

Replacement heifer numbers can also be reduced. It is common to find .7 to 1.0 replacement females per cow in herds. Often dairy producers can get by with .5 replacement females per cow if calf mortality, reproduction and udder health are under control. Decreasing yearling and bred heifer numbers by 25 to 50 percent can make more forage available for dairy cows, and can minimize feed purchases. Put this useful tool to work in your herd now.

Dairy farmers who have forage shortages now, or expect a considerable shortfall if drought continues should reduce forage feeding levels to extend supplies. It is difficult and expensive to purchase forage in quantity when drought is widespread. Recommended bare minimum levels are 1.4 to 1.6 pound of forage dry matter (DM) per cwt of bodyweight for no more than 3 to 4 months, due to risks of animal health and milkfat depression problems. A safer level of 1.7 to 1.9 pound forage DM per cwt of bodyweight is more reasonable early in the drought and for a longer period.

Farmers who have enough forage and need to minimize cash outlays for concentrate, should maximize forage intake. Maximum forage intake will depend primarily on forage quality and energy/TDN content. A practical maximum intake of excellent forage is 2.5 to 2.7 pound of forage DM per cwt of bodyweight. Somewhat lower intake may be expected when corn silage provides most of the forage dry matter. On good forage with 61-65 percent TDN on a dry matter basis, 2.0 to 2.3 pound is a reasonable maximum. Maximum intakes for poor to fair forage should not exceed 1.5 to 2.0 pound.

Heavier use of high-protein forage for milk cows could reduce purchased feed costs. Use lower protein forages for youngstock and dry cows. Work closely with a reputable nutritional consultant to establish least cost rations for your situation.

When there is a home-grown forage shortage, farmers should consider grain and forage alternatives and feed program changes. For more information on the value of feed alternatives and adjusting your feed program, the Extension article, "Feeding During Shortages of Home-Grown Feeds," by Dick Adams, J.G. Hlubik and Jud Heinrichs may be helpful to you. Extension also has many other articles and information that may be able to help you make valuable management decisions.

Beef Cattle Management:

During the drought, the following procedures could help reduce losses and extend feed resources for beef cattle:

1. Early Weaning of Calves — most spring-calving beef cows in PA aren't producing milk heavily now. So feed could be used more efficiently by providing it directly to the calf. Calves that are weaned and started on feed should be more valuable at sale time. Younger calves need a ration with about 13 percent protein (major nutritional factor); but 1-2 pound/day gains can be maintained in a diet that is 75 percent or more of hay or silage. A full-feed of a good grass-legume hay and a 1 pound of soybean meal per day will give adequate gains. The cow can be maintained on a lower quality feed such as straw-based ration (i.e. - 78 percent straw, 2 percent liquid cane molasses, 15 percent ground corn/cracked wheat, 5 percent of 44 percent soybean meal).

2. Pregnancy check beef cattle — With feed costs at a premium, it makes sense to be sure you aren't feeding an open cow.

3. Breeding Stress — reproductive efficiency will most likely be reduced for most beef producers. As long as the cow has enough feed to maintain herself, she will probably cycle. However, the bull's libido and sperm production is often impaired in hot weather. If the breeding season is still under way, watch cows during the cooler times of day to see if the bull is catching heats.

4. Heifer development — With reduction in reproductive rate and culling of open cows, many producers may be faced with keeping heifer replacements to rebuild herds. Select the heifers from those born earlier in the calving season as they will be generally more mature and heavier at next year's breeding season. Take particular care to keep them from getting too fat as this will impair milking ability later in life.

5. Rotate cattle through pasture — a little moisture will cause growth, but, if the entire pasture is grazed, the cattle will graze off the best grass first. Sort pastures into 7 or 10-day duration paddocks. Minerals should be available at all times to pastured cattle.

6. Nutritional analysis of feeds and forages is even more beneficial during a drought, due to different nutritional make-up of drought-stricken crops.

Drought and Livestock Health

During extended periods of dry weather, livestock owners should watch for the following:

1. Overheating — Watch for rapid, shallow breathing or reluctance to move. If rectal temperature is over 105 degrees, apply cold water by hose and burlap bags. Get veterinary help fast! Shade and moving air help avoid heat stress.

2. Lack of Water — when streams dry up, wells go dry and ponds stagnant, livestock can suffer from lack of water. Giving too much water can cause edema, nervous signs and red-colored urine. Check water supplies frequently.

3. Blue-green algae can overgrow a stagnant pond and can be poisonous if livestock are forced to drink it. Aerate ponds if possible. If this can't be done, offer another water source.

4. Poisonous plants — weeds and toxic plants may be the only green things on pastures. Livestock normally avoid these plants, but may be forced to eat them during a drought. Feed supplemental roughage during short-grass times. Clip pastures to keep noxious and toxi weeds under control.

5. Nitrate accumulations — Annual weeds, sudan grass, corn, and small grains can have high nitrate levels. Drought, followed by rainfall, allows very high uptake of nitrate in plants. Use caution if these plants are grazed or green chopped.

To minimize the adverse effects of heat and drought:

- Keep only animals vital to your operation.
- Supply shade, moving air, clean water and salt.
- Provide supplemental feed to pastured animals.

Drought and Silo Fires

Moisture content is crucial to preventing silo fires, especially during a drought. Silage should have a moisture content of 65 percent. Silage stored in an oxygen limiting silo should have a moisture content of at least 45 percent.

Follow these recommendations:

Chop hay crop between 45 percent and 65 percent moisture. (Test the moisture of forage being ensiled).

Crop grass silage fine so that the actual length is not more than ½ to 1 inch in length; a ¼ inch theoretical cut is recommended.

Check all silo doors for proper seal.

Equip the silo with a good center fill or mechanical silage distributor to keep silage uniform from bottom to top.

Fill the silo rapidly to assure good packing. A minimum of two feet per hour is recommended.

Beef Producers Will Meet

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The 1991 Summer Field Day for Beef Producers will be held Saturday, July 20 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Harvest Plantation, a purebred Simmental operation, in Franklin. The annual event provides a forum for education and producer association business as well as a chance for producers to meet and share information.

"Pennsylvania's beef producers provide outstanding purebred breeding stock and feeder cattle to the beef industry around the country," said Dr. John Comerford, assistant professor of dairy and animal science in Penn State's College of Agriculture. "The field day gives small and part-time beef producers an opportunity to learn more about new techniques, equipment, and research in the beef industry."

The morning program begins with the Pennsylvania Simmental Association Junior Heifer Show. Afterward, hoof trimming specialist George Lowery will discuss his technique. Nancy Dana from ABS Genetic Services will discuss semen purchasing and handling for small breeders. Dr. Todd VanDyke of TV Embryo Transfer Services will explain embryo transfer procedures for small breeders.

Lunch will feature the famous "Keystone Ribeye Steak on a Roll" sandwich and guest speakers from the National Cattlemens Association and the American Simmental Association. The Circle W Four, a country music quartet from Pittsburgh, will provide entertainment.

Representatives from industry and government will speak during the afternoon session. Tom Calvert of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service in Somerset will discuss rotational grazing. Brett Eisminger of the Kiwi Fence Company will explain the process of building corners and braces for high-tensile fences. Gary Watkins of Vigortone Ag Products will discuss mineral supplements for grazing cattle.

A fitting and showmanship demonstration, cattle judging contest, and Pennsylvania Junior Cattlemens Association meeting will take place in the afternoon. Commercial exhibitors for equipment, feed, and service companies in Pennsylvania also will be on hand.

To get to the Harvest Plantation, take Route 322 west of Franklin for six miles to Route 427 north toward Cooperstown and watch for the signs. For more information about the event, contact Lowell Wilson at (814) 863-3659, Bob Hay at (814) 443-1691, Lee Snyder at (814) 374-4684.

AUGUST - A TIME FOR SEEDING ALFALFA

August generally provides good conditions for establishing alfalfa as well as cool season grasses. The soil is warm. Days become shorter and nights become cooler as fall approaches, and moisture is usually adequate. Except for winter annual weeds such as chickweed and henbit, both weeds and insects are usually less troublesome during the establishment period for late summer seedings.

And with all of the weather related problems we've had again this year, August may be a good time to establish new seedings to replace stands that were lost or damaged over the summer.

To assure successful late summer alfalfa seedings you must follow the proven rules for getting good stands. These include:

1) Use adapted, multiple pest resistant alfalfa varieties.

2) Be sure the soil pH and soil fertility are adequate for alfalfa. As always start with a soil test.

3) Shoot for a firm seedbed to assure good moisture in the seed zone and to permit uniform, shallow coverage of seed. Seed on time - early to mid August if possible.

4) Avoid attempting to establish alfalfa on fields with a potential triazene residue problem.

5) Seed with a properly calibrated drill to assure uniform seeding. Normally 15-20 pounds of seed per acre is sufficient for alfalfa, seeded alone 10-12 pounds of alfalfa per acre if seeded with a grass. Cultipacking before and after seeding is important, especially if the seedbed is dry.

The fluid method of seeding has been consistently successful. But be sure to cultipack before and after seeding.

6) As stated earlier, weeds and insects are usually less of a problem for late summer as compared to spring seedings. However, many alfalfa growers still prefer to use a preplant herbicide such as Eptam when grasses are not included in the mixture.

Now let's take a closer look at several different seeding situations you may face this August.

1) Seeding Alfalfa on a Prepared Seedbed - one of the most likely situations. Follow the rules listed above. A firm seedbed is a must. Heavy rains after seeding with possible serious erosion always a threat when seeding on a prepared seedbed.

2. No-Till Seedings in Small Grain Stubble - an excellent method to start a new seeding. Be sure to suppress or destroy any existing vegetation or weeds using an approved herbicide. Volunteer small grains after seeding could be a problem and may require control with a herbicide. The heribicide Poast with a crop oil concentrate is approved. Stand loss from erosion, due to heavy rains, with a no-till seeding is minimized. And, time of seeding is not quite as critical with a stubble seeding.

3) Alfalfa Seeded Immediately After Alfalfa - still not a recommended practice for several reasons. Weeds and insects are likely to be more of a problem. The nitrogen produced by the established alfalfa is most beneficial to corn or another grass crop. And there's still the concern of autotoxicity from the old alfalfa plants. If you insist on following alfalfa immediately after old alfalfa, destroy the existing plants by plowing, heavy disking or approved herbicides and wait at least two weeks, preferably three weeks, before attempting to reseed.

4) Replanting A Spring Seeding Failure - if you know what caused the failure last spring and can correct the problem, there's no reason why you can't reseed the field this August. Autotoxicity should not be a problem. But destroy the existing vegetation, prepare a good seedbed and follow the other rules outlined earlier.

5) Patching Up Thin Stands of Spring Seedings - a common problem again this year. However it's one that we haven't had much success with. If large areas are void of alfalfa plants, destroy the existing vegetation in those areas and start over. Over-seeding with timothy in early September may be one way to get something established to give you more feed next year.

The queen of forages has had some rough years and 1991 has been no exception. But alfalfa is still queen of the forages. A little extra effort to get a stand established in August will mean more high quality forage, and more $'s in your pocket next year.

Certified Angus Beef Program Expands Staff

WEST SALEM, Ohio — Three staff members have been added to help handle the growing demand for Certified Angus Beef products, said Louis M. "Mick" Colvin, executive director of the American Angus Association's specification-branded beef program.

Joining the Certified Angus Beef Program staff are Larry Dorsey as director of cattle production programs, Jennifer Plocher as director of promotional activities, and Curt Terry as assistant director of the retail division.

Larry Dorsey, a native of Bozeman, Mont., will work as director of cattle production programs in the supply development division. He will be responsible for coordinating sire progeny tests for carcass performance in order to expand the carcass expected progeny difference (EPD) base of the American Angus Association.

Dorsey will work with both registered and commercial Angus producers to locate and assist those interested in testing sires and/or serving as test herds.

Dorsey was previously employed as operations manager for Jolly Roger Angus Ranch in Belt, Mont. He has also served as a regional manager for the American Angus Association. Dorsey received his B.S. in agriculture production-animal science from Kontana State University.

As director of promotional activities, Jenny Plocher will be responsible fcr the develcpment and coordination of promotions at food service, retail, and export levels. Her duties will include organizing conferences, seminars, and contests; developing point-of-purchase material and programs; and coordinating trade show participation.

A native of Covington, Ohio, Plocher was previously employed by Mid East United Dairy Industry Association as director of consumer marketing. She has also worked as director of consumer affairs for the Ohio Beef Council. Plocher received her B.S. in home economics education from Ohio State University.

Curt Terry, a native of Tahoka, Texas, joins the staff as assistant director of the retail division. His responsibilities include the licensing and compliance of retailers. He is also involved wlth coordinating retail promotions and furthering the retail industry's awareness and education of what opportunities the Certified Angus Beef Program offers them.

He was graduated from Texas A&M University with a B.S. degree in animal science and M.S. degree in meats and muscle biology. Terry was previcusly employed by the American Sheep Industry Association as director of research and technology. He worked primarily with development and establishment of the Certified Fresh American Lamb program.

Canadian Live Hog Duty Rate Increases

DES MOINES, Iowa — The countervailing duty on subsidized Canadian market hogs entering the U.S. has increased dramatically as a result of a new calculation by the U.S. Commerce Department.

The new rate of about $15.86 (U.S. dollars) per market hog reflects the relatively high subsidy payments paid to Canadian pork producers by the Canadian federal government and the various provincial governments during the time period of April 1, 1989, through March 31, 1990.

The new deposit rate went into effect in late June and is the highest since the duty on Canadian hogs was imposed in 1985 at the initiation of NPPC. This preliminary rate is subject to adjustment when the Department of Commerce announces the final rate. However, no significant changes are expected when the final rate is released, which will probably be this fall.

"The increase in the duty rate shows how the countervailing duty helps offset the imbalance in trade created by Canadian subsidy programs," said NPPC President John Hardin. "Canada's subsidy programs, particularly the federal tripartite program, continue to be the root of our trade differences with Canada."

Also in June, the U.S. Commerce Department finalized the countervailing duty rate for the time period of April 1, 1988, through March 31, 1989. Canada will now be required to pay about $7.61 (U.S. dollars) per market hog sold in the U.S. during this time.

The countervailing duty on Canadian hogs has not been affected by the recent series of appeals that resulted in the removal of the duty on Canadian fresh, chilled, and frozen pork.

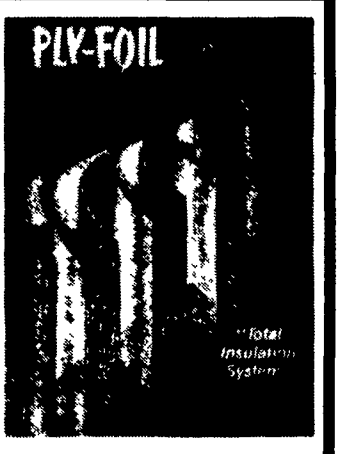
PLY-FOIL is a very efficient form of insulation. In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective at controlling heat gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.



PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity; do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less.

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

Continuous Duty Rating:
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul.

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

FEED EFFICIENCY

Duane Stevenson
Farm Management Agent
Northampton, Lehigh and Schuylkill Counties

This is continued from last week.

Purchase and sale records should have the quantities of livestock product purchased and sold. From the sum of sales plus closing inventory, subtract the sum of all sales and opening inventory to calculate the quantity of production of each livestock enterprise. (Refer to chart in last week's column.)

Cost of Feed

From the feed records it should be possible to determine the cost of a pound of feed fed. The feed cost to produce one production unit is calculated from the pounds of feed fed for the production unit times the cost of one pound of feed.

Example: The feed cost to produce one pound of milk could be figured by: .33 (pounds of feed fed to produce 1 pound of milk) X $.18 (cost of one pound of feed) = $.06 per pound or $6.00 per 100 pounds. Now compare the feed cost to the gross revenue of the production unit to determine whether you have a loss, or money remaining to cover the other operating expenses.

From this point it would be relatively simple to convert this information to returns per $100 feed fed, which is one of the most common measures of feed efficiency.

Feed Performance Guides

Dairy:

1. Ranges from 45 to 60 percent of total cost, depending on feeding program and per cow milk production.
2. Cow weighing 1,200 pounds requires 16 pounds air dry feed for daily maintenance plus 8 pounds additional in last two to five months of pregnancy.
3. 60 pounds of 3.5 percent milk requires about 24 pounds of air dry feed.
4. 1,200 pound cow in first six months of pregnancy milking 60 pounds of 3.5 percent milk requires about 40 pounds of air dry feed daily. 40 percent for maintenance and 60 percent for milk production

Beef Cow/Calf:

1. Feed cost is usually about 50 percent of total cost.
2. Feed cost is usually about 75 percent of variable costs.

Beef Cattle:

Feeding:

1. Feed costs run 70 to 80 percent of total production and overhead costs.
2. Cattle generally will consume 2.5 to 3 pounds of air dry feed per 100 pounds of body weight.
3. Strive for a cattle feed conversion of 1 pound gain for every 7 to 9 pounds of 14 percent moisture feed on finishing rations. The better feed conversion will be associated with high concentrate rations. As a general rule, rapid gains result in improved feed conversion.

Finishing Cattle:

At 1.5 pounds per day gain (600 pound cattle) maintenance alone requires 53 percent of feed. At 2.6 pounds per day gain (600 pound cattle) maintenance alone requires 39 percent of feed.

Slow winter gains result in more feed per pound of gain. Slow winter gains usually must be compensated for by cheap spring pasture gains.

Wintering Yearling Cattle:

At 0.5 pound per day gain maintenance alone requires 77 percent of feed.

At 1.0 pound per day gain maintenance requires 62 percent of feed. Strive for 2.5 to 2.75 pounds per day salable gain in finishing period.

Swine:

Farrow to Finish Feed cost generally runs 65 to 75 percent of total costs. Very efficient operators: 1 pound pork 3.4 Strive to average 1.4 pounds salable gain per head per day or better.

Feeders:

Average feed consumption: 5.6 pounds feed per day with equal mix of 50 to 225 pounds hogs.

Poultry:

Layers average 3.4 pounds feed per dozen eggs pro-

Fortune Magazine Names Bobcat Skid-Steer Loader To Best List

FARGO, N.D. — 'Fortune' magazine has named Bobcat skid-steer loaders to its exclusive list of the 100 best-made American products in its spring/summer issue entitled, "America, The New Century."

Looking in depth at the subject of competitiveness in America, the business magazine cited 100 American-made products ". . . that deserve the superlative, 'The World's Best'." This is the second time Fortune has compiled the list — the first was published in 1988 — and both times the North Dakota product earned the America's Best title.

The Bobcat, built by the Melroe Company, was included in the construction and farm equipment category, one of 14 categories ranging from communications equipment to consumer goods to pharmaceutical products and transporation equipment. The list of 100 products included such industry giants as Caterpillar bulldozers, John Deere row-crop planting equiment, Hewlett-Packard scientific equipment, Walt Disney amusement parks, General Electric communication satellites, and Chrysler minivans.

To be considered for the top 100, according to Fortune's editors, ". . . an item had to be made by a company headquartered in the U.S., with at least half of its added value coming from design or manufacture within American borders." To make the final editorial cut, the story stated, "the object had to incorporate the best technology, design and reliability, and offer the greatest value for its price."

In narrowing their list, "...we gave priority to those products that have blazed new technological frontiers or have demonstrated sustained market leadership." Melroe Company has maintained better than 50 percent global market share in the skid-steer loader business, despite the presence of more than two dozen competitors worldwide.

In compiling the "100 of America's Best" list, Fortune editors consulted scores of industry associations, trade publications, security analysts, management consultants, and customers.

Nearly 20,000 Acres In Berks Farm Programs

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Richard Troutman, chairperson of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said Berks County farmers enrolled 19,989 acres in the 1990 acreage reduction programs for wheat and feed grains.

Based on a USDA report, the total crop base acreage includes 3,534 wheat acres and 16,455 feed grain acres.

Under the 1991 programs, farmers have the option of planting permitted crops, other than the program crop, on up to 25 percent of the crop acreage base. According to Troutman, Berks farmers intend to plant 604 acres of "flex" acreage to soybeans and 493 acres to other crops.

Participating producers will be eligible for price support loans and deficiency payments. "When they enrolled in the programs, wheat and feed grain producers were allowed to request 40 percent of their projected 1991 deficiency payments in cash."

Wayne Co. Ag Preservation Accepts Applications

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The Wayne County Agricultural Land Preservation Board is now accepting completed applications for purchasing agricultural conservation easements in Wayne County.

The Wayne County Agricultural Land Preservation Board was created in December 1989.

The Wayne County Agricultural Land Preservation Board's primary goals and objectives are to:

• Administer a program for purchasing agricultural conservation easements in accordance with Act 149.

• Promote efforts to support the agricultural community in Wayne County.

• Encourage the use of additional farmland preservation techniques through public and private organizations in Wayne County.

• Adopt rules of procedures and bylaws governing the operation of the county board.

• Purchase, in the name of the county, or jointly with the commonwealth, agricultural conservation easements within agricultural security areas.

The Pennsylvania State Agricultural Land Preservation Board annually sets a spending threshold. These thresholds are a minimum of $10 million dollars per year. The threshold for 1989 was $25 million, for 1990, $20 million, and 1991, $21 million. These were the maximum amounts allowed statewide for each of these years. The authority to issue bonds under Act 149 will expire after December 31, 1998.

Wayne County's pool of money has been generated by county contributions by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners plus grants and matching funds by the State of Pennsylvania. The amount and type of funding was based on real estate transfer taxes in each county.

Wayne County landowners interested in considerations for the conservation easement purchase program are reminded that their application must show the minimum eligibility criteria.

In order for a site to be prioritized for easement purchase, a landowner must submit a completed application form for the purchase of conservation easements. The Wayne County Agricultural Land Preservation Board will accept all applications for the purchase of conservation easements if the application meets the minimum criteria listed here. Failure by the applicant to meet the minimum criteria will result in a rejection of that application. Therefore, the applicant will not receive the benefit of being prioritized. All applicants who have been rejected by the board for the reason of not meeting the minimum criteria will be given a written notice of the rejection along with an explanation of the reason(s) why the application was rejected.

The following criteria are prerequisites for a conservation easement sale. The farmland tract must:

• Be located in an agricultural security area.

• Be used as part of a normal farming operation that is capable of generating annual gross receipts greater than $25,000.

• Contain 50 percent of soils in the capability classes by the United States Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service.

• Contain 50 percent harvested cropland, pasture, or grazing lands.

• If harvested cropland, be capable of producing sustained yields per acre equal to the county average yield per acre for that crop as published by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistical Service (PASS).

In addition:

• The purchase of conservation easements on any one farm will not exceed 40 percent of the total accumulated dollars available each year for conservation easement purchase and cannot exceed $5,000 per acre. This amount includes any incidental costs associated in buying the easement.

• Any one farm that has an appraised value exceeding 40 percent of the annual allocation or $5,000 per acre will be considered for conservation easement purchase if the landowner is willing to meet the above criteria.

• Any offer to sell a perpetual easement at a price less than the appraised value may qualify as a conservation contribution.

For additional information about the Wayne County Agricultural Land Preservation Program and the Conservation Easement Purchase Program, contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, Courthouse, Honesdale, PA 18431 or call the office at (717) 253-5970, ext. 239.

MANAGEMENT

duced over a 41 week lay (controlled environment house). If the flock is moulted, 3.5 pounds per dozen.

Feed Quality

Crops which are properly managed will tend to be higher in protein, nutrients, etc. Improved nutrient quality can decrease the amount of feed being fed, thus adding a few more dollars to your pocket.

Many grain mills end lower grade grains with the better grade grains. Then, if the nutrient quality is lower, livestock will eat more feed and forages to achieve their bodies' needs.

Good nutrition can help control other costs such as veterinary and medicine by enhancing good herd health. Feed wastage is another unmeasured but significant cause of excessive feed costs.

Many times we forget the differences in quality when reviewing our forages. Hay, silage, pasture, and etc. are assumed to not vary in protein and nutrient quality. Quality can be improved without extra cost by simply doing a better job of what is already being done.

The biggest area for improvement is cutting forages on a timely basis. Don't let this enterprise be the one to suffer or let it be last on your list. You can more than double your protein and nutrient values when the forage is properly and timely harvested.

Pasture grazing quality can even be improved by adopting intensive grazing practices. Intensive grazing will be a topic covered in a future article. The bottom line is doing a better job of managing our forage crops so improved quality will add value to the crop.

Problem Identification

A logical approach to feed cost problems is to first establish whether the cause is price or quantity.

Are quantities excessive on a per-animal-day basis or per-unit-of-gain basis? If not look, carefully at price. If cost per unit (pound), is not excessive, then quantity must be.

If the problem is quantity, is it quantity per animal per day (indicating waste) or only quantity per pound of production? The latter might indicate ration quality, imbalance, or animal health problems resulting in subperformance.

Conclusion

Keep in mind that the measurements used in this article are general guidelines. Hopefully your livestock enterprise(s) are better.

The year-end results or records measure the effectiveness of the farm plan or budget. A disappointing outcome does not mean the plan was poor; there are many uncertainties in agriculture. There are also factors such as misjudgments and incorrect information that can be avoided in future planning.

Recognizing what went wrong or what improvements can be made should lead to future enhanced profit potential for the livestock enterprise. Maybe one area to improve on in 1991 is keeping feed records on individual animals, lots or pens, and purchases or records for a whole enterprise.

Wet brewers grain is more than a good feed. It's a good business ingredient.

Each day, up to 100,000 U.S. dairy cows feed on rations containing wet brewers grain That's because their owners know it minimizes feed costs while it maximizes production

Wet brewers grain is a high-protein feed ingredient. It's always fresh, because it's delivered directly to your dairy. It fits into most programs, is easy to handle, and easy to store.

Call us today. One of our professional feed consultants will help you work wet brewers grain into your ration, so you can make it a profitable ingredient for your business.

EBY
ALUMINUM GRAIN BODY

CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction.
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot - never needs painting.
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work.

Krause

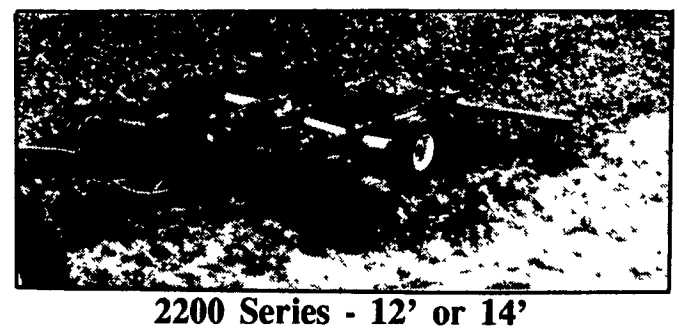
disc harrows save you money

...WHEN YOU BUY ONE
...WHEN YOU USE ONE
...WHEN YOU TRADE ONE

BEFORE YOU BUY A NEW DISC HARROW THIS SPRING CHECK THREE THINGS:

1) PRICE per POUND

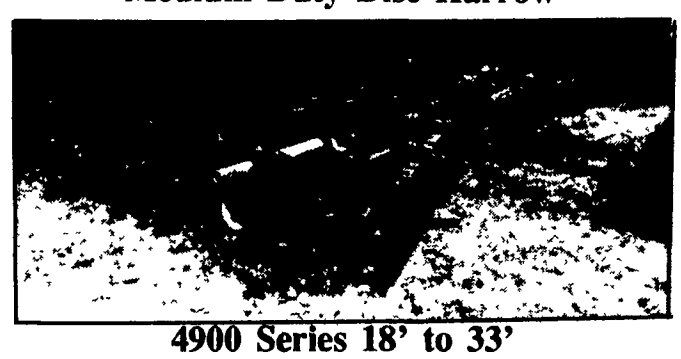
Krause Rockflex discs cost less per pound than most discs available today. Whether you are looking for a 12' or a 30' disc, compare price per pound.



2200 Series - 12' or 14'
Medium Duty Disc Harrow

2) PARTS AVAILABILITY & PRICE...

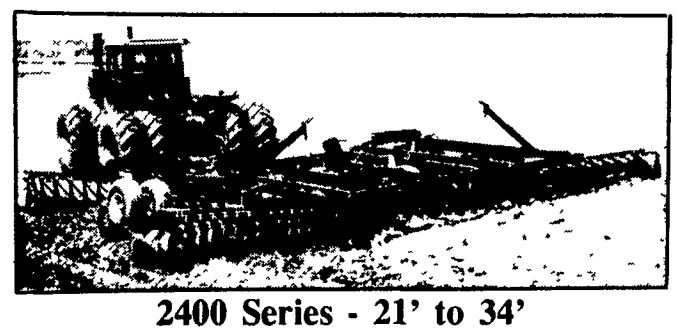
Krause Rockflex disc parts are in stock at HOOBER'S when you need them. With over 100 units being sold per year, you know that when you buy a new disc from us, we will have your parts when you need them. AND AT PRICES LESS THAN THE COMPETITION.



4900 Series 18' to 33'
Medium Duty Disc Harrow

3) TRADE VALUE IS THE HIGHEST...

When you go to sales this Summer to watch a KRAUSE disc sell, you'll find out that there is no machine that maintains its value better than a KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISC. They always bring top dollar.



2400 Series - 21' to 34'
Heavy Duty Disc Harrow

Why are KRAUSE Rockflex discs such a great value?
It's simple!!! They WORK, AND WORK, AND WORK, AND WORK, AND WORK...

Daryl Grumbine holds champion ram, a Dorset.

The trophy signifying the 1990 Lebanon Fair supreme champion cow seems to glow under the shared grasp of sponnsor Dale Maulfair and Becky Hostetter, who also holds the halter of her top cow, Dale Pride Monique Roxy. From the left are Ayrshire and supreme dairy judge Earl Keefer and Lebanon County Dairy Princess Terry Hill. One of the largest county fair dairy competitions in Pennsylvania, with more than 200 entries last year, look for another two-days of dairy cattle events ending in a supreme contest at this year's Lebanon Area Fair.

Maryland DHIA

May 1991

The May 1991 DHI information for Maryland herds is listed by herd name, county, total number of cows in the herd, and the average production per cow on a 3.5 percent fat corrected milk (FCM) basis. The herd must consist of a least 10 cows averaging 60 pounds ormore of 3.5 percent FCM per cow per day and be on official test. Also listed are the top 10 herds for Brown Swiss, Guernsey and Jersey breeds, and the top eight for Ayrshire.

IUP Student Interns With Grange

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The PA State Grange welcomed a New Castle student, as an intern to assist the legislative director and public relations director.

Jennifer Cummins, who is the National Grange Female Youth Ambassador, will be writing articles, reviewing Senate and House bills, and attending meetings, among other duties.

"I'm looking forward to learning how the state office of the Grange operates," Cummins said. "I have always been an active member of the Grange and I want to know first hand how the whole state works."

Cummins is a senior at Indiana University of Pennsylvania (IUP) majoring in political science. At IUP she has served as vice president of both her sorority, Alpha Xi Delta, and the Panhellanic Council. Following graduation she hopes to attend law school and work as a lobbyist.

She is the daughter of William and Jane Cummins of New Castle.

Summer Snacks

Softball and soccer, swimming and tennis, county fair preparation and harvest... we're all on the go with summer activities. Our active schedules mean we need more calories, but may have less time for meals. Help fill in the extra food needs with easy-to-make snacks from the microwave oven. They can be sweet and gooey like candy bar-flavored bars or be more nutritious like granola muffins. Children love snacks as much or more than adults and they are ideal for children to make in the microwave oven.

The food processor makes a handy mixer for small quantities of batter such as this. It serves a double purpose by grating the carrot into fine pieces as it mixes the other ingredients.

Carrot-Granola Muffins

¼ cup margarine or butter
1 egg
1 medium carrot, peeled and cut into 3 pieces
½ cup buttermilk or sour milk
¾ cup unsifted all-purpose flour or whole wheat flour
½ cup granola cereal
¾ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda

1. Insert metal blade into food processor bowl. Place brown sugar and margarine in processor bowl. Process with short on-off motion until creamy. Add egg, carrot and buttermilk; process until carrot is in fine pieces. Add remaining ingredients; process just until combined.

2. Spoon batter into paper-lined muffin pan or custard cups, filling ½ full. If desired, sprinkle tops with additional granola.

3. Microwave (high), 6 muffins at a time, 2 to 3 minutes or until no longer doughy, rotating once or twice. Reapeat with remaining batter. 12 Muffins.

TIP • If you don't have a food processor, shred the carrot and add along with buttermilk. Or, combine the egg, buttermilk and carrot in blender and process until carrot is in fine pieces. Add to creamed mixture along with flour mixture.

Nutrition Info/Serving: 136 calories, 2g protein, 6g fat, 19g carbohydrate, 150mg sodium, 18mg cholesterol.

Individual cookies are possible, but difficult to make in the microwave because they each cook at different rates. This recipe eliminates the potential problem of uneven cooking by precooking the mixture in a bowl. The hot mixture is then quickly spooned onto waxed paper to form cookies.

Microwaved Macaroons

2⅔ cups flaked coconut
⅔ cup (half a 14-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
1 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract
Food coloring, if desired

1. Combine all ingredients in 2-quart glass mixing bowl. Tint mixture with favorite food coloring if desired.

2. Microwave (high), uncovered, 6 to 7 minutes or until mixture loses its gloss, stirring 3 or 4 times. Immediately spoon by teaspoonful onto waxed paper, pressing together with fingers to form cookies. Cool completely. Remove from paper to airtight storage container. About 36 Macaroons.

TIP • For other variations, add 1 cup chopped nuts or use colored coconut.

Nutrition Info/Serving: 44 calories, 1g protein, 2g fat, 6g carbohydrate, 21mg sodium, 2mg cholesterol.

These bars were very popular with our staff, and a pan seldom lasted more than one day. When you aren't watching calories, we think you may find these to be another favorite for microwaving.

Yummy Mound Bars

½ cup margarine or butter
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup sugar
2⅓ cups (8 ozs.) flaked coconut
1 can (14 oz.) sweetened condensed milk
2 cups (12 ozs.) milk chocolate pieces

1. Microwave (high) margarine in 12x8-inch glass baking dish about 1 minute or until melted. Stir in crumbs and sugar until combined. Press mixture firmly and evenly into bottom of dish.

2. Stir together coconut and condensed milk. Spoon over crust; spread evenly.

3. Microwave (medium - 50% power), uncovered, 9 to 11 minutes or until heated through, rotating dish once.

4. Microwave (high) chocolate pieces in uncovered glass bowl 2 to 3 minutes or until softened. Stir until smooth. Spoon onto coconut mixture; spread to cover. Refrigerate to set chocolate, about 1 hour. Cut into bars. About 48 Bars.

TIPS • Add ½ cup chopped, toasted almonds to coconut mixture for a delicious variation.

• With full power (high), microwave in Step 3 for 4½ to 5 minutes, rotating dish twice.

Nutrition Info/Serving: 125 calories, 2g protein, 7g fat, 16g carbohydrate, 75mg sodium, 3mg cholesterol.

These yummy bars not only satisfy a "sweet tooth," they supply extra energy with a generaous amount of peanut butter. To assure even cooking, the mixture is cooked in a bowl before being processed into the baking dish.

Peanut Butter Cup Bars

1 cup peanut butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
Frosting:
¾ cup semi-sweet or milk chocolate pieces
1 tablespoon margarine or butter

1. Combine peanut butter, sugar and egg in glass mixing bowl. Beat until creamy.

2. Microwave (high), uncovered, 2½ to 3 minutes or until mixture is slightly dry and crumbly, stirring twice. Press into 10x6-inch baking dish: press firmly into dish using back of spoon.

3. Place chocolate pieces in 1-cup glass measure.

4. Microwave (high), uncovered, 1 to 2 minutes or until glossy. Stir until smooth. Add margarine and stir until blended. Spoon onto bars; spread to cover. Refrigerate to set chocolate, about 30 minutes. Cut into 1-inch bars. About 60 Bars.

Nutrition Info/Serving: 44 calories, 1g protein, 3g fat, 4g carbohydrate, 23mg sodium, 0mg cholesterol.

Farm Work Is Done And It's Time To Get Married

On July 13, Eric and Melissa Garber not only got hitched but also hitched up their farm wagon to a John Deere tractor and hauled the bridal party from the church to the reception in Mount Joy. Photo by Jonathan Charles.

Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Some farmers have a difficult time letting their tractors set even when the field work is finished. Such is the case of Eric Herr and Melissa Garber.

The farm work was done and it was time to get married on July 13. The couple not only got hitched but they also hitched up their farm wagon to the Garber's John Deere and hauled the bridal party from the Mount Joy Mennonite Church to the reception held at the Country Table Restaurant along Route 230.

According to reports, Eric used a lot of elbow grease to clean off the manure and polish the tractor for the procession. Straw bales covered with white pellon cloth provided seats for the bridal party. The wagon was decorated with silk streamers, balloons, and a sign that read, "The farming is finished — just married - Eric and Melissa."

The bridal party tied a collection of farm-related noise makers to drag from the back of the wagon. The items included a pair of old work boots, black milker hose, old pesticide container, worn out jumper cables, and other items.

Eric Herr is in farming with his dad Donald H. Herr of Lampeter. They farm 130 acres of which 12 are tobacco, milk 60 dairy cows, and raise steers.

Melissa is the former 1990 Alternate Lancaster County Poultry Queen. Her parents are James and Martha Garber of Mount Joy. The family farms 1,000 acres, raises layers and hogs plus operates a trucking division.

The whole wedding was a farmers' event as the 12-member bridal party are farmers or work at ag-related jobs. Four sibblings of the bridal couple and 16 nieces and nephews participated in the wedding.

After a honeymoon to St. Thomas, the couple will reside in Strasburg and continue farming, of course.

Tracy Wagner Represents Three Counties

TIONESTA (Forest Co.)—Tracy Wagner, 16, of Tionesta was crowned the dairy princess for Clarion, Venango, and Forest counties. She was crowned at the Clarion County Park by Jan Harding, program director of the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc.

Tracy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Wagner of Tionesta and helps on the family farm of Gay-Mar Holsteins. The family owns 125 Holstein cows. Tracy is a senior at West Forest High School and is active in the basketball program, FHA and the National Honor Society. When not working on the family farm or participating in school activities, Tracy is an active member of the Venango Co. 4-H Dairy Club and this year was awarded the Junior Dairyman Award as well as being awarded a Holstein jacket as high point dairy project from the PA Holstein Association from the Venango County Fair. She also is a member of the Venango County 4-H County Council.

To help finance her reign, Tracy and fellow 4-H Dairy Club members will sell a cookbook called Royal Recipes, which is a collection of recipes from dairy princesses during the past 20 years.

Jan Harding, program director for PDPP, crowns Tracy Wagner to promote the dairy industry in Clarion, Venango, and Forest counties.

Watermelon Board Changes Regulations

ORLANDO, Fla. — The National Watermelon Promotion Board (NWPB) announced changes to its rules and regulations.

The changes provide an additional 10 days for handlers to report and remit assessments following each month of handling. The changes also provide an additional 10 days before late charges and interest penalties are incurred on last payments.

Handlers must now remit the required producer and handler assessments directly to the NWPB not later than 30 days after the end of the month the watermelons were handled. Remittance of assessments shall be by check, draft, or money order made payable to the National Watermelon Promotion Board or NWPB.

The assessments shall be accompanied by a handler's report. Handlers may obtain handler's reports from the NWPB at P.O. Box 140065, Orlando, FL 32814-0065.

Late payment charges will now be imposed on any assessments not received before the 40th day after the end of the month the watermelons were handled. The late payment charge will not be applied to any assessments postmarked within 30 days after the end of the month the watermelons were handled.

In addition, interest will accrue to any account for which payment has not been received by the last day of the second month following the month of handling. Interest continues monthly until the outstanding balance is paid to the NWPB.

The board received many comments regarding the time allotted for reporting and remitting assessments. Some handlers stated that 20 days following the month the watermelons were handled was insufficient time to obtain the necessary information to adequately report their handlings and remit the required assessments. Such handlers stated they would benefit from an additional 10 days to file their reports and pay the assessments.

YORK COUNTY 4-H FAIR

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS

YORK (York Co.) — More than 1,000 projects will be on display during the annual York County 4-H Fair, July 24-27 at the York Fairgrounds.

"We have a variety of project areas, everything from basket-making to ceramics, entomology to foods, gardening to clothing, stenciling to woodworking, and much more," says Jodi Myers, York 4-H extension program assistant.

Project displays will fill the fairground's spacious Grandstand building, while a host of educational and fun events are planned for both 4-H'ers and fair visitors.

General public activities kick-off at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 25, with the 4-H dairy round-up in the livestock arena of the fair's cattle housing barns. Tractor driving contests get underway at 1 p.m.

Features on Friday, July 26, include the York County Holstein open class show at 10 a.m. and 4-H Olympics, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Saturday, July 27, is packed with events, beginning with lamb and beef shows, and rabbit judging, all beginning at 9 a.m. A pet parade at 11 a.m. is followed by demonstrations of seeing eye puppies, horse club and fashion show, all at noon. Shooting sports, rocketry and a bicycle rodeo get underway at 2 p.m.

The ever-popular petting zoo will be open Friday afternoon and Saturday, with a 50-cent entrance fee. All other 4-H Fair activities are free of charge and open to the general public.

FREE YOURSELF FROM SPREADER CHAINS AND SAVE MONEY

The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the grief and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.'

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

BEILER ENGINE SERVICE

This twin 20 hp is becoming very popular for hay balers and other applications traditionally equipped with 2 cylinder Wisc. engines and can also replace the older 4 cylinder engines on some applications.

This engine has been in use on hay balers for over 10 years and is doing a very good job. We can also mount Wisc. clutches or reductions on it for some applications. Fuel efficiency is very good.

Buy now while we still have this heavy duty engine. New model coming next year.

ENGINE DESIGNS THAT MAKE EVERY DROP COUNT

★ Ask For Special Price On 146 & 175 Loaders!

■ Come check these 65- to 95-hp tractors for outstanding economy. Especially fuel economy!

It's due to John Deere features like a manifold design that keeps intake air cooler...low-friction, high-ring pistons...low rpm. Plus other engine features that skimp on fuel but not on power.

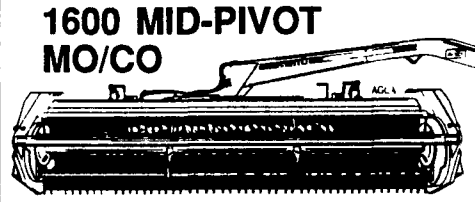
You've got a steep torque rise of up to 24 percent for great power reserve at 80 percent of rated engine speed.

■ Ask for a demonstration and see. Then check over the other standard features. They'll make you wonder why we call them "economy tractors"...until you see the prices.

JD 2555 MFWD 65 HP Turbocharged With 16 Speed Hi-Low Shift Trans., Fold-Down Roll-Gard And Much More! Cash Or Standard Rate Financing $25,900... Or... 7.9% Variable Rate Financing For Up To 60 Mos. For Qualified Buyers.

JD 2755 2 WD Sound Gard Body, 75 HP Turbo-Charged With 16 Speed Hi-Lo Shift Trans., 540 & 1000 PTO And 18.4x34 Rear Tires, Cash Or Standard Rate Financing- $29,500...Or... 7.9% Variable Rate Financing For Up To 60 Mos. For Qualified Buyers.

1600 MID-PIVOT MO/CO



ASK FOR A DEMONSTRATION!

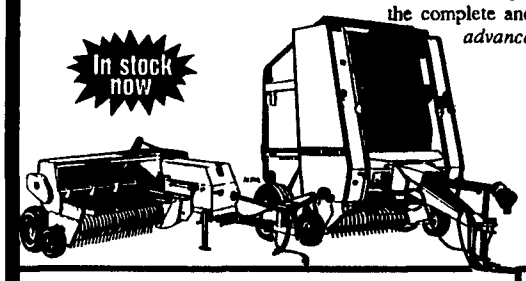
- Mid-pivot 1600 Mo/Co comes in 12-, 14- and 16-foot widths
- Wider 110-inch rolls, exclusive design
- Quick adjustments

- JD 1600 - 12' Pivot Tongue Mower Conditioner With Many Options - Now Only $16,500

BALE UP SAVINGS ON THE BEST BALERS

■ Look over '5' Series Round Balers and '8' Series Square Balers—the complete and completely advanced baler line

■ See square balers with the hay control to produce bales that stack like bricks



SQUARE BALERS:
- JD 328 Baler - $8,875
- JD 338 Baler - $9,775

"This Is The Kind Of Silo You Need For This Fall's Corn Silage!"

CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF POURED CONCRETE

WE WANT TO HELP!!!!!!

Contact us soon to discuss "special discounts" for early orders on silos for fall. During the "lull" between our busy spring season for wilted hay storage and the even busier fall season - we are anxious to help during this period when milk prices and cattle prices are down.

"NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE YOUR BEST DEAL ON A POURED CONCRETE SILO FOR 1991."

No used silos!
No rebuilt silos!

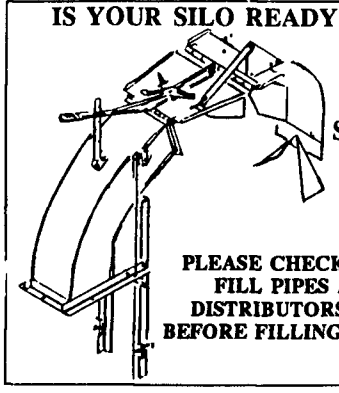
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete
STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo

HOT COWS IN THE SUMMERTIME

If Pennsylvania temperatures continue on their May - June pattern, you can be sure that cows will be looking for a cool place to hide all summer. The common situation on most dairy farms that I've seen in this area is that there are few, if any, cool places for cows to hide. Cows usually are much appreciative if they are offered some relief from the summer heat and humidity. They have been known to return the favor by giving their owners more milk, and also by rebreeding easier and more quickly.

This summer, I will present a series of articles on how to minimize heat stress in dairy cows. Let's first begin by discussing heat stress in general terms.

Cows most enjoy temperatures between 45 and 55 degrees. When temperatures reach 75 or 80 degrees, they become stressed. Rumen fermentation generates a great amount of heat, thus requiring cows to dissipate more heat than non-ruminants. In addition to the heat produced in the rumen, other sources of heat gain are associated with physical activity, basal metabolism, and radiative (solar) heat gain.

Cows attempt to keep cool by losing as much, or more, heat than they gain. Cows demonstrating the following behavior are heat stressed: 1) increased rate of respiration and perspiration; 2) lying flat on cool surfaces, such as bedding or the ground; 3) decreased feed intakes; 4) increased water intakes. Blood flow distribution is also altered, favoring peripheral circulation, but most people can't see this change.

If cows can't dissipate all of the heat gain by the above behavioral changes, their body temperatures rise further, thereby causing feed intakes to dramatically drop. This is when cows really get stingy with the milk and go on strike. If severe enough, the last symptom of heat stress is death.

In my next article, I'll discuss some management tips that will help cows keep their cool, and tolerate the summer heat.
